Seale Is Sentenced

CHICAGO — District Court Judge Julius Hoffman yesterday declared a mistrial for Black Panther leader Bobby Seale on riot and conspiracy charges and sentenced him to four years in prison for contempt of court in courtroom outbreaks which have characterized the trial of the "Chicago Eight."

He ruled that the trial of the seven other defendants charged with conspiring to incite riots during the Democratic National Convention should continue.

Nixon Is Happy

WASHINGTON — One year after his election, President Nixon said yesterday "We're going to come out well in the end." It was a happy day for Nixon, both because of his election a year ago and because of "a couple of big victories" Tuesday.

He was referring to the elections of Nixon-supported governors in Virginia and New Jersey.

Republicans Win

WASHINGTON — President Nixon refused yesterday to take personal credit for two major upsets of Democratic Party rule. Nixon had endorsed victorious candidates Rep. William Cahill as governor of New Jersey, and A. Lincoln Holton as governor of Virginia.

Democrats led New Jersey for 16 years and Virginia for 100 years. Nixon said he is "rather happy" about the elections.

Ogilvie Warns SIU

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Richard Ogilvie suggested yesterday that Southern Illinois University may be jeopardizing its future programs through the board of trustees' decision to build a $1 million mansion for its president.

"I would classify it (the mansion) as a very unfortunate decision. It is difficult to get substantial allocations for an institution when something like this occurs," he said.

Kidnappers Kill Boy

SAN PAULO, Brazil — Unidentified kidnapers lived up to their threat and killed the 15-year-old son of an American director of the Brazilian affiliate of Swift and Co., meat packers, police said yesterday.

The boy, Patrick E. Dolan, was kidnapped last week but his parents did not report the incident because the kidnappers threatened to kill the boy. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Dolan, paid an undisclosed ransom last weekend.

Six Teens Charged

PHILADELPHIA — Jack Thomas, 52, jobless father of three children, was released from jail yesterday and six teenage neighbors who accused him of handing out trick-or-treat apples containing razor blades were arrested for filing a false police report.

Thomas was being held on $10,000 bail while a guard at the project in which he lived, Matthew Glochich, 44, conducted a private investigation of the case. He persuaded the police to investigate further, leading to Thomas' release.

Warman Backs Moratorium

by ED MURNANE

State Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 13th District, called Wednesday for Democratic support of the Nov. 13 through 15 Vietnam peace moratorium and said his own stand on Vietnam is closer to President Nixon's than the stand of his Republican opponent, Philip M. Crane of Winnetka.

Warman's remarks, confined strictly to the Vietnam War, were made at the 13th Congressional District Democratic Woman's Club luncheon in Schaumburg.

He said he supports a "peaceful peace moratorium" as a means of showing "that this terrible war must end."

But he added his own stand on the war is closer to the policy outlined by the President Monday than is the stand of Crane.

Missing Records Hold Back Audit

Records needed to complete the audit of Hoffman Estates special assessments are not available, Village Pres. Frederick Downey said Monday.

The announcement came during comments on the otherwise completed audit of village records for the 1968-69 fiscal year.

"It is not clear who has what, or where it all is," Downey later told the Herald. He explained that records were given to different attorneys representing the village in litigation with the Teamsters Union over special assessments four, five, and seven.

THE ORIGINAL RECORDS were first turned over to James Flynn, the attorney who originally represented the village in the Teamster's suit.

They were then passed on to Peter Schultz and Russell Topper, who followed Flynn in handling the case.

Schultz and Topper later left the case to Edward Hofert, current village attorney. Downey and other village officials have suggested that Schultz and Topper might be holding the records in lieu of payment they believe are due from the village.

The board does not believe any money is owed to either of the attorneys.

A meeting is tentatively scheduled for Nov. 18 or 19 between the auditor, the village attorney and the village treasurer to determine what is needed and who has it.

IF TOPPER OR SCHULTZ have the needed records and do not release them on request, they will be subpoenaed for them, Downey said.

Mrs. Laura Reedy, treasurer, has copies of all the records. A current list of the bond holders on the special assessments is the only item that is not up to date, she said.

Trustee William Cowin explained that copies of original records can not be used in a certified audit. He added that a list of current bond holders is often an impossible thing to obtain.

An up-to-date list of what has been paid out on the special assessments is also held by the village, Mrs. Reedy said.

Atcher Promoted For County Clerk

Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher may be a candidate for Cook County clerk in 1970.

Atcher told the Herald yesterday he was asked to appear before the Cook County Republican slate-making committee Nov. 19. Atcher's candidacy for the clerk's position is being promoted by Schaumburg Township Committeeman Donald Totten, a member of the slate-making committee.

Asked if he was interested in the clerk's position, Atcher said, "I'm not adverse to it. There is a tremendous amount of improvement needed in the county clerk's office, particularly as it relates to suburban areas."

He did not close the door to other county positions. "I would be interested in any office I have the talent to attend to," Atcher said.

ATCHER, 55, has been mayor of Schaumburg for 10 years. He is currently president of the Northwest Municipal Conference.

He views the county clerk's office as a full-time job. The mayor's post in Schaumburg is also full time. If he is slated, he will continue as mayor during the campaign period.

Atcher, well known as a singer and radio-television personality, said, "If elected county clerk, I would resign as mayor." The county clerk's job is viewed as important by the political parties because the clerk is in charge of all election machinery and elections within the county.

The present clerk is Democrat Edward

Barrett, 69, who has held the post since 1965. His political career began in 1930 when he served as state treasurer. He has also been state auditor and secretary of state. He's expected to run again but his age makes him vulnerable to defeat.

The Democrats have controlled the post since 1910.

"THE REPUBLICANS have a better chance of winning the clerk's office this year than before. Anyone involved in the last election realizes the books are not being properly kept. The voter registration books come out to us with people who belong not included and people who don't belong included," Atcher said.

The GOP has considered Barrett invincible in the past, Atcher said. "His Republican opponent was usually considered a sacrificial lamb," he said.

Totten said Atcher was also considered for a suburban Cook County commissioner, but the strength of his name would enhance GOP chances with Chicago voters. Suburban commissioners are elected by only suburban voters.

Other Republicans could also be introduced to the GOP slate-makers for county clerk. Reportedly no one has applied for any of the county offices that are up for election.

ATCHER RAN unsuccessfully for state senator from the Third District against incumbent John Graham in the primary in 1966. He also toyed with the idea of seeking the GOP nomination for the 13th District Congressional vacancy this summer.

The Schaumburg mayor has been active in Republican campaigns for county, state and national offices.

He has lived in Schaumburg Township since 1965 and played a major role in incorporating the village and its subsequent development.

ROBERT ATCHER

Robin Buys 65 Acres For Commercial Use

The sale of more than 65 acres of land at Golf and Barrington roads, Hoffman Estates, has been sold to Albert Robin, Robin Construction Co.

The property is adjacent to the Peter Robin development and will be used for commercial development. The property was sold by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Hartzell.

Larry Mayer of Edelberg-Mayer & Associates handled acquisition of the property. Attorney William Brady of Elgin represented the sellers.

Edelberg-Mayer & Associates will also serve as leasing agents for the commercial portion of the Peter Robin development.

Police Plea Denied

The request for an additional police officer in Hoffman Estates was turned down Monday by the village board.

The village's financial situation was given as the main reason for denying the request made by Police Chief John O'Connell.

An additional 2½ men will be available because Inverness will not be using Hoffman Estates Police services after Nov. 30. Inverness has switched over to the Palatine Police Department. Hoffman Estates had asked $32,000 per year to provide the service. An additional $4,000 was requested in a new contract offer to make up for unexpected expenses to Hoffman Estates during the two years of service to Inverness.

THE INVERNESS board decided instead to sign with Palatine for $34,000 per year.

Hoffman Estates Mayor Frederick Downey said, "I find it hard to believe that the village of Inverness, with its affluence, could not see fit to provide the extra money and continue with Hoffman Estates."

Downey said it seemed logical to want to take advantage of the experience the Hoffman Estates department gained during two years of service to Inverness.

O'Connell said he understands the Hoffman Estates financial position. He added that he still feels need for an additional man and appealed for one as soon as possible.

O'Connell cited a population increase of 3,300 during the last year.

Kaufman and Broad developers expect to complete 150 units by spring of 1970, O'Connell said. Peter-Robin developers expect to complete 480 units by July 1970, he added.

Ask 'Open Heart' On Christmas Day

Hanover Park residents are being asked to open their doors Christmas Day for "Open Heart."

"Open Heart" residents will be entertaining servicemen from Great Lakes Naval Base. Any Hanover Park family who would like to host a serviceman from about noon to 7 p.m. Christmas Day is asked to contact Mrs. Kenneth Rasmussen at 837-2988.

Mrs. Rasmussen said the special guests would include both wounded Vietnam veterans recuperating at Great Lakes Hospital and young recruits spending their first Christmas away from home.

The "Open Heart" committee includes Robert Berry of the Hanover Park VFW chapter; Charles Soble of the local American Legion Post; Harold Engels, public relations director for the village; Mayor Richard Baker; and Mrs. Rasmussen.

The base will provide transportation for the men.

"MOST RESPONSIBLE Americans now agree military victory is neither desirable nor attainable," Warman said. "And President Nixon, in his address to the nation Monday night, apparently ruled out seeking a military victory. If he did, I support that phase of his policy."

Warman said Crane's "true position" includes combing the harbor of Haiphong "and invoking bizarre economic sanctions like closing the Panama Canal." He said Crane "has found himself in an untenable position and since Nixon has apparently overruled a military victory, my opponent is further from Nixon's policies than I am."

He listed six points which he said he would foster if elected.

"I will press for large-scale troop withdrawals and support the President if I think he is showing good faith in his attempts to bring the troops back home. I think it is possible to have our fighting men back on American soil by the end of 1970."

Jaycees To Honor

Servicemen who are now or have served in Vietnam will be honored Nov. 15 at Vietnam Day sponsored by the Streamwood Jaycees.

The Jaycees are not politically motivated and do not choose to take sides in the war issue, a publicity release states. "The intent of this project is to recognize these men as individuals and show appreciation for their dedicated service to our country," it adds.

ACTIVITIES WILL be at Tefft Junior High School, Irving Park Road, between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. All residents are welcome to attend.

For additional information, contact John Henderson of the Streamwood Jaycees.

Dist. 211 Adds Data Class

Keypunch, sorter, collator, verifier, printer.

Ten years ago few people had heard of these machines. Today they are part of the procedure called data processing, a system of recording information which is available and used by many businesses.

To meet the rising need for knowledge of how to operate data processing machines, Palatine-Schaumburg High School Dist. 211 has added a course on basic data processing to its curriculum this year.

"Actually, we, like almost all other schools, are dragging our feet about this field," Dennis Douglas, Fremd High School business department chairman, said.

DOUGLAS IS ONE of four Dist. 211 faculty members teaching the course this fall. Mary Hilman is the Palatine High School instructor and Barb Vought and Chuck Mestek are at Conant.

The four data processing classes were offered to seniors last spring for fall scheduling. The semester-long course will have two sections each at Palatine and Fremd next semester and three at Conant.

The district has rented keypunch machines for each school for students to learn how to punch cards.

"Our problem is a lack of equipment for them to work with," Douglas said. "We are teaching about the sorter, collator and other machines, but it is like teaching someone typing without a typewriter."

Douglas plans to take his class at Fremd to the Dist. 211 Administration Building for demonstrations of the collator, sorter and computer the district has.

STUDENTS TAKING the course are not all business education majors. "I would say a third of them are business majors, a third are planning to go into technical fields and a third are college-bound,"

Douglas said.

This week the class is studying the collator. "We emphasize its application to business situations, but I can see the possibility of sharing equipment with other departments."

Science uses data processing to sort and classify information for special problems. Dist. 211 science students are now sent to Harper or Illinois Institute of Technology to get computer problem-solving courses before they enter college.

After studying the operation of several machines, students in data processing will learn about the wiring of control boards in computers.

"PERHAPS IN THE future, this district will be able to expand to a computer programming course and other fields related to data processing."

The data processing course offered this semester is a general introduction to data processing. The course uses a textbook which is an instruction book for employees of companies using data processing machines.

"The ideal program would be to have a room with all the unit record equipment needed in a data processing course in it," Douglas said. "But that's a long way off. Right now we plan to continue offering the introductory course in data processing."

Graham Backs Bid With Experience

Sen. John A. "Jack" Graham put his 11 years' experience in the state Senate up for challenge Wednesday in announcing intentions to seek reelection.

Graham, 57, a Barrington Republican, is seeking his fourth four-year term. In announcing his candidacy, he promoted Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's push to state fiscal responsibility and greater highway improvements.

In addition, Graham committed himself to attention to specific Third District problems of highways, waste control, flooding, education and law and order.

posed two-cent gasoline tax on Cook County residents to subsidize the Chicago Transit Authority.

Graham was elected to the Senate in 1958 and has successfully won every bid for reelection.

Those attending Graham's luncheon and press conference were Committeemen Eugene Divitt of Hanover Township, Don Toten of Schaumburg Township, Bernard Pedersen of Palatine Township and Harold Smith of Barrington Township, and Committeewomen Mrs. Sally Catlin of Schaumburg Township and Mrs. Glen-Ann Jicha of Palatine Township.

Dick Hall, president of the Elk Grove Township Regular Republican organization, was present along with State Rep. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect. Mrs. Mary Schlott, legislative aide to State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, represented the new school.

THE SENATOR SPOKE at a press conference in The Arlington Carousal Restaurant. He was surrounded by GOP committeemen from Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg and Palatine townships and said he has been pledged the support of the Northfield, Maine and Wheeling township organizations.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He noted he was sent to the Senate in 1956 with the largest Republican plurality of any other Republican senator.

"I bring with my candidacy 12 years of working with the general assembly, the experience of working on key committees and a knowledge and ability to work with the House, important to passage of meaningful legislation," Graham said.

IN HIS PREPARED ADDRESS, Graham discounted recent claims of Democratic State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III that Illinois will have a budget surplus next year. A voter for the sensitive issue of the state income tax, Graham said if there is a surplus, "the Republican-dominated legislature will face this head-on and will reduce taxes in the areas most critical."

He called Stevenson's charges "a political vehicle used by a man aspiring to the Potomac River."

Graham said he departed from his usual position on nonreferendum bond issues during the last general assembly to support the Metropolitan Sanitary Disposal million bond issue. He said Chicago voters would not have been in sympathy with the referendum, which would mainly benefit the suburbs.

He estimated $16 million will be issued shortly for projects in the northwest area.

GRAHAM SAID BECAUSE of the General Assembly's educational bills, the Third District will receive more than $6 million in additional state aid to common schools with no increase in the real estate tax.

He said he led opposition to a pro-

Jane Addams Junior High, which is scheduled to open for pupils later this month, is a school designed with specific learning activities in mind.

The new Dist. 54 junior high is at the corner of Norwell and Springguth in the Weathersfield section of Schaumburg.

"Jane Addams is a project-oriented junior high," Principal Robert Cizek said during a tour of the new school Tuesday. Jane Addams is the third junior high, and the largest school, in Dist. 54.

ADDAMS JUNIOR HIGH, largest school in Dist. 54, will open for pupils later this month. Junior high pupils in the Weathersfield area who will attend Addams have been attending Frost Junior High in the afternoon. Sixth graders in Weathersfield will also attend Addams.

USING THE KEYPUNCH is a new experience for Joan Burnette, Linda Brandstatt, Herb Drews and Mike Menick, Fremd High School seniors taking a new course in data processing. Dist. 211 is renting keypunch machines for the data processing course offered in all three high schools.

Addams Is Geared for Action

IN ADDITION TO the school's main learning center, each academic department, art, science, music and language arts, has its own smaller learning center area for independent learning in that particular field.

There are three rooms adjoining the main Addams learning center for committee projects or group discussions involving small groups of pupils. Add Addams has four science laboratories and four science project rooms.

Cizek, who worked closely with Dist. 54 architect S. Guy Fishman in planning Addams, said that flexibility and specific learning activities were stressed in the design of Addams.

For instance, Addams has a large stage in the school gymnasium which is large enough for a gym class. And the practice room for the school band is immediately adjacent to the stage.

CLASSROOMS FOR language arts classes on the second level are divided by sliding partitions so that large group instruction and teaching may be conducted. And the learning area for educable mentally handicapped junior high pupils at Addams is divided into three sections for two separate classes. The center section will contain vocational training apparatus.

Sliding sound proof partitions will enable either class to use this central area while the other class is in session.

The large lunchroom at Addams can also be divided into three areas with sliding panels for separate learning activities. And the hall area, which is elevated, can be used as a stage for a drama group.

Addams will have a total of 27 classrooms, plus a gymnasium, learning center, band room and offices.

IN THE DESIGN of Addams, the first story is identical with the second story interior, and a line could be drawn through the middle of the building, for each half of each floor is architecturally the same as the other.

Approximately 515 seventh and eighth graders from the Weathersfield area will be attending Addams when the school is opened later this month. In addition, 10 classes of sixth graders and two classes of fifth graders will attend Addams.

"About 90 per cent of the pupils attending Addams will be able to walk to school," Cizek said. The school will have a faculty of approximately 40 teachers.

Addams Junior High will operate on a modular schedule of 16 modules a day, with each module lasting 24 minutes. On Monday, for example, a pupil may have three modules for science, but only one on Tuesday.

"THE PURPOSE of modular scheduling is to provide flexibility in the individual pupil's learning program," Cizek stated.

Eventually it is planned that Addams

Junior High will have an enrollment of 1,300 pupils.

The school's core facilities, such as offices, gymnasium and the learning center, have been planned to accommodate additional pupils.

A 12-room addition at Addams is scheduled to be constructed by the fall of 1971 in the Dist. 54 building program. Construction of Addams began in August, 1968.

STIC Plans Peace March

The Schaumburg Township Interfaith Committee (STIC) will sponsor a flashlight procession for Peace 7 p.m., Nov. 15. A Vietnam Moratorium is being planned nationwide on the same date.

"We are not aligning ourselves with the Vietnam moratorium," declared Mrs. Bobbie Cohen of Beth Tikvah Congregation, publicity chairman for the committee, which is composed of lay people from congregations in Schaumburg Township.

"THE MARCH NOV. 15 is in behalf of world peace, rather than just peace in Vietnam," said Mrs. Cohen.

The flashlight procession will begin at St. Hubert's Catholic Church, 126 Grand Canyon, Hoffman Estates, and proceed to Holy Innocence Episcopal Church, 106 Mojave, in Hoffman Estates.

An interdenominational service will be held at the conclusion of the march. Hymns, songs, Biblical passages, and secular readings will be used to promote the ideal of world peace.

Club To Consider Area Inclusion

The inclusion of Schaumburg Township in the Northwest Cook County American Independent Club will be taken up at the next meeting.

A time and date for the meeting has not been set. For further information call Bill Davis at 289-5243.

DURING THEIR LAST meeting John Cipri of Palatine was appointed acting Palatine Township Committeeman. Independent conservatives and George Wallace supporters from Rolling Meadows and Palatine are invited to call Cipri at 358-4679.

During its last meeting the American Independents Club discussed conflicts in the Democratic and Republican parties.

Changes in voting patterns and the roll of American Independents during the period of political change were also discussed.

Hobby Is on the Wall

by MARTHA KOPER

As she pursues her hobby, a Rolling Meadows woman could borrow a song from "The King and I."

"Getting to know you, getting to know all about you" is a good description of what Mrs. Beverly Bergdahl believes she can glean from a person's handwriting.

She's a graphoanalyst and enjoys telling people about themselves after studying pages of their writing. But aside from enjoyment, she thinks the job is important.

"PEOPLE SHOULD want to learn all they can about themselves," she said.

"Unless we know our strengths and weaknesses along with our problems and qualities, how will we ever know what potential we might have?" she asked.

A person's handwriting can tell almost all there is to know: Characteristic traits, sensitivity, will power, discipline, compatibility and creativity, according to Mrs. Bergdahl.

She said that whether it's good or bad news, she always tells the truth.

"It's essential to level with someone. Graphoanalysts have a code of ethics," she said.

NOT TO BE confused with a person who practices graphology, Mrs. Bergdahl has taken classes in her hobby. Working toward a higher degree, she already has completed more than 18 months of training.

Her first year-and-a-half course was finished in six months because she attended classes eight hours a day. Now she's a certified accredited member of the International Graphoanalyst Society.

But those who practice graphology do not receive formal training, according to Mrs. Bergdahl. They learn primarily from books, although she admits some graphologists can be very accurate.

"On the other hand, we not only are taught how to analyze handwriting, but also how to interpret the signs we see," she explained.

ASIDE FROM offering her talent to individuals, Mrs. Bergdahl has analyzed handwriting for private industry and police departments in the area.

Her ability is particularly useful in tracking down forgers and occasionally she's been asked to explain her interpretations in court.

At a former place of employment, she frequently was asked to analyze the handwriting of potential executives for the company.

"They usually gave the job to the one I had chosen for the most outstanding qualities, too," she said.

It's not simple or quick to analyze someone's handwriting, according to Mrs. Bergdahl.

"WHEN I FIRST started, it always took me at least eight hours to do a thorough job," she explained.

"As a matter of fact, it still takes between four and five hours," she added.

When she's finished, she delivers the results only to the person whose handwriting was analyzed. If she does not hand it to him personally, she will send it by registered mail.

"That's part of our code of ethics too. We consider analysis a very private thing and only the person should know what we have interpreted. I never discuss a person's handwriting with anyone else, either," she said.

WITHOUT GIVING away the tricks of the trade, she explained what she looks for in a person's handwriting. Interpretations can be made from the slant, heaviness, size, loops, lines, and many other meaningful signs.

The mother of three children, Mrs. Bergdahl still remembers her first exposure to handwriting analysis when she was 13 years old.

"In seventh grade, I had to give a speech. I wanted to find a subject that was different. I went to the library and found a graphology book," she said.

In the following years, her interest faded a little until about three years ago when a friend analyzed her handwriting.

"IT WAS FASCINATING how close to the truth I came to realize that analysis was. I've tried to correct the bad points," she smiled.

And so her interest has grown until now she assuredly says, "Handwriting is brain writing."

Action on Flooding Urged

by MARTHA MOSER
Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) Trustee Abe Eiserman called for a special meeting on flood control this week and touched off a very touchy subject.

"I want to inquire why the matter of a policy and plan for flood and pollution control has not been the subject of a special meeting," Eiserman said at the board meeting.

"This special meeting was directed over two months ago, at our Aug. 28 meeting," the trustee continued. "In the meantime our floods are getting worse. Our rivers are getting more polluted from combined sewer overflows."

EISERMAN'S prepared remarks were addressed to MSD Board Pres. John Egan. In follow-up statements, the Skokie trustee supported the controversial deep-tunnel project of storing effluent from combined storm and sanitary sewers during rainfall.

The unprecedented deep-tunnel concept of temporary sewage storage has been giving the MSD board decision-making neuroses since the idea was proposed in 1967. As Eiserman pointed out, during the September, 1967, meeting, the board adopted a resolution supporting the concept, then rescinded its action the following month.

"I happen to be one of the four votes in favor of that flood and pollution control plan," Eiserman said. "So were Trustees (George) Thiem and (Eugene) Dibble," Eiserman said, referring to the other Republicans on the board.

"Now, after two years loss of valuable time, the Northeast Illinois Planning Commission and our own Technical Advisory Committee recommend the same solution, namely, a system of deep tunnels," Eiserman stated.

"IF WE DO NOT readopt the policy of over two years ago and get the engineering and other items in the budget for 1970, then we are going to guarantee another year of floods and pollution to our citizens."

Eiserman took the floor to read his statement during board committee meetings Monday morning. After trustees listened politely to the statement, Trustee Nick Melas asked for a point of order and Eiserman was ruled out of order.

As the meeting adjourned for lunch, Eiserman and Egan exchanged sharp words when Eiserman pursued discussion on the subject. Egan maintained a committee is already meeting on deep-tunnel, noting the state, Cook County, City of Chicago and the U.S. Corps of Engineers are all involved in the decision.

Vinton Bacon, MSD general superintendent, got briefly into the fray when he said recommendations from a technical advisory committee meeting last year were introduced to the MSD board Aug. 28. When Bacon remarked he thought the resolution supporting deep-tunnel had been approved, Egan exploded, "No, it hasn't."

MSD STAFF engineers are trying to force a decision on flood control from their board so engineering, now at a standstill for lack of a policy decision, can progress.

Frank Dalton, MSD assistant acting chief engineer, explained the stalemate situation at the last meeting of the Council of Governments of Cook County (COG)

Dalton pleaded for some help in getting a policy on flood control. He said if the public is not in favor of the deep-tunnel program, it should give some direction which way to proceed in flood control.

Albert Smith, Skokie village president, testified during the regular MSD board meeting Monday on how flooding from combined sewer systems affects his community.

Smith spoke in favor of the deep-tunnel project and recommended it be extended from the proposed northern boundary at Toohy and McCormick to the Wilmette locks.

"THERE IS a real flooding problem in Niles Township," Smith said. "Please more move forward and help us out."

Eiserman's statement related that if the deep-tunnel project is not included in the 1970 budget being prepared, then another year of floods and pollution would be guaranteed citizens. He said the district could expect a $10 million increase over a $5 million estimate in obtainable federal funds. The deep-tunnel project is estimated at a total $2 billion.

The MSD budget by law must be passed before Jan. 1.

After COG's meeting with Dalton Oct. 22, COG set the deep-tunnel project as a theme topic for its annual meeting later this month.

NCU For Warman

The board of directors of the National Consumers Union, an organization pledged to support consumers' interests in stores and markets, has endorsed state Rep. Edward Warman, D-Skokie, in his bid for the 13th District Congressional seat.

Basis for the Warman endorsement, according to the group, is the candidate's response to a questionnaire sent to both Warman and Republican candidate Philip Crane. Crane did not answer the questionnaire, according to the NCU.

"The (National Consumers Union) board felt it was our responsibility to cast our vote for the man who has shown the most concern for consumers, and who particularly recognizes that citizens are consumers, among other things, of governmental services, and that we pay for them," the NCU reported.

ASKED BY THE NCU about his stand on consumer collective bargaining at the local level, Warman replied, "Consumers always have the right to 'strike'. Whether they should pursue 'collective bargaining' with the local store manager is not really a question of rights, rather it is a question of tactics. If the goal is limited to one's own back yard, encouraging local managers to change their practices is satisfactory. However, if the goal is broader and more fundamental change, it becomes necessary to deal with district or regional managers and consider the best use of publicity, the judicial process, and the electoral process."

And another question: "What specific plans and programs do you have for truth in labeling, truth in advertising, and the cessation of adulteration of food?"

Warman: "Obviously most advertising today is less than accurate. Advertising is not 'speech' that is protected by the Constitution. However there is a proper place for factually accurate advertising in today's economy. In fact it is essential."

"THERE SHOULD BE sufficient information on product labels to enable consumers to make economically sound choices in purchasing. If hazards or side effects are associated with the use of the product, these should be indicated on the product's label."

"All presently existing food and cosmetic products should be reviewed for safety by the National Academy of Sciences and the National Research Council, just as drugs have been reviewed."

Warman responded to seven questions posed by the NCU. The candidate concluded by saying "the questions you raised are really too broad and pregnant with implications to answer simply. However, I hope I have made my basic approach and positions clear."

Wheeling Township Republican Committeeman Richard Cowen announced this

The Almanac

The Almanac
By United Press International
Today is Thursday, Nov. 6, the 310th day of 1969 with 55 to follow.
The moon is between its last quarter and new phase.
The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.
The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.
On this day in history:
In 1860, Abraham Lincoln was elected President.
In 1869, Rutgers beat Princeton, 6-4, in the first formal intercollegiate football game.
In 1953, U.S. Attorney General Herbert Brownell charged former President Harry Truman had named Harry Dexter White head of the International Monetary Fund knowing he was "a Russian spy."
In 1965, the U.S. and Cuban Premier Castro reached agreement on the orderly airlift of 4,000 Cuban refugees to the United States each month.

A thought for the day: American poet Ella Wheeler said, "No question is ever settled until it is settled right."

week the beginning of "Project Unite," an attempt to unify supporters of various 13th Congressional district candidates.

Freund Yonkers, Wheeling Township Republican Organization vice-chairman, was appointed by Cowen as coordinator of the project.

Cowen has sent a letter to all candidates in the recent congressional primary election asking for names of persons who assisted in the candidates' campaigns in Wheeling Township, "so we can contact them and interest them in continuing political activity with our organization."

Orphan Pup Would Like A New Home

A black mongrel puppy with white paws was thrown out of a car driving along the Edens Expressway earlier this week.

Without the help of a truck driver, the dog surely would have died in the heavy traffic. The truck driver stopped, rescued the dog and took him to Orphans of the Storm, an animal shelter in Deerfield.

Although the shelter will provide a temporary home, the orphaned puppy is waiting for someone to offer him a new home.

THE NONPROFIT shelter temporarily houses all kinds, sizes, and ages of dogs, cats and other abandoned pets. Depending on the health of the animal and the number of residents at the animal orphanage, the pets are kept as long as possible. The shelter has housed one dog since 1957.

Although Orphans of the Storm provide the animals with shelter and food, "Most of them really need a family to love," a shelter spokesman said.

Animals may be adopted from 1 to 5 p.m., seven days a week at the shelter, 2200 Riverwood Road, Deerfield. A donation of $20 to $35 is asked to defray the shelter's expenses.

ical activity with our organization."

IN A LETTER to the primary winner, Philip Crane, Cowen complimented the victor and asked for a list of Crane's Wheeling Township workers willing to assist the local Republican organization. The letter also asked for names of members on the Crane campaign staff, stating, "This will be helpful in channeling offers of assistance coming to us in the areas of finance, volunteer efforts and press contacts."

In announcing Project Unite Cowen reiterated a basic premise of the organization he leads. "There is room for people holding to every shade of Republican persuasion in the Wheeling Township Republican Organization. Our aim is uniting all Wheeling Township Republicans into a single, powerful, effective force for action," he said.

Legislation recently approved by Governor Richard B. Ogilvie raises from $3 to $4 the fees for filing original statements, continuations, amendments, assignments, partial releases and terminations when filed on the standard 5 by 8 inch form.

There is also an additional fee of $1 per filing when the standard form is not used, and another fee of $1 per page for each additional page presented for filing, Powell said.

THE LEGISLATION also provides for obtaining a list of filed financing statements

Chinatown Stirs as Young Challenges Old

By RICHARD M. HARNETT

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Chinatown, San Francisco's best-known tourist stop, is stirring with discontent.

Behind the century-old walls of its temples and restaurants, the largest Chinese community outside Asia is seething with change.

The youth are forming into "Red Guard" and "Wah Ching" gangs.

New immigrants, arriving by the thousands, are rebelling against the economic slavery of the kitchens and sewing shops.

The elders, whose authority is founded in thousands of years of Chinese culture, are being challenged.

Crowding, a way of life in the 17-block area around Grant Avenue, is becoming intolerable. One study showed a population equivalent to 98,000 persons per square mile, compared to an average of 15,700 for the city.

"During the past two years there has been a critical change under way in Chinatown," says Moon "Chip" Eng, a young sociologist engaged in University of California research project. "From a self-contained society, it has become one that is joined to the rest of the community."

San Francisco has 70,000 Chinese, half of them living in Chinatown. A new wave of immigration is bringing in an estimated 4,000 to 8,000 a year as a result of ending the quota system that allowed only 105

Chinese a year to enter the country.

"The ones that's running it (Chinatown), the ones that got the money, they don't dig us," says Clifford Tom, a leader of the Red Guard, a tough band of Chinese youth who have taken up an alliance with the Black Panthers and the radical Students of San Francisco State College.

"We are here to bail out the problems of Chinatown," Tom adds. "We are just trying to help the community. We want to save it for the people instead of the rich pigs."

On the other side of the ferment in Chinatown is the "Six Companies" representing the elders.

"Why do we have problems now in Chinatown?" asks Kenneth Lee, Six Companies executive director. "Because the younger generation refuses to take advice from the elders." The youth and the new immigrants should be "more humble," he says.

Humble Chinese have been content to wash dishes or operate ancient sewing machines in the community's 160 small dress factory sweatshops.

Many of Chinatown's problems involve its social isolation from the American mainstream. It is probably the only community left in the country where an immigrant may never learn English well enough to answer the telephone.

"The 'Wah Ching' are the immigrant youth. They are not a humble or docile group. To show their defiance of the elders they smash beer bottles on the front of the Six Companies' temple.

During a confrontation with school officials Chinese pupils threw cherry bombs and splattered an assistant principal with eggs.

The Chinese new year parade, usually a gay climax to a week of peaceful celebrating, turned into a riot this year. Eighty-nine persons were injured, 35 were arrested. A police car was set afire and officers were bombarded with cherry-bombs converted into nasty weapons by being dripped in glue and thumbtacks.

New comers arrive by the plane-load from Hong Kong. Each immigrant has a promise of a job or a family who will take care of him. The trouble is that the conditions they find in Chinatown may appear worse than the conditions they left in Hong Kong.

"They are spoiled so in China that they do not want to wash dishes. They say they are not accustomed to that," complains an elder.

Trying to enforce health and minimum pay standards in the sewing shops and kitchens of Chinatown has frustrated government officials and labor unions. People who know say it is true that adults work for as little as 50 cents an hour.

The Chinatown business establishment has "not been willing to initiate or confront any proposals for improving the conditions," the San Francisco Human Rights Commission complained recently.

In the past such problems got little head from the outside community. Chinatown was able to take care of its own problems, or at least keep them within the district.

The famed Chinatown detail of the San Francisco Police Department has had little to do since the days of the notorious Tong wars among the Kwan Ducks, Hip Yees and Ong Sunges that faded before World War II. In 1964, when seven per cent of the city's population was Chinese, less than two per cent of its juvenile arrests were Chinese.

"Chinatown was quiet for so long that it seems now like an explosion," says officer Ron Schneider of the Chinatown detail.

"Actually, what's happening is that the youth are becoming Americanized. All youth are revolting and the Chinese are catching up with it, catching up with society in general."

The Red Guard, the most militant youth group, evolved early this year from the "Le Way," an organization of ex-delinquents which aimed to give young Chinese a "legitimate way."

The Red Guard began with a manifesto bearing a picture of "Chairman Mao" and declaring: "We the Red Guard want an end to the exploitation of the people in our community by the avaricious businessmen and politicians ... We want an immediate end to the brutal harassment of our people by the racist pig structure."

At a rally in Portsmouth Square, the Guard invited David Hilliard, a leader of the Black Panthers, to speak. He told the young Chinese they were "the Uncle Toms of the non-white people of the U.S.," and urged them to "stand up and stop being Toms ... stand up and do something."

Sociologist Eng says the youth are being "forced into an extreme position" because of the rigid structure that has prevailed so long.

The Six Companies has been in effect the government of Chinatown. It cared for the needy, administered justice, and appointed authorized ambassadors to the outside community. It lived up to its 100-year-old constitution which established it as "a general board of arbitration to handle all disputes referred to it."

Eng observes that the Chinese were cut off from the mainstream of American life not by their own choice. Historically the Chinese immigrant has not been welcomed into the country in the "land of opportunity" spirit. He was cheap "coolie" labor for building railroads and highways.

The Chinese are confined in Chinatown largely because that is where the city wanted them. Eng believes Chinatown only seems explosive now because it has been "so rigidly structured in the past."

Can Rock and Bach Coexist?

The Music Educators National Conference, in a bold proposal to its members, last week called on the nation's music educators to help bridge the generation gap by making rock and other youth music part of the school music program.

The MENC, which represents 50,000 music teachers in elementary and secondary public schools, colleges and universities, declared it "not only accepts rock and other present-day music as legitimate, but sanctions its use in education."

Dr. Wiley L. Housewright, MENC president, said the conference speaks for music education in the nation and MENC "will provide leadership in asking for a change of teacher attitude and teacher acceptance" of music by the young. MENC is a national affiliate of the million-member National Education Association.

CALLING ATTENTION to the role music can play in a troubled society, Housewright, who is dean of the school of music at Florida State University, said: "Music is a humanizing force that can unite us in a divisive age, that can heighten communication in an era when human relations cause so many problems."

In suggesting that youth music be taught in the classroom, Housewright noted that this is perhaps the first time that educators are being asked "to recognize the spirit of the younger generation by including youth's own expression in the curriculum."

Writing in the November issue of the Music Educators Journal, official magazine of MENC, Housewright asserts that traditionally the nation's youth have found musical expression through church choirs, marching bands, choruses, and orchestras.

But that's not enough for hundreds of thousands of today's youth who have produced a new music—vibrant, original and honest—and more importantly, their own.

FOR EXAMPLE, the MENC president explains: "Young people's music can be held at bay outside the institutions of society as it largely is at present, or it can be recognized as a vital and welcome new regenerative force and invited to assume a respectable position in the American musical culture."

Rock, soul, blues, and folk, Housewright declares, "cannot be ignored" because "there is much to be gained from the study of any musical creation."

Barred from the classroom as being "too loud, too boisterous, and too unmusical," rock music—described as the "people's" art—has been forced into bar rooms and pop festivals. At the same time, Bach, Brahms, Beethoven and Mozart have held center stage as the unchallenged "masters" in American music education.

But, argues Housewright, art is non-exclusive and he points out that "one musical art cannot repress another." Rock and Beethoven can "coexist as necessary and significant communicative expressions," he adds.

"TO DELIMIT CONCERT halls, schools, and colleges to a steady diet of the 'masters' is as absurd as permitting only Euripides, Shakespeare, and Moliere to be performed in the theater," Housewright charges.

In explaining that youth music is not a musical fad, Housewright contends that adults, for the most part, have not been listening.

"It is a fact that youth music—and particularly rock—has caused a confrontation... between students and teachers, between young people and their parents, and between youth music and the established musics of our concert halls and auditoriums," the music educator asserted.

He added, "rock music, I believe, is an issue that needs to cause no further generation gaps, no further confrontation between student and teacher."

Housewright said the MENC leadership feels that "young people have created a vital musical expression which cannot be ignored in the schools if music education is to be relevant and if we are to produce a discriminating, musically involved generation for the future."

Army Offers Scholarships

Male high school students who plan to enter college for the first time in the fall of 1970 may apply now for 1,200 four-year Army ROTC scholarships. The scholarships are awarded annually on a competitive basis to outstanding high school graduates.

Each scholarship pays for the student's tuition, textbooks and lab fees and provides a $50 per month subsistence allowance for the duration of the award except for a six-week summer camp period when the student receives one-half the pay of a second lieutenant.

The scholarship winner may attend any one of the 273 colleges and universities offering the four-year Army ROTC program. Except for officer training subjects, which are taught by Army professors of military science, the ROTC student pursues the same academic courses in the field of his choice as any other student.

Application closing date is 15 Jan. 1970. Announcement of scholarship winners will be made in the spring of 1970. The scholarships become effective with the opening of the 1970-71 school year.

Since part of the scholarship selection is based on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or the American College Testing Program (ACT) test, high school students who intend to compete for one of the awards should take one of these tests given nationwide on November 1, 1969 for the SAT and December 6, 1969 for the ACT.

It is the responsibility of the individual student to have his test scores sent to the Army ROTC Scholarships, HQ, Fifth U.S. Army, Fort Sheridan, Illinois 60037.

Any student or counselor desiring information or applications for the four-year scholarship program should write the above address.

The Lighter Side'Santametrics'?

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Exercises, as I pointed out the other day, are becoming increasingly specialized. Books on Yoga, isometrics and aerobics are enjoying big demand.

Hoping to cash in on this trend, I have begun work on an exercise book to be called "santametrics." It specializes in Christmas exercises.

The purpose of "santametrics" is to help people get in shape to withstand the Yuletide shopping season and attendant struggles.

To appreciate the need for such a book you must understand that people who are shopping for Christmas gifts use different sets of muscles than are employed in normal daily pursuits.

For instance, anyone trying to get himself into condition for Christmas shopping should adopt an exercise program that includes a lot of push-ups.

These would strengthen the muscles he uses in pushing his way up to department store counters.

The program also could include a lot of chin-ups. These will help him get his chin up off the floor after he has been knocked down by other shoppers.

Another important exercise for the Christmas shopper is the sit-up. After he has made a few shopping expeditions, he probably will have to spend a few days in bed. This exercise will hasten the time when he will be able to sit up and take nourishment.

Dick West

And it goes without saying that the regimen will call for an assortment of kneebends to help get the shopper in condition for carrying heavy parcels from one point to another.

At some point, the shopper's knees will start to buckle. But if he has had the kneebending exercises, he will be able to recover his equilibrium before reeling into a Salvation Army kettle.

One particularly specialized exercise will be designed to limber up the right index finger. This is the digit that a man places on knots, bows, etc., when he is helping his wife wrap packages. It must be both strong and supple to perform that function properly.

There will be a thumb and index finger exercise to prepare people for twisting Christmas tree light bulbs in and out of their sockets. The average Christmas tree light bulb lasts about 49 seconds. So unless the thumb and index finger are fit and working well together as a team, fatigue will quickly overtake the bulb twister.

Any student of "santametrics" should survive until Dec. 31. To put you in shape for New Year's Eve, I'm writing another exercise book called "hangoverobics."

Warman and Crane Meet

Edward Warman and Philip Crane, battlers for 13th District congressman, will "meet the press" Friday when Chicago newsmen interview the candidates in public forum.

The event will be at 7 p.m. in St. Athanasius School gymnasium, 2510 Ashland Ave., Evanston.

Democrat Warman and Republican Crane will face Less Brownlee, WLS television education writer, Walter Jacobson, WBBM television political commentator, and John Elmer, Chicago Tribune political reporter. Edward A. Mearns Jr., of Evanston, Northwestern University professor of law, will be moderator.

John B. Wolff of Evanston is chairman of the committee arranging the forum. It is sponsored by the Community Life Committee of St. Athanasius Parish Council and the Evanston League of Women Voters.

The public is invited and refreshments will be served after candidates' presentations.

Community Becomes School

Several residents of the Northwest suburban area, including state Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, will participate in a conference entitled "House Bill 256 — The Community Becomes the School," today and tomorrow in Rockton, Ill.

The conference will draw educators and civic leaders from the northern Illinois area to discuss extending school activities into fields in which area businesses can contribute.

Mrs. Chapman, sponsor of HB 356, which allows the use of noncertificated persons to provide specialized instruction for students, will speak at 10 this morning.

SHE WILL BE introduced by Dr. Rodier.

Movie on Red ChinaReset by Dist. 211

The November movie-lecture series presentation in the Dist. 211 travel and adventure series has been rescheduled because seating in Cutting Hall will not be installed in time for the Nov. 10 meeting.

"Red China" will be shown at 8 p.m. Nov. 25, in Cutting Hall at Palatine High School. Season tickets for the five remaining presentations are still available at the administration building, 1750 S. Roselle Road, Palatine. Single admission tickets are available at the door for $1.

McLennan, assistant superintendent in High School Dist. 214, McLennan is one of the members of the Illinois Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, which is sponsoring the conference.

McLennan might be termed an activist in stressing the need for various businesses to involve themselves in educating high school students. He has often said that high schools and the community must provide as complete an education as possible for both college and job-bound students.

At 10:45 a.m., the program will break into 14 seminars. Leaders from this area include:

Harold Carlson, manager of the Randhurst Corp.; Rev. Gilbert Bowen, Community Presbyterian Church in Mount Prospect and Dr. Clarence Schauer, vice president for academic affairs at Harper Junior College, Palatine.

DR. JOHN O'NEILL, associate superintendent for the state office of the supertendent of public instruction, will speak on "The Walls Come Tumbling Down" before the groups split into seminars.

This afternoon, the group will hold the same set of seminars to allow persons to participate in a general seminar. On Friday morning a general reaction session will be held, and Dr. McLennan will again lead the program.

The program will be held at the Wagon Wheel motel just west of Rockton, which is 15 miles north of Rockford. Total distance from Interstate 90 to the motel is four to five miles.

Miniature Rooms Are on Display

Randhurst announces the opening of the Miracle White International Collection of Miniature Rooms, created by Eugene Kupjack, designer of the famous Thorne Miniature Rooms at the Art Institute.

The collection opened Tuesday and will be on display on the Randhurst Mall, during store hours through Nov. 16th.

THE MIRACLE WHITE CO. commissioned this collection of 11 miniature rooms from Eugene Kupjack, artist master craftsman, miniaturist and furniture historian. All of the rooms were designed and individually executed by Kupjack to a scale of one inch to one foot.

Among the collection of miniature rooms depicting laundry techniques from around the world, there are scenes of the White House East Room, circa 1800; Mrs. O'Leary's kitchen, prior to 1871; a back stage at the circus, circa 1915; and a Chinese laundry, circa 1910.

today into his opponent's Winnetka headquarters at 845 Pine. Philip Crane, the Republican nominee, in turn, is moving to 666 Green Bay Road, Winnetka, the former headquarters of Joseph Mathewson, defeated primary candidate.

The moves place Warman and Crane on opposite sides of the street, just as they will be on opposite sides of the Nov. 25 general election ballot.

WARMAN FORCES WILL be celebrating their "takeover" of Crane's office today and Friday with an open house. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

Larry Miller, Warman's campaign manager, said the Democrat move into Republican quarters is indicative of what is happening in the political race. He referred to Warman's raid on moderate Republicans who did not support Crane in the eight-man GOP primary battle.

"More and more Republicans and Independents are coming over to us because they are offended by Crane's extreme views on the war, on education, on suburban transportation and other vital issues," Miller said.

"OUR CAMPAIGN IS snowballing because it is built on common sense and moderation," he continued. "We're running a campaign that accommodates a number of diverse attitudes. Warman's positions are temperate and responsible. The people of the 13th District are people of good will and good sense and will elect a responsible and responsive representative."

Fremd, Conant Wins

Outstanding achievements were turned in by two area high school teams last weekend when Conant captured the Mid-Suburban League varsity football title and Fremd won the state cross country championship in 1964.

For Conant, it was the first league championship in any sport since the school entered varsity competition in 1964.

Fremd's title marked the first time a Dist. 211 school had won a state team championship.

Prep sports will never be the same in the Northwest suburbs. Fremd's victory put Dist. 211 on the state sports map. Conant's championship record was evidence of the boom of Schaumburg Township, which will not only mean strong competition from Conant and Schaumburg high school teams but increasing influence in all fields for the township.

Fremd's Vikings had tremendous hurdles to overcome in statewide competition, facing Prospect, York, Maine East, Riverside-Brookfield, Glenbard East, Glenbard West and Proviso West. But the Vikings beat them all and in doing so won the meet by 43 points.

Fremd has a good chance of repeating the feat, because Coach Ron Menely took with him to the state meet a team composed mainly of underclassmen.

Conant, after the loss of several players from last year's team, confounded the prognosticators by pulling themselves out of middle league ranking to the top. In doing so they defeated in one-two-three order three teams that were expected to lead the league. Cougars Coach Ralph Lose, asked how he felt about facing that lineup, responded in a way which showed he and his team were up to the challenge: "That's exactly how I want it. Instead of having to wait until somebody gets knocked off, we have a chance to do it ourselves."

For unusual determination in facing strong competitors and for outstanding sportsmanship and school spirit, the teams deserve a "Congratulations and well done!" For their devotion to sports, and for their skill, Coaches Lose of Conant and Menely of Fremd deserve a sincere "Thank you."

Inflation Threat to Bond Market

Continued inflation could put a serious damper on public projects needed to keep pace with suburban growth.

A number of Northwest suburban park districts found themselves in a bind last spring in their efforts to sell bonds. State legislation limited the interest they could pay, and the bond market simply required a higher interest rate. The legislature raised the rate and provided relief, at least for the time being.

In Buffalo Grove, a revenue bond issue needed to purchase a private water utility has been held up since January by a lack of bond rating for the village and the uncertainty of the bond market. Other projects have been and continue to be affected, although the Northwest suburbs — to date — have generally escaped serious delays in bond sales which have occurred in other suburban areas.

City Beat

Youth's Mettle Is Tested

by MARIANNE BRETSNYDER

One thing people always want to know is where the money is going. And with the Palatine Township Youth Organization (PTYO) it isn't any different.

There have been criticisms leveled that the organization is a private club and that nothing is being accomplished.

Teens have raised about $60,000 so far, and most of the money went into buying a house on it.

THE EXISTING buildings can't be used by teens until they are remodeled in some way. Right now the buildings aren't safe for people to use.

To accomplish renovation, the group will have to raise thousands more dollars. This will take a little time, and the support of the community.

Not only the adults in the area are needed, but the active participation of the teens is needed too. It's been over a year since the teen center was proposed, and everyone is getting impatient.

People who criticize the PTYO should realize how much work already has been done and also how much remains to be done. It doesn't help teens to demand why a center isn't opened when the group presently doesn't have the resources to open it.

THE TEENS AND the adult advisors get discouraged when they are working and it seems all they hear is criticism.

In the summer, the youth organization had dissension between the adult board and the teen board. It seemed then that the adults were trying to run the show, and maybe this is at the heart of some of the recent criticisms.

There's no doubt the teens want and need help from adults. As a corporation, they need as many advisors, financial and legal, for instance, as General Motors.

And they have made mistakes, adults and teens, that they recognize. But a few mistakes along the way won't deter them from reaching a goal.

The only thing that can stop them is the community. If the PTYO doesn't get the support and interest it needs, then it could fail. And in microcosm, it would be the failure of a whole community.

LOOKING AT the situation from its worst, it seems people are daring the youth organization to survive. It also seems they will take an "I told you so" triumph if it does fail. But it would be a hollow victory. It would be like nuclear war, with no side the winner.

It's very possible other people could be running the organization better. Anyone who thinks he can do a better job is welcome to try.

One thing the PTYO can use is honest, constructive criticism. Assistance that will try to build up instead of tearing down.

There are other things the PTYO has accomplished on its way. A high school drop-out joined the group. He has since gone back to school. The teens are proud of him, and so are his parents.

THIS IS ONE example of a lot of things like this, little, human things that have helped a lot of teens already.

It also shows that the teens need something they aren't getting anywhere else. If the center doesn't succeed, the community can turn into a place where teens just wait until they are older and can move out.

If teens want to show their support for the organization, there is something they can do today. There is a general meeting tonight at St. Thomas of Villanova church in Palatine. The meeting last week wasn't well attended, and there wasn't a quorum to pass on bylaws or elect officers.

In the final analysis, it's really up to the teens to get things moving. If teens won't show involvement, then maybe they are truly their parents' children.

IT'S TRUE THAT people get what they deserve. If the teens show up at the church en masse, they'll get the leadership and adult help they need, for there are capable adults who want to help. The teens and adults who have been working hard on this can't keep it up by themselves.

The meeting starts at 7 p.m. I hope the place looks like wait to wait teens.

Who Undermines Whom?

Wheeling Trustee Ira Bird apparently had his feathers ruffled last week, and the result was a speech by him at Monday's board meeting. That speech served only to confuse an already confusing situation.

In a speech during Monday's village board meeting, Bird attacked several recent Herald articles concerning the dismissal of four civilian police department radio operators.

BIRD CHARGED THAT those articles "undermined the village manager's authority with the village employees." In the same speech, he accused the Herald of inaccurately recounting his "thoughts" in the articles.

Bird touched briefly on his explanation last week of the matter. In that explanation Bird said the manager had decided to fire the four employees as the result of an earlier board policy, reached publicly, to phase them out.

Bird also called the article questioning the legality of board action in the executive session, "untrue."

WHAT BIRD neglected to do in his diatribe, however, was to answer the conflicting questions that those stories brought to light, and to explain the position of the board — if indeed, the board as a whole has a position.

He ignored the points made in the articles, choosing instead to attack what he termed were the stories' effects on relations between village employees and the village manager.

Let's take first things first: Bird charges the stories undermined the confidence of the village employees in the manager. If they did, it is unfortunate. However, more likely, it was the conflicting attitudes and remarks by the board members themselves concerning how much authority the manager had in the matter, which could undermine that confidence.

In sidestepping the major issues and choosing instead to attack the articles, Bird only left several important questions unanswered.

First, Bird failed to explain whether the manager has the legal authority to fire the four employees without further board action. Some trustees say "yes," and others say, "no."

Further, he chose not to explain why the board decided to implement the "phase out" policy concerning the four employees after saying last summer the decision was the manager's. Golden had gone on record prior to the dismissals as favoring civilian employees working on the police department.

THIRD, BIRD DID NOT comment on a statement by Village Pres. Ted Scanlon that the board did indeed "force" the manager to dismiss the employees. Bird also failed to answer Scanlon's charges that "Golden is shielding the board."

Other points: he did not explain why some board members claim that keeping the civilians would be illegal for the village. He did not explain whether the four have actually been dismissed or whether they will be at some future date. Lastly, he did not explain why Wheeling should have patrolmen operating its police radio equipment when all other suburbs in the Chicago area, but two, continue to use civilians.

Scanlon has said he favors keeping the civilians. He maintains that legal problems connected with the employees were eliminated last January when the board took all police powers away from the operators.

SCANLON HAS EVEN gone so far as to say that if the trustees feel the operators need additional training, the village should provide it.

Scanlon has said he feels the board forced its will on the village manager in connection with the dismissals.

However, it is the board's prerogative to hire and fire, and to delegate that power. If indeed, the board wants the employees fired, we feel it should be brought out at an open meeting with each trustee revealing his thinking on the matter.

To date, the entire matter has been handled poorly by village officials. We can only hope that will change.

The Fence Post

Gave Flag-Target to Village

The United Nations flag, which aroused a little opposition on Oct. 24, was donated to the Village of Arlington Heights by the local League of Women Voters in honor of the 24th anniversary of the United Nations. This was done with the cooperation of the village trustees, who also co-sponsored and attended the international pollock dinner that night. The League of Women Voters has studied and supported the United Nations ever since its inception and has a current position in favor of strengthening the peace-keeping and peace-building capacities of the United Nations system.

PRESIDENT NIXON asked all levels of government to help celebrate United Nations Day this year, and the League of Women Voters is most appreciative of the village administration's cooperation. We were also very gratified to be presented by the village president, Mr. John Walsh, an award for promoting nationwide observance of U.N. Day 1967. Our group has celebrated this occasion for many years and has also been very active in selling U.N.I.C.E.F. Christmas cards. Over half of the proceeds of these cards go directly to the underprivileged children of the world they are intended to help. The League of Women Voters, along with many other national organizations, supports both the U.N. and U.N.I.C.E.F., and can defend our position with facts and figures.

As our dinner speaker, Mr. Keki Bhote, stated: The U.N. has been ineffective in the political realm more times than we could wish, but this is due to the unwillingness of member nations to give up some of their sovereignty for the general good. In other less publicized and familiar ways, however, the U.N. has been very effective all over the world: in control of disease and hunger, in improvement of education and job opportunities, etc. The U.N. is not perfect, but it is the most effective tool for international cooperation that we presently have.

Resident 'Ticked' on Treat Night

I thoroughly agree with Mrs. Bonnie Yackel.

We, too, are new to Wheeling and were disgusted in being dictated to as to when our children could trick or treat. Some residents even fear being fined if their children are out on Halloween.

The patrolling of the area by police is very helpful to residents (even though one never even came down our street) but it is something done by other communities. Activities are also sponsored without having to change the date of the celebration. We have been waiting for the mayor to declare when Christmas and New Year's Eve must be celebrated. I thought the village government was supposed to help the people, not act as "Big Brother."

Between the Lines

No. 1 Team, Now Get Those Lights!

by MARY REIFSCHNEIDER

Last Saturday and this Saturday are dates to remember for supporters of high school athletics in Schaumburg Township. Exciting things are starting to happen.

Watching the football game last Saturday between Conant and Palatine High Schools that determined the championship of the Mid-Suburban League left no doubt for the fans — Conant is Number 1.

Maybe I'm just prejudiced because I was surrounded by Palatine High School freshmen (you forget how obnoxious this age group is) but everything connected with Conant looked superior. From the starting kick-off to the very end, Conant played an impressive game.

THE PERFORMANCE of Conant's band, matched that of the football team.

Those kids were well rehearsed as both a playing and a marching unit. One young lady kept her cool when a bathroom tissue streamer thrown from the Palatine side draped her. She stepped out of it without losing a beat.

Over 2,000 Conant fans were at last Saturday's game to see the team's finest hour.

This Saturday, fans are being asked to show their support again. Conant students will be participating in a "Light Walk" to raise money for lights for the football field and tennis court.

For the walk, Conant students will get money pledges from parents, relatives and friends. The further they walk, the bigger grows the funds for the lights that will enable the Cougars to play football at night next year. Students may walk up to 20 miles on their trek through Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg.

"THE LIGHT WALK" is being organized by the Conant Cougar Booster Club which must raise $35,000 for the lights.

There is no limit on the amount of money that can be pledged per mile.

The Conant Boosters are committed to help Schaumburg High School raise funds for night lights there when that school opens in 1971.

The Conant team's performance last Saturday made Schaumburg Township residents justifiably proud of local youth. This Saturday adults can show youth that they think high school athletics are important by supporting the "Light Walk" with ample pledges.

Size, Speed — Numbers — on All-Stars

by PAUL LOGAN

FOOTBALL COACHES IN the Mid-Suburban League should be real proud of themselves, they made just about every prep player who had some talent very happy.

There were 45 players named to the MSL all-star team and 22 others selected to the honorable mention squad.

But is tabbing such a large number to such an honored list the reason for having an all-conference team?

I don't think so. Such an elite squad should have its limits so that the prestige that a high schooler gains from being selected will remain high. Some of the luster of finding one's name on the list must be gone after viewing the results of last Monday's balloting.

Such reasons for the huge honor roll were a larger conference (by only one team) and a great number of ties on the voting. But these are hardly good enough reasons for more than doubling 1968's all-star total (23) and having twice as many on the honorable mention list over last year!

If you can, instant replay the '68 campaign and you'll recall the greatest team in Paddock area history — Arlington. The Cardinals were probably one of the top five teams in the state. Their depth was amazing, a miniature Ohio State.

Mike Severns

From that fabulous team which finished 9-0 and ranked near the top of the list in all state polls, only six players were given places on the all-star team. And none of the other multi-talented Cards landed honorable mention spots.

This week Conant had eight all-league selections and four on the honorable side of the ledger. In all, there were six other teams that placed five or more boys in the two categories!

None of these teams is presently ranked among the top ten in Illinois and only three players are being pushed by the coaches for all-state honors.

Hopefully in 1970 the MSL coaches will reduce those lists and eliminate any chance for ties. Possibly having just a single player for each position on offense and defense might be ideal. Then, instead of having an honorable mention selection, have a second team composed of the runner-up in each of the first team positions.

Somewhat the word "STAR" must be put back in the title All-Stars.

DO YOU KNOW anything about construction work?

If so, then your help is needed. This Saturday, barring wet weather, volunteers are meeting at the Forest View High School varsity baseball diamond to begin pouring cement for the new dugouts.

The work is connected with the Frank May Project, a fund that has been raising money for the education of children of the Hal Sprehe family. Sprehe, who had been the baseball coach at Forest View, was electrocuted early last summer.

Plans are in the works to complete the dugout near the first base line before winter. Then, next spring, the volunteers will put in the home team dugout. They are also hoping to install a permanent fence and resod portions of the field. When the ballpark is completed, a dedication ceremony is planned to name it Sprehe Field.

Palatine Panthers Challenge St. Bede's for League Crown

The Palatine Panthers Junior football team has been preparing this week for its final game of the '69 season. At stake is the Northern Illinois Junior Football title. Palatine faces St. Bede's Jr. High for the title Sunday.

The Panthers stopped the Gagewood Packers last Sunday 18-14 at Gages Lake to claim first place in their division. St. Bede's had little trouble in disposing of McHenry 18-6 for their division title. Palatine ended its regular season play with a 7-0 mark with St. Bede's finishing at 6-1 in their league.

Backs Lon Marchel, and Greg Grupe along with speedster Tom Bullen have accounted for the Panthers success offensively.

So far several area companies have donated materials and equipment. The big need now is manpower.

If anyone is interested in assisting either through volunteer work or material donations, you can call these three men who are in charge: Head baseball coach Tom Sidel (GA2-6962), Keith Koentopp (392-1455) or Frank May (537-7377).

HARRIERS FROM FREMD and Prospect take note — Attend Harper College next fall and you'll possibly wind up challenging the best in the United States at the National Junior College finals.

This fall the Harper cross country team was just one good man away from going undefeated in duals, winning the Northern Illinois Junior College League title, and capturing the Region IV championships.

Instead, the Hawks finished 11-2 in duals, second in the NJCL and runnerup also in the regional showdown last Saturday.

In each case, the fine team coached by Bob Nolan lost to the College of DuPage, but only once by a wide margin. And so the Harper team will have to stay at home a week from this Saturday when the finals will be run at Pittsburgh, Pa.

If Harper can gain some additional help from the state's newly crowned champions — the Vikings, and also some aid from the third ranked harriers — the Knights, a nice trip to the national finals could be in the offing in 1970.

AUGUSTANA COLLEGE'S backfield owes a lot to Mike Severns.

The senior guard, who was a top line-man and wrestler at Forest View, has been doing it all for his backfield — pulling well, opening up gaping holes, and protecting the quarterback — while leading the Vikings to a 5-2 record so far this season.

Severns, whose hometown is Elk Grove Village, is a co-captain on offense with guard Mark Flore. Their head coach — Ben Newcomb — had this to say of his guards' play:

"They are tremendous team leaders and I've relied heavily on their squad leadership. That's probably the measure of their value."

Severns is a physical education major and is minoring in history. He is also tri-captain of the team.

While at Forest View, the 5-10, 215-pounder had the distinction of being the first Falcon to go to the state tournament in wrestling. At that time he was a slim, 180 pounds.

CONGRATULATIONS ARE in order for two rookie coaches in the area — Mike Fruse and Ed Cheatham of Forest View.

Both mentors handled football players for the first time this fall and this combination proved highly formidable. They guided the Falcon Freshman 'B' squad through an undefeated season (7-0-0) and captured the Mid-Suburban league title.

Five of the games were shutouts. The only two teams to score on the Fruse-Cheatham led team were Glenbard North (34-12) and Wheeling (44-2). For the season this young team outscored the opposition 164-14!

FOOTBALL FEVER is just about finished for the fall and all good sports will be turning their attention to basketball.

During the next couple of weeks the park districts in the Paddock area will begin organizing basketball leagues and many will sign up. But before most of you still think you'll get a youthful body sign up, get a checkup.

Several months have passed since many have been active out-of-doors and those pounds of fat add on quickly. A physical examination is recommended for everyone once a year, so why not plan to get yours each fall before you begin such strenuous sports as basketball and handball.

Those two are real heart-stoppers!

HERSEY'S SKIP PETERSON

PALATINE'S BOB CARR

Coaches Honor 45 Boys

The 1969 All-Mid-Suburban League football team boasts size, speed, talent, some underclassmen and, more than anything else, numbers.

The 10 head coaches from the Mid-Suburban League schools were to pick 33 players for All-Conference honors but due to numerous ties in the voting, no less than 45 players were given the title of "All-Conference."

Halfbacks, Jim McGraw of Conant and Skip Peterson of Hersey and guard-linebacker Bob Carr of Palatine were chosen by the coaches as deserving of statewide honors.

Joining McGraw and Peterson at the halfback position were Bob Moloznik of Fremd and Tom Patch of Palatine. The final rushing standings finished in that order: McGraw, Peterson, Moloznik and Patch.

Rounding out the All-Conference backfield were quarterbacks John McDonald of Conant and Rich Olson of Forest View and fullbacks Chuck McGinn of Fremd and Bruce Frase of Hersey.

The offensive ends were two speedsters, Chris Andriano of Palatine and Casey Rush of Prospect, and two strong tight ends, Gene Pinder of Elk Grove and Wayne Meier of Forest View.

The offensive tackle position was made up of all seniors and all were over 190 pounds. The selections were Bob Weber and Steve Tonneff of Hersey, Jack Hult of Arlington and Fred Bosley of Conant.

When picking the All-Conference guards, the coaches leaned toward smaller, quicker preppers who could pull out and lead end sweeps. With this in mind, Greg Swanson of Forest View, Bob Carr of Palatine, Duke Martin of Conant and Carl Anderson of Arlington were the choices.

Two centers were picked for the team and they were seniors Jeff Creek of Fremd and John Thomas of Palatine.

On the defensive unit, the coaches went with Don Spry of Hersey, Brian Janus of Wheeling, Dave Kellermeyer of Conant, Bob Smith of Fremd, and John Ingo of Forest View as the ends and Tom Reed of Fremd, Tom Brantner of Hersey, Tom Harris of Arlington, Chuck Drake of Palatine, Bill Craighead of Wheeling and Dean Burns of Conant as the interior linemen.

CONANT'S VERSATILE JIM MCGRAW

At linebacker, the MSL head mentors selected Mike O'Malley of Conant, Scott Murphy of Fremd, Bill Michalek of Forest View, Mike Ryder of Hersey, Mike Hadley of Arlington, John Keating of Palatine, Tim Dee of Glenbard North and Ed Nemeth of Wheeling. All are seniors.

Half of the deep backs chosen were underclassmen with the seniors being Rich Posinger of Forest View and Ron Ortworth of Conant and the juniors were Larry Hanks of Fremd and Bill Grady of Prospect.

Along with the 45 All-Conference players selected, there were 22 players who were given Honorable Mention recognition.

They are Terry Horan, Glenbard North; Dave Steinhoff, Conant; Jay Eddy, Glenbard North; Jeff Brown, Forest View;

Tim Loeffel, Prospect; Tom Caprice, Conant; Eric Malmberg, Glenbard North; Stu White, Prospect; Don Anastasi, Glenbard North; Kevin Byrne, Elk Grove; Dan Hull, Wheeling; Mickey Gebert, Prospect; Jim Dooley, Prospect; Jim Orendorff, Conant; Rich Weaver, Forest View; Scott Harris, Palatine; Don Koehler, Prospect; Tim Simpson, Fremd; Steve Klop, Wheeling; Tom Rambo, Conant; Steve Schuler, Hersey; Mike Gardiner, Hersey.

The coaches making the selections were Ralph Loece of Conant, Al Ratcliff of Fremd, Paul Jordan of Forest View, Arv Herstedt of Palatine, Len Burt of Hersey, Don Williams of Prospect, Bob Walther of Arlington, Jack Lileberg of Wheeling, Don Elmore of Glenbard North and Don Schnake of Elk Grove.

Hersey Cops Two Titles

by KEITH REINHARD

While Hersey's sophomores and Forest View's frosh B were coming in the front door, Wheeling's A yearlings slipped through the back entrance to a Mid-Suburban league grid championship in wrapup action over the weekend.

Wildcat frosh A coaches Dick Beran and Dennis Toil were not about to turn their crown back in after coming by it when Palatine crunched Conant in the headline fledgling battle Saturday 30-6. The 'Cats had played neither of these high scoring outdits during the course of the season but went into the final week trailing the undefeated Cougars by half a game and leading the Pirates by an equal span.

And while Andy Knotek punched across two more TD's to up his league-leading scoring total to 36 in Palatine's win, the 'Cats got plenty of point action out of Steve Miller to help turn back Prospect-18. The end result left Wheeling as the only unbeaten squad in frosh A play (6-4-1) while the Cougars and Pirates knotted for second with 6-1 slates.

Over in the other freshman race, the Forest View B gang headed by Mike Frase and Ed Cheatham captured their throne more decisively, blanking Elk Grove 8-0 to complete an undefeated season.

The Grenadiers had also gone into the finale without a loss but a third period 25-yard return of an intercepted pass by Falcon Lou Leuzzi and the subsequent EP run by Mike Quinn allowed Forest View their margin of triumph.

Ironically, in addition to beating everyone, the Falcon Bs also prevented every foe from scoring a TD against them, save one — the last place Glenbard North Panthers.

The only other team having a crack at the frosh B title going into the last week of play was Prospect and they were subdued by the Wildcats and Dan Pawlowski, 14-6.

Hersey added a second under level title trophy to their showcase Saturday when their sophs equaled an earlier undefeated season posted by the Huskie jayvees.

With Wheeling and Conant hot on their tracks, the Huskie sophs needed a certain closing triumph to sew up a crown and they earned it by clobbering Glenbard 38-14. A 40-yard intercepted pass return by Tom Knoll broke up the match after Hersey had gone into the final stanza leading 22-14.

Including a non-conference win over St. Viator, the Hersey sophs were 8-0 over the course of the season and their mentor, Harvey Foster, is yet to taste defeat in two seasons of coaching at the new school. Wheeling sophomores meanwhile stunned the Knights 60-12 while 'Cat Mike Keenan put a wrap on individual scoring kudos with a final pair of touchdowns. The Wildcats also found themselves in second place all alone when Palatine upset Conant 22-20 paced by Scott Grupe's 85-yard kickoff return and a pair of conversions.

The junior varsity chase had already been settled the previous week when Hersey finished up as the only unbeaten squad in the circuit. Second-ranked Wheeling and third place Arlington still fattened their records by stopping Prospect and Fremd respectively.

The 'Cats knocked off Prospect 16-6 behind a pair of scores by Jesse Heredia and the Cards tallied in each of the first three periods to fell the Vikings 24-16.

Earlier in the week Hersey had also upped their overall mark to 8-0 by turning back the Tri-County league's jayvee kingspin from Wheaton North 19-0. The results:

Hubbard Enjoys Fine Afternoon

by GEORGE SAUERBERG

"I like to see how Northwestern stacks up against nationally-ranked competition," said Wildcat spit end Bruce Hubbard before NU's battle with Ohio State Saturday in Evanston.

Although Northwestern lost to the number one-rated Buckeyes 35-6, Hubbard "stacked up" pretty well against Woody Hayes' boys.

The former Arlington High star had his best day of the season, catching seven passes for 117 yards. Most of his receptions were on down the sidelines maneuvers, where he ran into Tim Anderson or Jack Tatum, Ohio State's cornerbacks.

"Tatum is one of the best defensive players in the country," Hubbard said. "A couple of times after I caught the ball though, one or the other of them really teed off on me."

The 6-6, 206-pound senior managed to hang on to the ball, however, beating the Buckeye defenders for long gains of 27 and 22 yards.

Hubbard also caught a 14-yarder in Northwestern's fourth quarter touchdown drive. Three plays later fullback Mike Hudson scored to make it 35-6.

"Even when we were that far behind, everybody was still concentrating on doing their job and executing the plays," Hubbard said. "We never gave up."

"Nobody likes to be humiliated," said Hubbard, "and I don't think we were today."

"Offensively I think we played well at times," Hubbard continued. "We did make some key mistakes, like lining up in a wrong formation, missing several exchanges between the center and the quarterback, and dropping some passes."

"We played better in the second half," said Hubbard. "We were hitting much better. We also got open more than I expected."

And then the Wildcat receivers were open, sophomore quarterback Maurice Daigneau got the ball to them. Daigneau, who suffered a shoulder injury late in the game and may be lost for the season, broke Otto Graham and Tom Myers' pass completion record of 20 by connecting on 22 for 294 yards.

"Daigneau did a great job," said Hubbard, "His passes to me were coming right in there."

Hubbard's performance Saturday boosted his team-leading reception total to 20 for 238 yards.

After the Ball Game's Over

by MARY KAY MARSH

Do you, like us, always glance at the stamps on your mail? Well, we noticed a new one the other day: a six-cent commemorative that says "Football 1889-1969." Yes, this is the Centennial year for college football. Rutgers beat Princeton in the first intercollegiate football game, played at Brunswick, N.J., on Nov. 6, 1889.

Of course, Rutgers had 25 players on its team, which doesn't seem exactly fair. But then Princeton, too, had 25 players.

All of which is just to remind you that an after-the-game party is a happy, informal way to entertain this fall.

Pick up copies of your team's schedule to use for your invitations. Or tear pages from old football programs. Write on your party details with a felt-tipped marker. And do use the football stamp mentioned above to make an extra point.

YOUR HEROES deserve heroic refreshments. We favor Hero Sandwiches, and of heroic proportions. Add chips and dips, brownies and something good to drink, and you're sure to score high, especially with the teenage crowd. Other winning refreshment ideas include chili, pizza, or hot dogs and hamburgers. Just be sure to offer something substantial, as your fans are sure to come in hungry.

Some like it hot when it comes to party beverages, especially if the night has been a little nippy. Cocoa and coffee are always good. But if you'd like something a little different, the American Spice Trade Association suggests this easy way to spice up plain old cider: put three pieces of whole ginger root, a stick of cinnamon, ½ teaspoon of whole all spice and ¼ teaspoon whole cloves in a cheesecloth bag. Place in one quart of cider and simmer for five minutes.

CHEER ON THE HOME team with a decorating scheme that echoes your own school colors. Or choose harvest shades in yellows, oranges and golds. Buy paper plates and napkins to harmonize with your chosen colors.

Score more by proclaiming the final score on your paper napkins, especially if your home team wins. Write in the team names ahead of time, so that all you have to add is the numbers. (And if your team loses? Perhaps you'd better buy an extra pack of napkins, just in case!)

Your goal includes a festive table. Use a rough-textured fabric or even a stadium blanket for your table cloth. Decorate with pennants, pompons and megaphones. Star a football or a helmet in your centerpiece. (The latter can hold a bowl of mums or even potato chips, if you line it with plastic wrap and anchor it with clay to prevent wobbling and toppling.) Build a colorful goal post at both ends of your table. For each one, anchor two large candles, each on a wood base, then run a ribbon from one to the other.

A QUICKIE QUIZ provides easy entertainment if your party lags. Write the numbers of players (for both teams) on cards. Pass out pencils, then see who can match the most player names to player numbers in a limited period of time.

As we mentioned in a previous column, an impromptu contest to see who can kick the highest always helps to break the ice. (It can also help to break quite a few other things, so be sure you have ample space before you call this play.)

Then take ample time out for just food and conversation. Your guests are sure to have a wonderful time — and you're sure to emerge victorious as a winning hostess!

PARTY LINE: If your stadium is like ours, you never know whether or not there'll be someone around selling refreshments during the game. And it's a Male Marsh Maxim that the most exciting play of any football game always occurs while he's fighting his way to the concession stand. That's why we suggest that you take along your own thermos of coffee or chocolate. (You might even try — are you ready? a "tea" formation!) This is an especially thoughtful gesture if you're taking guests to the game. But why not do it just for your husband? He'll really appreciate getting to see all of the game and the half-time show for a change.

Neighbor Children Go for Her Treats And Her Ponies, Too

by LOIS SEILER

Pleasing people is Mrs. Nick Vasquez' avocation — whether it be preparing homemade baked goods for a party or providing neighborhood children with pony rides.

Although they have no children of their own, Nick and Winnie Vasquez of 1026 Carol Ave., Wheeling, raise ponies on their property. It is Nick's hobby, and they enjoy having youngsters come to play with, pet and ride the ponies. Winnie often provides them with snacks as well, making their home a popular place with local boys and girls.

At one time Winnie decided to have an "everyone's birthday party" for her young friends and baked a separate cake for each child. However, the children surprised her and arrived bearing gifts for their hostess.

WHEN WINNIE worked, she always brought cakes to the office for her co-workers' birthdays. Their favorite was a Date and Nut Cake which she makes with Mogan David Wine.

It was Winnie's idea to use wine in this recipe when she first tried it as a young bride 22 years ago. Having heard that wine did wonders in cooking, she decided to experiment with this cake, substituting Mogan David for the milk. It was so successful that she has been making it this way ever since.

"The wine gives 'oomph' to this cake," she explained, "and although I've made it with milk, it doesn't have half the flavor."

Baked in a tube pan, the date and nut cake is nicely rounded in appearance and has a solid, moist texture. Winnie frosts it with a cream cheese icing, or an orange icing may also be used.

HER HUSBAND prefers this to fruit cakes for the holiday season, and she has also sent it to relatives, unfrosted and wrapped in wine-soaked cloth, foil and brown paper. After nine days in the mail, the cake arrived at its destination quite fresh and tasty.

Because wine was so successful in this recipe, Winnie decided to try it in her Date Bars.

Made in two layers, these unusual bars have a crust which includes oatmeal and chopped nuts among its ingredients. A crumbly mixture, it is patted into a jelly roll pan and spread with a filling of dates cooked in Mogan David Wine.

After this has been baked and cooled, it is sprinkled with powdered sugar and cut into bars to serve.

"WINE GIVES MORE flavor to this recipe, too," Winnie said. "The crust is crunchy while the filling stays soft," she added, "and children like them as much as adults."

They make an ideal snack for the youngsters who come to ride the Vasquez ponies.

Another of her recipes that has achieved popularity is a delicious dessert called Orange Delight. She prepared this when she visited her sister in her home town of St. Louis, Mo., recently. Everyone who tasted it requested a copy of the recipe.

Hostess Twinkies form the bottom layer of this easy refrigerator dessert, which is topped by a creamy mixture of orange gelatin, 7-Up and vanilla ice cream flavored with crushed pineapple.

APPROXIMATELY five hours are required to set this mixture, or it may be prepared a day ahead.

"It is a very refreshing dessert," Winnie said, "and the orange cream has a little zip from the 7-Up."

It is ideal to serve for a luncheon, dinner or a card party.

Winnie enjoys playing poker almost as much as she enjoys baking, while bowling and dancing are other recreational activities she favors.

She also likes to embroider, and is an active member of Our Redeemer Lutheran Women's Guild.

DATE AND NUT CAKE

1 cup butter or margarine
2 cups granulated sugar
3 eggs
2 cups Mogan David Wine
1 cup dates, chopped
2 teaspoons baking soda
¾ cups all-purpose flour, sifted
1 cup chopped nuts

Cream butter and sugar together. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition.

Heat wine, but do not boil. Add dates and baking soda to the wine. Let cool.

Alternately add 3 cups of the flour and the wine-date mixture to batter. Beat in the chopped nuts which have been dredged in the remaining ½ cup flour.

Turn into a greased tube pan and bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Do not open oven door during the baking period. At the end of the hour, open oven and check to see if cake is done. Bake a few minutes longer, if necessary. Let cool five minutes before removing from pan.

When cool, frost with the following cream cheese icing:

1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 box confectioner's sugar
2 tablespoons cream

Cream the cheese and sugar together. Blend in the cream. Frost the whole cake.

DATE BARS

2½ cups oatmeal
2 cups all-purpose flour
1½ cups brown sugar
1 cup shortening, melted
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 egg, beaten
1 cup nuts, chopped

Mix all the ingredients together by hand. Pat half of this into the bottom of a greased, 15 by 18-inch jelly roll pan.

Prepare the following filling:

1½ pound dates, chopped
1 cup Mogan David Wine
1 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine ingredients in a saucepan. Cook filling over low heat until dates are soft and mushy, stirring often. Spoon over oatmeal crust.

Sprinkle remaining crumb ingredients over the top and pat down with a spoon. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

When cool, sprinkle powdered sugar over the top. Cut into bars to serve.

ORANGE DELIGHT

4 packages Hostess Twinkies
1 large package orange gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple, drained
½ cup pineapple juice
1 cup 7-Up
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Cut Twinkies in half, lengthwise. Arrange them in a 9 by 13-inch pan, marshmallow side up.

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add the pineapple juice to the dissolved gelatin. Blend in the 7-Up and ice cream, stirring until the ice cream is dissolved. Lastly add the drained pineapple.

Pour over the Twinkies. Refrigerate for at least five hours or overnight. Serves 12.

Mostly for Men

by CHARLES E. FLYNN

Like the flavor of old wine or a pipe after dinner, nothing is more satisfying to the average male eater than a plate of crispy fried potatoes.

Potatoes are generally associated with Ireland where they are served normally twice each day. Many people refer to white varieties as Irish potatoes.

American fries are distinctively Yankee fare, however, and I like to fix them this way. Peel 2 medium sized red potatoes and slice very thin.

Heat 1 tablespoon vegetable shortening in a small skillet and tilt so that entire cooking area is coated. Place potatoes in skillet spreading as thinly as possible. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and a pinch of flour.

Dot with butter and cook at a moderate heat for 15 minutes checking browning occasionally. If necessary reduce flame to avoid burning. Flip the potatoes with a pancake turner. If browned well, they'll stick together for easy turning. Again cook about 15 minutes and serve piping hot.

Enough for two, but not too much for a single hungry man.

ANOTHER METHOD of preparation has been handed down from colonial days. Peel 6 medium potatoes and slice thinly. Soak in cold water for an hour then dry thoroughly on paper toweling.

In a large (12-inch) skillet melt 2 tablespoons butter and 2 tablespoons vegetable shortening. Add the potatoes and sprinkle with 1 teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon paprika.

Cover with tight lid or foil and cook over low heat for 10 minutes. Uncover and turn the potatoes, reseason and cook for another 10 minutes. They'll be tender and nicely browned, but if you want them more crusty, turn up the heat and cook uncovered for another 2 minutes.

A variation is to add thin slices of onion atop potatoes after they've been turned. This produces additional flavor, but the potatoes will not be as crisp because of the moisture in the onions.

Do you have a favorite recipe to cook potatoes, or a question about food? Write Chuck Flynn, care of Paddock Publications, Box 277, Arlington Heights 60004. For personal reply, please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Burger Pie Is Kids' Favorite

Most children are wild about chopped meat in any form . . . burgers, meat loaf, meatballs. The meat is easy for small teeth to chew, hearty, flavorful. And we've got a wonderful new way with this national favorite . . . Hamburger Pie.

In this case, the chopped meat forms the shell and the filling is composed of sturdy vegetable combinations. If you have youngsters who rebel at the vegetable course, this is a cool way to make the vegetables seem more appetizing . . . but don't let them in on this secret.

The shell is easy enough. It combines ground chuck with soft bread crumbs, egg, milk and salt. Tabasco, the liquid red pepper seasoning, joins the ingredients to add piquancy and zing to the beef flavor. In a combination such as the hamburger shell, the liquid spice is easy to mix in and distributes evenly among all the other ingredients. Pat the beef in the bottom and up the sides of a pie plate and bake for about 20 minutes . . . and now you're ready to add the vegetable combination of your choice.

LIMA BEANS and cheese sauce go beautifully with beef . . . use the frozen beans and make a simple cheese sauce with American cheese and milk. Tabasco goes into the sauce, too . . . it enhances vegetables just as much as it does beef, adds such perky flavor. And in a pale mixture such as cheese sauce, it eliminates the black pepper flecks that dismay some youngsters.

Frozen mixed vegetables provide another excellent filling for the hamburger pie . . . and give it a fancy note with a border of canned small onions. Incidentally, one of the simplest and most delicious vegetable sauces you can use is just melted butter with a dash of Tabasco. One of the reasons children don't care much about vegetables is that they find the flavor wishy-washy . . . and melted butter and Tabasco provide piquancy without overwhelming. Frozen peas are equally fine for a filling . . . border with mashed potatoes, squash or turnips.

'Memoirs' Review for AOPi

ALPHA OMICRON PI

Arthur Krock's "Memoirs, Sixty Years On the Firing Line" will be reviewed for Northwest Suburban Alumnae Chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi next Wednesday evening.

Reviewer Mrs. John Anderson of Arlington Heights will tell the tale of this journalist who was "an intimate of Presidents from Theodore Roosevelt to LBJ." Mr. Krock's credentials include three Pulitzer Prizes and over 30 years as Washington correspondent for the New York Times.

The AOPi's will meet at Mrs. Sidney Little's, 2224 Kennicott, Arlington Heights. Her co-hostesses, all of Arlington Heights, are Mrs. Thomas Horrigan, Mrs. Thomas Johnson and Mrs. Martin Voise.

BECAUSE THE Arthritis Foundation is the national philanthropy of the alumnae, an 85-year-old arthritic woman will be guest of honor at the meeting. The AOPi's have been visiting her each week since last December, and this will be her first time at a chapter meeting.

A new project was started in Fall by the area group. The Rose Honor Roll is a continuing award to recognize outstanding local alumnae. Named thus far are Mrs. W. R. Mottweiler of Mount Prospect and Mrs. Laurence Frerk of Arlington Heights. Mrs. Mottweiler was honored for her current leadership as four-state expansion director and for receiving the national Rose Award last June.

Mrs. Frerk was chosen because of her work as rush advisor to the Northwestern University collegiate chapter, also for service as chapter president and chairman of the Chicago Area Council.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA
"Lights and Delights" is tomorrow (Friday) afternoon's program for the Northwest Suburban Alumnae Club, featuring a benefit sale in two Arlington Heights homes Mrs. Carl Lund, 15 N. Windsor, will be hostess for the "lights" which is a boutique of holiday gift items, and Mrs. George Sexton, 202 S. Windsor, will serve coffee and desserts for the "delights" half of the event.

Proceeds will go into the Thetas' fund to aid Clearbrook Center, Countryside Center and other handicapped children.

Tickets will be sold at both homes.

World Community Day Is Friday

"Christians in International Development" is the theme for World Community Day, a celebration day sponsored by Church Women United of Northwest Cook County. The program will be held at 1 p.m. Friday, in the Christian Church of Arlington Heights, 333 W. Thomas St. Speakers will be Gary Meier, Hoffman Estates, who was a Peace Corp worker in Ecuador from 1962 to 1964, and Howard Ellegant, Chicago, who served with the Peace Corp in Colombia from 1964 to 1966. Mr. Meier is now program director at the Countryside YMCA in Palatine and Mr. Ellegant is a practicing architect in Chicago.

FOLLOWING THE program there will be a coffee and fellowship time. Churches in the area whose women's groups work on projects for Church World Service have been asked to bring samples of their handwork for a display. Layettes, bandages and clothing are among the items to be shown. Babysitting service will be provided.

Chairman for the day will be Mrs. H. J. Fricke, Prospect Heights, celebrations chairman for Church Women United of Northwest Cook County.

"Why Am I Afraid to Love?" is the topic of the guest speaker, John Powell, S.J., a theology teacher at Loyola University. The program includes his talk, a discussion period, luncheon and Mass.

Countdown for 'Moon Trip'

Prospect Heights Woman's Club is starting the final countdown for its "Trip to the Moon," their annual fall fashion show and luncheon. Blast off time next Wednesday will be 11 a.m. in the Philip Henrici Grand Ballroom of the O'Hare Inn, Mannheim and Higgins Roads, Rosemont.

Reservations can be made with Mrs. Kenneth Sandstrom, CL 5-7317 or Mrs. Donald Schmidt, 259-1833.

AS THE LADIES soar into space, cocktails will be served followed by luncheon and the style show from the Queen's Ransom Shop in Barrington. Club members, who will be doing some of the modeling, are Mrs. John Lake, Mrs. Phillip Domres, Mrs. Robert Borland and Mrs. Robert Kent.

All proceeds from the luncheon will go to the club's philanthropies, one of which is the library in Prospect Heights. Last spring the club donated $15,000 to the Prospect Heights Library Board to purchase land for a new library building. Scholarships, Indian Affairs, Vietnam packages and donations to various organizations are also among the club's philanthropies.

'Barefoot in the Park' Auditions

Following the opening weekend of their current production, "Summer and Smoke," on Friday and Saturday nights at Guild Playhouse, Des Plaines Theatre Guild will hold open readings for the third play of the season.

The third DPTG production will be Neil Simon's comedy, "Barefoot in the Park," which will play for three weekends and a benefit performance in January.

Nancy Kole will direct "Barefoot." Anyone in the area interested in reading for one of the six roles in the comedy, may come to Guild Playhouse Sunday and/or Monday nights, Nov. 9 and 10, at 8 o'clock for the open auditions. Previous experience or membership in Des Plaines Theatre Guild is not a prerequisite for trying out.

THE CAST OF "Barefoot in the Park" calls for two women — the off-beat bride, Corie Bratter, and her bewildered mother, Mrs. Banks — and four men. The male roles include the bridegroom, Paul Bratter; the neighbor from upstairs, Victor Velasco; the telephone man, and the delivery man.

For information about Des Plaines Theatre Guild activities, or ticket reservations for the current play, "Summer and Smoke," readers may call the box office, 296-1211, from noon until 8 p.m. The theater is located at 620 Lee St. in downtown Des Plaines.

DAR: 'Now, About Those Juniors?'

Mrs. James Dodds III, chairman of the Junior Membership Committee of the Ell Skinner Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will present the program, "Now, About Those Juniors?" at the chapter's meeting at 8 Thursday evening. Mrs. Frank Callaghan and Mrs. John Hall will assist the hostess, Mrs. John Peters, 502 N. Stratford, Arlington Heights.

Junior members of DAR are women between the ages of 18 and 35, active in all phases of DAR work, in all committees, and at chapter, state and national levels. Special project of the Juniors is the Helen Pouch Fund which provides medical supplies for the two DAR supported schools: Kate Duncan Smith in Alabama and Tennessee in South Carolina.

TO FINANCE THE fund, the Juniors sell flag pins, DAR note paper and hold bazaars during state and national meetings. Mrs. Thomas Thomas is regent of the Juniors. Mrs. Dodds III, Jr. Membership Chairman; Mrs. Allan Schoeld, Program Chairman; Mrs. A. A. Alvin, Mrs. Roland Felleeson, Mrs. Richard Heigel, Mrs. James Summers and Mrs. J. Thomason.

Another Junior activity available through DAR is the Junior American Citizen program. This group is open to all boys and girls from kindergarten through high school age. Nearly 275,000 children participated last year in this program throughout the nation. This committee is to encourage and teach all aspects of good American citizenship to young people through JAC Clubs. This program is adaptable to all age groups and embraces children of every race, color and creed. There are no dues and all materials are provided by the DAR, according to the chapter regent, Mrs. Raymond Thomas.

MOST OF THE JAC club are in the public schools and at the elementary grade level. They are also organized in private and parochial schools, community and settlement houses, boys clubs, churches, classes for mentally retarded children, as well as state and church homes for children, stated Mrs. Thomas.

JAC activities include patriotism, history, respect for the flag, good citizenship, civics and government, conservation, health, safety, parliamentary procedure and community service as well as social activities.

Mrs. William Mayes, chairman of the Veteran Patients, has requested all members to bring paperback books and appropriate magazines for the veterans to be distributed at the Great Lakes Naval Hospital this month. Also to be brought to this meeting is a gift for a child to be sent to one of the two DAR schools at Christmas.

Nun at Temple for Show of Hands

A Catholic nun will speak at the Beth Tikvah Temple about handwriting analysis next Monday, at 8 p.m., hosted by Hoffman Estates Woman's Club.

Sister Mary Alicia, Master B.V.M. and certified graphoanalyst, will answer questions in her lecture demonstration to the club members and guests. Sister Mary Alicia holds a master's in journalism from Marquette University and is a graduate of the International Graphoanalysts Society.

"GRAPHOANALYSIS," says Sister Mary Alicia, "is a scientific tool for assessment of personality traits and can be invaluable to all who deal with people, giving them a keener understanding not only of themselves and their associates but also of their children and the latter's aptitudes, emotional patterns and thought processes, their fears and defenses."

Interested persons may call Mrs. James Moon, 894-1399, or Mrs. Robert Pellegrino at 529-1843 for further information.

What kind of grass do you want for your kid?

Grass can be an ugly word that means pot. When a kid goes to pot, more than likely it's because he can't stand the real world. Like the concrete graveyard of his own home town.

There's another kind of grass—the grass in a nearby park, the green that gives a kid a chance to grow up with another kind of perspective.

Did you ever think that the mental health of our children and their children may depend on the kind of outdoor living room they have? Before we build more cities that have to have parks wedged in long after the fact, think of the green your neighborhood may need. So that kids can play and run off their troubles in a healthy way and in a healthy environment.

The kind of good green grass we're talking about is fast disappearing. Which is why your local park district is more important than ever.

One of its vital jobs is to make certain that grass and breathing space will be near your neighborhood when your kids are growing up.

Make sure there's no land grab in your community that can tear a park away from a kid. Support the programs of your park district. Here in Illinois, you can decide what kind of grass you want for your children.

Public Notice

The Illinois Division of Highways has requested approval by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads of Corridors 1D and A as recommended and described in the Elgin-O'Hare Expressway Corridor Report.

A Corridor is defined as being the general area through which a number of alternate road alignments would pass. Corridor 1D begins at the east end of U.S. Route 20, Elgin Bypass, then goes easterly to FAI 90. Corridor A begins at this point and progresses further easterly to Illinois Route 63. The combined length of corridors 1D and A is approximately fifteen miles.

The recommendation contained in the Corridor Report is based on an investigation of possible alternate corridors, as described in the Corridor Report, and an analysis of comments received at a Corridor Public Hearing which was held in the Great Hall of Schaumburg Civic Center, Schaumburg, Illinois on May 8th, 1969. The transcript of this Corridor Hearing is attached to the Corridor Report.

A Design Study will be initiated after corridor approval is received from the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads. The purpose of the Design Study is to investigate and prepare detailed alternate road alignments within the approved corridor for presentation and discussion at a Design Public Hearing.

A copy of the Corridor Report is available for public inspection at the Illinois Division of Highways, District One, office located at 595 South State Street, Elgin, Illinois.

Seale Is Sentenced

CHICAGO — District Court Judge Julius Hoffman yesterday declared a mistrial for Black Panther leader Bobby Seale on riot and conspiracy charges and sentenced him to four years in prison for contempt of court in courtroom outbursts which have characterized the trial of the "Chicago Eight."

He ruled that the trial of the seven other defendants charged with conspiring to incite riots during the Democratic National Convention should continue.

Nixon Is Happy

WASHINGTON — One year after his election, President Nixon said yesterday, "We're going to come out well in the end." It was a happy day for Nixon, both because of his election a year ago and because of "a couple of big victories" Tuesday.

He was referring to the elections of Nixon-supported governors in Virginia and New Jersey.

Republicans Win

WASHINGTON — President Nixon refused yesterday to take personal credit for two major upsets of Democratic Party rule. Nixon had endorsed victorious candidates Rep. William Cahill as governor of New Jersey, and A. Lincoln Holton as governor of Virginia.

Democrats led New Jersey for 16 years and Virginia for 100 years. Nixon said he is "rather happy" about the elections.

Ogilvie Warns SIU

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Richard Ogilvie suggested yesterday that Southern Illinois University may be jeopardizing its future programs through the board of trustee's decision to build a $1 million mansion for its president.

"I would classify it (the mansion) as a very unfortunate decision. It is difficult to get substantial allocations for an institution when something like this occurs," he said.

Kidnappers Kill Boy

SAN PAULO, Brazil — Unidentified kidnapers lived up to their threat and killed the 18-year-old son of an American director of the Brazilian affiliate of Swift and Co., meat packers, police said yesterday.

The boy, Patrick E. Dolan, was kidnapped last week but his parents did not report the incident because the kidnappers threatened to kill the boy. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Dolan, paid an undisclosed ransom last weekend.

Six Teens Charged

PHILADELPHIA — Jack Thomas, 52, jobless father of three children, was released from jail yesterday and six teenage neighbors who accused him of handing out trick-or-treat apples containing razor blades were arrested for filing a false police report.

Thomas was being held on $10,000 bail while a guard at the project in which he lived, Matthew Glebocki, 44, conducted a private investigation of the case. He persuaded the police to investigate further, leading to Thomas' release.

Secession Threat Levelled at Village

The executive secretary of Centex Industrial Park Association briefly used disannexation as a threat before the Elk Grove Village Board Tuesday.

James R. Gibson told the village board if it did not want the industrial park in the village it could annex to the City of Chicago.

Industry in the village occupies 1,422 acres and is a source of 50 per cent of village revenue.

In a startling and brief address to the board, Gibson also called the proposed zoning ordinance under study by the plan commission as "confiscatory."

The ordinance, as it now reads, would make significant changes which developers feel would hurt them.

ANNEXATION TO Chicago "undoubtedly would solve many if not all" the 12 agenda items the association presented to the board May 28 and again Oct. 29, said Gibson.

Agenda items included a list of improvements the association would like the village to make in the industrial park. Improvements range from street maintenance to better drainage.

According to Gibson, 11 of the 12 items went unanswered at last Wednesday's meeting with the village board.

This was later refuted by Trustee George Cooney who said after the meeting they were all answered by him but not to the satisfaction of the association board.

COONEY, AT Tuesday's board meeting, told Gibson the industrial park "spoke out of both sides of its mouth" and he was "thoroughly disgusted" with it.

James

Cooney's comment came after Gibson had finished his statement to the board.

In his statement Gibson, a former village president and trustee, said other advantages of annexing to Chicago are:

—cheaper and plentiful Lake Michigan water.

—lower fire insurance rates.

—relief from the proposed zoning ordinance.

—inclusion in the Chicago freight zone.

PROMPTING GIBSON to make his statement was a report in the Herald of Village Pres. Jack Pahl's presentation last week before the industrial park association board.

The Herald report, based on an interview with Pahl the day following the meeting, came as a surprise to the association.

Gibson said: "The surprise was twofold in that village officials had not previously given any indication of desiring press coverage of the village board — Centex Industrial Park Association board meetings and in that some of us completely missed President Pahl's statement that the industrial park was causing the village a 'deficit'."

Gibson requested clarification of what Pahl meant.

"Missing his statement is understandable in consideration of President Pahl's technique in presenting his material," said Gibson.

"In spite of the personnel and equipment available to the village administration and in spite of its demonstrated ability to produce printed matter, President Pahl's presentation was similar to World War II aircraft recognition training."

AT THE MEETING, Pahl used two visual aids, overhead and slide projectors to make a presentation to the association board.

While requesting clarification from Pahl, Gibson asked: "Is it the posture of the president and board of trustees that they would prefer the industrial park not be a part of the village?"

"Does the board wish to disannex from the village?"

"If this is the posture of the president and the board, the association should take steps to so inform the property owners in the industrial park to initiate steps to disannex from the village and to annex to the City of Chicago."

PAHL'S RESPONSE to Gibson's statement was that he wanted the industrial park to stay in Elk Grove Village.

Clarifying his presentation of last week, he said the point of it was to show the village has "limited resources and tremendous demand."

"If that was missed, I'm sorry," said Pahl.

After the meeting, Pahl said his presentation was documentation that the village could not provide all the improvements the association requested of it.

Use of the word "deficit" appeared in the presentation when a number of statistics in a status report were presented on an overhead projector.

THEY WERE PRESENTED in the sense that though the industrial park is a major source of revenue for the village, it also is a major source of expenditure.

The village receives $386,950 in tax monies from the park and spends $445,277 for police and fire protection, in addition to streets for the industrial park.

The difference between the two figures is a $58,327 deficit.

Nixon Support Effort Fails

Efforts by Elk Grove Village Trustee Tom Ullmann to pass a resolution supporting President Nixon's Vietnam policy were turned down Tuesday.

Ullmann said that since the President, in his speech Monday, asked for support from the "great silent majority," a resolution to this effect would be appropriate. Ullmann added that since Tuesday was Veterans' Day, it would even be more appropriate.

He said he sent a telegram to the President urging support of his Vietnam policy.

TRUSTEE RICHARD McGreener said he was in agreement with the idea of public support as an individual, but did not think the board should speak for the whole village.

Trustee George Cooney said he felt the same, adding that it was not the board's prerogative to pass such a resolution.

Ullmann then urged board members to send telegrams to the President endorsing his policy.

Cartoon Fest Planned

A Flash Gordon movie plus a cartoon festival will be shown by the Clearmont School Parent-Teacher Organization Saturday at 12:30 and 2:30 p.m. in the school multipurpose room.

Chapters three and four of the Flash Gordon serial and Bugs Bunny, Porky Pig, Daffy Duck, Woody Woodpecker and Sylvester the Cat cartoons will be shown for the 25-cent admission.

Warman Backs Moratorium

by ED MURNANE

State Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 13th District, called Wednesday for Democratic support of the Nov. 13 through 15 Vietnam peace moratorium and said his own stand on Vietnam is closer to President Nixon's than the stand of his Republican opponent, Philip M. Crane of Winnetka.

Warman's remarks, confined strictly to the Vietnam War, were made at the 13th Congressional District Democratic Woman's Club luncheon in Schaumburg.

He said he supports a "peaceful peace moratorium" as a means of showing "that this terrible war must end."

But he added his own stand on the war is closer to the policy outlined by the President Monday than is the stand of Crane.

"MOST RESPONSIBLE Americans now agree military victory is neither desirable nor attainable," Warman said. "And President Nixon, in his address to the nation Monday night, apparently ruled out seeking a military victory. If he did, I support that phase of his policy."

Warman said Crane's "true position" includes combating the harbor of Haiphong "and invoking bizarre economic sanctions like closing the Panama Canal." He said Crane "has found himself in an untenable position and since Nixon has apparently overruled a military victory, my opponent is further from Nixon's policies than I am."

He listed six points which he said he would foster if elected.

"I will press for large-scale troop withdrawals and support the President if I think he is showing good faith in his attempts to bring the troops back home. I think it is possible to have our fighting men back on American soil by the end of 1970.

"I will fight for free elections in Vietnam. To supervise that election, I will support a coalition government, including elements of the National Liberation Front and the Saigon regime.

"IF AFTER THOSE elections, there are numbers of Vietnamese who, seeing the American troops leave, fear for their lives, I will sponsor legislation to enable the United States to create and implement a voluntary resettlement program similar to the U.S. giving a home to 755,000 Cuban refugees. For the cost of one month's fighting in this war, we could resettle, in willing Asian countries, all those Vietnamese who, for one reason or another, want to leave their country.

"I will fight against the corrupt Saigon government.

"I will support the negotiations and urge the President and his advisers to be more sensitive to the hints of peace which have come from time to time from Hanoi and have been ignored by us."

"I will urge the President to remember that Vietnam is essentially a political struggle and as such, cannot be solved militarily."

WARMAN SAID Vietnam should be a "lesson for America" and the U.S. must find better ways "to be a protector of human liberty, human freedom, and human dignity."

He said the United States is "a peaceful nation, seeking peace" and warned that illegal violence "by any leftist SDS weathermen or right-wing extremists" will not be tolerated.

System Reduces Sky Crowds

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Steps are being taken by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to reduce congestion in the crowded skies.

A new system known as area or off-course navigation has been put in use on an interim basis on 18 routes between major U.S. cities, including Chicago.

Through the use of computerized airborne navigational equipment, more routes are being made available to commercial airlines.

MAJOR BENEFITS FROM the system are reduced congestion and improvements in flight safety, as well as reduced workloads for air traffic controllers.

In conventional systems, all airways, sometimes called highways in the sky, run between ground-radio navigation transmitters known as VORs. Pilots can fly a precise course only directly toward or directly away from one of the transmitter sites.

Area navigation eliminates the need for a pilot to fly directly to or from a ground-based radio navigation aid.

With this technique, air routes can be established almost instantly to provide detours around congested areas, parallel routes in congested areas, straighter, shorter paths for long flights and one-way airways.

Area navigation also makes it possible for improved instrument approach capabilities, better location of holding patterns and greater navigation control by the pilot in areas which now require FAA controllers to vector aircraft by radar.

THE SYSTEM WILL result in savings of time to the airlines on flights between Chicago's O'Hare Airport and New York as well as other cities. Area navigation techniques also permit establishment of procedures tailored to STOL (Short Takeoff and Landing) aircraft and helicopter operations.

Another benefit is the possibility of establishing instrument approach procedures for airports which now may not be used when weather is bad.

William M. Flener, chief of the FAA's Air Traffic Service, said, "Area navigation looks promising for both controllers and pilots, relieving them of some workload. It may help in the terminal areas, and is almost certain to give us more leeway in the enroute portions of flight."

DEMONSTRATING use of computerized navigational equipment is Harley Graham, flight inspector pilot for the FAA. A system known as area navigation will reduce air traffic congestion along routes between O'Hare Airport and other cities.

Suit Adds Defendants

A suit filed last June against Elk Grove Village and the owners of 208 acres planned for an industrial park in DuPage County is still pending, but the field of defendants has increased.

Mohawk Terrace Homeowners Association filed the suit challenging industrial zoning of the land, calling it inappropriate and invalid.

The suit was filed against the village and Robert Allabastro, the original property owner during zoning and annexation proceedings. Now the suit has been filed against Trammel Crow Co. of Des Plaines, present property owner, and the LaSalle National Bank of Chicago, Trammel Crow's trust company, and the village.

THE ASSOCIATION represents a 90-home area in unincorporated DuPage County abutting the annexed 208 acres near the southwest corner of Devon Avenue and Route 63.

Allabastro, affiliated with Winthrop-Lawrence Financial Corp., Washington, D.C., requested annexation last year of what was farm land for "high level" industrial south of the Cook County line at Devon Avenue.

Mohawk Terrace residents opposed the rezoning and annexation since its proposal a year ago on the grounds that the nearby industrial park would create a health hazard and result in monetary depreciation of the residential land.

An annexation agreement was reached in February, however, and the land was zoned M-2 (heavy industry) with a 30-foot strip as M-1 (light industry) to serve as a buffer zone.

THE ASSOCIATION THEN filed the suit against Allabastro and the village. The village, according to Edward Hofert, village attorney, replied but said that the wrong party was named in the suit since the land had changed hands from Allabastro to Trammel Crow Co.

Allan J. Hamilton, Chicago partner of the company based in Dallas, announced plans this summer for a five-year development process for an industrial park on the 208 acres.

Hofert said Trammel Crow has now also hired an attorney and has or soon will answer the suit, substantially adopting the position of the village.

According to Jack Marcus, Mohawk attorney, the company is waiting to hear from Trammel Crow. But according to Hamilton, Trammel Crow has filed a dissent and issued a summons naming complaints against Mohawk.

Defenses for both Trammel Crow and the village are being prepared, attorneys said. Both are waiting for a court date to be set. Marcus said, "There should be work on the site is progressing something happening soon."

"MEANWHILE, ACCORDING to Hamilton, although no construction of buildings has begun. Some construction on Lively Boulevard, which according to the agreement must be extended, has begun, with the rest of the work scheduled for spring.

"Weather is really the big problem now," Hamilton said. "Financing is being arranged and construction will start as soon as the details are satisfied. Close to $3½ million for buildings has been arranged for and scheduled," he added.

A Pet To Catch Your Fancy

BY DAVE PALERMO

If you're one of those persons who would like to have the most unusual pet on the block, your local pet shop may be the place to go.

They have snakes, fish, birds and a variety of other animals, many of them tropical. And one of them is bound to catch your fancy.

"We have a baby boa for $12.95, said David Blaue, proprietor of Van Oaks Pet Shop in Mount Prospect Plaza.

"You mean the kind that squeeze things to death?" I asked.

"Uh-huh."

BLAUE, A FRIENDLY fellow with receding red hair, reached into a small glass tank and pulled out a snake about eight inches long. Immediately the reptile wrapped itself around his finger.

"Aren't they kind of dangerous? I mean..."

"Well, you have to use a bit of caution, but they're real fine pets."

"But, won't it grow up to be a big snake?"

"Oh sure, it may get to be 12-feet long in about 15 to 20 years."

"What do you feed it?"

"Animals. Mice, rabbits, hamsters and things like that."

"WHAT DO YOU DO with it when it gets big?"

"Oh, take it in the back yard and play with it."

"Personally, I like my Boas around four feet long — it gives me something to grab onto."

"I consider them to be semi-intelligent creatures, and they struggle strictly for food," he said. "You must, however, be careful and watch them closely when you let them out of confinement. If they get away, you may never find them again because they can get into any place."

Blaue recommends that boas be fed a small live animal when they are young, preferably a mouse or hamster, every three weeks. For an adult boa he advises one large rabbit a month as sufficient nourishment.

"THEY'RE VERY inactive creatures and require only a small glass container," he explained.

Blaue said a lot of persons buy boas, and mentioned that two were sold over the weekend to college coeds who planned to keep the snakes in a girls' dormitory.

Unwrapping the boa from around his hand and returning it to the cage, Blaue mentioned another unusual, but popular pet — the piranha fish.

"The piranha fish is popular because of its notoriety as being dangerous, but it is also a very beautiful fish," he said. "They're not harmful at all, if you are careful."

"They only attack if they think something is food or if they get excited," he said.

WHAT GETS A piranha excited?

"The story we like to tell is about a guy who put some meat into a bowl and the piranha laid back. When he reached in and jerked the meat out, it attacked. It was a stupid thing to do," said Blaue.

"For some reason people will fear a harmless snake, but don't believe a fish would bite."

Unlike most fish, a piranha won't shy away from the family cat, and young children must also be kept away from the bowls, he warned.

THE RED BELLIED or red breasted piranhas are the more popular species and are also the most notorious that come out of the Amazon River in South America, according to Blaue.

"They range from 1 1/4 to 10 inches long and cost anywhere from $3 to $75, depending on the size and species," he said.

Inhabiting two small glass cages in the pet shop are two large South American birds splattered with brilliant colors and each possessing large, powerful-looking beaks.

One is a Macaw and the other is a Cockatoo, the latter affectionately called "Rosie."

"They can talk," said Blaue. "However, it depends upon the ability and patience of the owner. They're very independent creatures and usually only speak when they feel like it."

LIKE THE BOA and the piranha, Blaue said the birds also can be dangerous if not cared for properly.

"They have the potential to be dangerous," he warned, "but if handled carefully they shouldn't be a trouble."

"They eat a special mixture of food you can buy at any pet store and they are becoming very popular. They cost $25."

'Spirit' Moves Elk Grove High School

by JUDY COVELLI

A secret movement opposing the established government of Elk Grove High School has begun.

At least that's what some parents feared when the first issue of the underground newspaper, "Spirit," appeared last month. Reaction to the paper was widespread.

Many students were enthusiastic about it. Others were curious. Teachers either ignored it or obtained a copy and read it secretly. Some parents who read it were outraged and blamed school officials.

The reaction could have been expected. To a strictly disciplined school, the advent of an underground paper was a break from routine, something that didn't go through the proper channels.

Questions arose as to the purpose of the underground paper. "We want to give another opinion, besides the typical reasons papers like to inform," one journalism student said. "In mass media you usually get what whoever is running the news department or the government wants to hear," he explained. None of the students contacted wanted his name used.

"WE HAVE ENFORCED this policy to the best of our ability and will continue to do so. It is our opinion that each time your child purchases one of the underground papers, he is furthering their cause, whether he intends to or not."

When asked what he was implying by "furthering their cause," Haskell said, "whatever it happens to be, if there is one."

He explained this statement in reply to parents who complained against the newspaper.

"I've had a lot of people call me on this and I said we just outlined conditions for them to publish. If parents have a complaint, then it is their son or daughter purchasing the paper which upsets the cause. I'm not going to do anything about that."

The paper, which was printed in Chicago at "The Newsreel" office, contained articles on the war, how to avoid the draft, the moratorium and poetry on a variety of topics.

THERE WAS some "obscenity" in the paper, according to one girl who said those articles were done by about two people.

The second issue, according to one student who still works on the paper, may come out next week.

"We're reorganizing and trying to make the second issue more substantial," he said. "We're trying to get a lot heavier."

That issue is scheduled to contain such articles as national action, women's liberation, conspiracy trial news and the moratorium.

Graham Backs Bid With Experience

Sen. John A. "Jack" Graham put his 11 years' experience in the state Senate up for challenge Wednesday in announcing intentions to seek reelection.

Graham, 57, a Barrington Republican, is seeking his fourth four-year term. In announcing his candidacy, he promoted Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's push to state fiscal responsibility and greater highway improvements.

In addition, Graham committed himself to attention to specific Third District problems of highways, waste control, flooding, education and law and order.

THE SENATOR SPOKE at a press conference in The Arlington Carousal Restaurant. He was surrounded by GOP committee members from Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg and Palatine townships and said he has been pledged the support of the Northfield, Maine and Wheeling township organizations.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He noted he was sent to the Senate in 1956 with the largest Republican plurality of any other Republican senator.

"I bring with my candidacy 12 years of working with the general assembly, the experience of working on key committees and a knowledge and ability to work with the House, important to passage of meaningful legislation," Graham said.

IN HIS PREPARED ADDRESS, Graham discounted recent claims of Democratic State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III that Illinois will have a budget surplus next year. A voter for the sensitive issue of the state income tax, Graham said if there is a surplus, "the Republican-dominated legislature will face this head-on and will reduce taxes in the areas most critical."

He called Stevenson's charges "a political vehicle used by a man aspiring to the Potomac River."

Graham said he departed from his usual position on nonreferendum bond issues during the last general assembly to support the Metropolitan Sanitary District $230 million bond issue. He said Chicago voters would not have been in sympathy with the referendum, which would mainly benefit the suburbs.

He estimated $18 million will be issued shortly for projects in the northwest area.

GRAHAM SAID BECAUSE of the General Assembly's educational bills, the Third District will receive more than $6 million in additional state aid to common schools with no increase in the real estate tax.

He said he led opposition to a proposed two-cent gasoline tax on Cook County residents to subsidize the Chicago Transit Authority.

Graham was elected to the Senate in 1958 and has successfully won every bid for reelection.

Those attending Graham's luncheon and press conference were Committee members Eugene Divitt of Hanover Township, Don Toten of Schaumburg Township, Bernard Pedersen of Palatine Township and Harold Smith of Barrington Township, and Committee members Mrs. Sally Catlin of Schaumburg Township and Mrs. Glen-Ann Jicha of Palatine Township.

Dick Hall, president of the Elk Grove Township Regular Republican organization, was present along with State Rep. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect. Mrs. Mary Schlot, legislative aide to State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, represented Schlickman.

ONE GIRL WHO submitted some articles explained, "Those who wrote for the paper wanted to express themselves. Only a few ever had things published in the literary magazine."

But why couldn't they express themselves in the school newspaper? "They're interested in the regular school paper but can't get involved. 'Spirit' covers most of the kids that aren't covered by anything else," she said.

But apparently the paper didn't fill the need for most of these kids. Someone commented that about 50 kids worked on the first issue, but many of them have dropped out.

"The school isn't really reaching them. The paper didn't either. They don't know what they're looking for," said a student who worked on the paper.

BUT EVEN THOUGH the paper wasn't an all-out success, and those who worked on it were the first to admit it was poorly done and unorganized, changes are planned and future issues will be forthcoming.

In view of this, the school's position on the paper was announced. A letter to parents by Principal Robert Haskell, discussing school policy and events, included this about the underground paper:

"This fall Elk Grove High School has joined the ranks of numerous high schools throughout the country that have had an underground paper published. Several parents have called and have asked the school's position on the underground paper and the leafleting of our student body. Since these two activities are closely related I shall discuss them together."

"It is our position that an underground newspaper, or leaflets may not be printed on school property and that school equipment or supplies may not be used for this activity. We further prohibit the distribution of such materials on school property."

Koeneman Declares

Herman Koeneman of Arlington Heights, a candidate for a Cook County commissioner post in 1968, has announced he will run for the post of Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman in the March primary election.

Koeneman will oppose James L. McCabe, the present committeeman who has already announced he will seek election to a full term.

Koeneman said he decided to run for the office this week. "This decision has been made after numerous phone calls from area Democrats," he said.

KOENEMAN HAS LIVED in Arlington Heights 14 years. He was the vice president of the Wheeling Township Regular Democratic Organization from 1962 until 1966.

In 1966 Koeneman was an unsuccessful candidate for one of the Cook County commissioner's posts from the suburban area. He ran unsuccessfully for the post of Wheeling Township assessor in 1968.

Koeneman has charged that McCabe, "in his two years as appointed, not elected, committeeman has done absolutely nothing for the Wheeling Township Democrats. Mr. McCabe, as committeeman, has shown no interest in township or village elections."

KOENEMAN'S FIRST objective, if elected, he said, "will be to open a headquarters office to serve the township voters for all their needs and keep the Democratic office continually available to the voters of Wheeling Township, not just before each election period."

Koeneman said he would not begin an active campaign until after the first of the year. "The support seems to be coming. It's a question of getting people out on election day."

Koeneman's opponent, McCabe, has received the support of James Stavros, former Democratic committeeman who retired in 1967 after 10 years in the office, and State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Third District.

Union Service Scheduled

A group of clergymen from the minister's association is organizing a Thanksgiving union service for the Elk Grove community to be held at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 26 in Grove Junior High School.

According to Father Robert Lutz, Queen of the Rosary Church, who is in charge of the program coordination, the accent is on the community and participation through the theme "the community gives thanks."

"THE PROGRAM IS IN accordance with the minister's association's new emphasis on national as well as religious aspects," Father Lutz said.

Community organizations already scheduled to participate in the Thanksgiving eve program include the local Veterans of Foreign Wars Post, the Elk Grove Festival Chorus and community services.

Featured speakers are Rev. Dr. Martin Marty, founder of the Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit in Elk Grove, and Clyde Brooks, Elk Grove resident and Manpower director for the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Those coordinating the program along with Father Lutz are B. J. Walker, pastor of the First Baptist Church; Henry Warkentin, of the Elk Grove United Presbyterian Church; and Robert Smith, education director for the Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit.

Ridge's Fun Fair Is Set for Saturday

The Ridge School PTA in Elk Grove Village will have its annual fun fair Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the school.

According to Mrs. Fred Hartwig Jr., publicity chairman, children who made award-winning posters will be admitted free.

Winners were Maureen Malone, Rhonda Macro, Claire Condylis, Debbie Hartwig, Paul Kott and Larry Morey, all first place finishers.

Second place winners were Todd Harriett, Tim Butler, Chris Ketchum, Tom Duffly and Susan Bank. Keith Peterson, Pam Sobieski and Mary Hutchinson finished third.

According to Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, the MSD plan will apply only to new sewer installations, not to existing sewers.

At Tuesday's Wheeling Township board meeting, Richard Cowen, township attorney, told the auditors he has begun work on a proposed ordinance setting up the township's sanitary sewer system.

Cowen told the board, however, he needs technical advice, preferably from an engineering firm, in drafting the new ordinance. As a result the board decided Monday to retain the engineering firm of Baxter and Woodman of Crystal Lake.

The firm was retained only for the purpose of technical advice. Whether the board decides to retain the firm after the system is set up is still to be decided. Funds to pay for Baxter and Woodman will come from the township's legal fees fund.

IN DISCUSSING the MSD plan, Cowen told the auditors, "This puts the township in the sewer business." Permit fees and usage charges will help pay for the new system.

According to Mark Clayton, Northfield Township supervisor, the general township funds cannot be used to pay for the new sewer system. Currently Northfield and Leyden townships already operate their own sewer systems.

Reason for the MSD plan, according to a letter by Forrest C. Neil, acting engineer for the MSD, was that the MSD's previous procedure was "inadequate."

The letter said the MSD "has been accepting sewer permit applications from private individuals and corporations in unincorporated areas of Cook County."

The letter noted it is the responsibility of the sewer permit applicants to operate and maintain adequate sewers.

NEIL SAID IN his letter, "Our experience to date indicates this procedure is not adequate. We have discovered sewer systems which have failed because of a lack of maintenance resulting in raw sewage backing up into homes and creating a situation potentially hazardous to the occupants."

The new plan was drawn up by a committee, established by the MSD, to study the problem.

Wheeling to Enter Sewer Business

Wheeling Township is taking the first step toward putting itself "in the sewer business."

The action comes as a result of an announcement last summer by the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) that after Jan. 1 it would issue sanitary sewer permits only to governmental agencies, such as townships and municipalities, and to utility companies.

Builders and developers in unincorporated portions of the township will begin applying to the township for sanitary sewer permits.

THE MSD ACTION will place the burden on the township of inspection, approval and perhaps even maintenance of sanitary sewers in unincorporated areas.

Delay Decision To Buy Church

Another delay has held up a decision by Wheeling's library board whether to purchase the St. Marks United Church of Christ on Jenkin's Court near Elmhurst Road in Wheeling.

The district is considering remodeling the church building for use as a library.

The board learned Tuesday that estimates on remodeling costs from architect Larry Duke will be ready "on or about Nov. 25."

THOSE ESTIMATES, along with the appraisal figures on the property which the board already has in its possession, are all the board needs to reach a decision on how much money it can feasibly offer for the church.

Also, figures on the remodeling will reveal whether the idea of using the church as a library is feasible.

Charles DuBois, library board member, who is acting as a committee of one on the remodeling, told the board Tuesday night he feels the church "should be a permanent site for the library if we are to consider it at all."

DuBois said the remodeling must be sufficient to meet needs of the community for a 10-to 15-year growth period.

"I DON'T WANT to invest the cost of buying and remodeling the building only to tear it down and start over again," he said. "The actual worth of the ground wouldn't merit that expenditure."

DuBois indicated that one of the factors the board may have to consider is that additional structural support for the flooring may be necessary if the building is to be used as a library.

DuBois said a zoning change on the property might be necessary to use it for a library.

Village ordinances list a library as "variable use" zoning and moving the library to the church land would require approval by the village board after public hearings by the zoning board of appeals, according to Matthew Golden, village manager.

If the board decides to purchase the church or to construct a new building, an option agreement to purchase land would be set up. If a referendum seeking tax money for the new library failed, the board would have to forfeit the money it used to hold the land. If the referendum passed the money would be applied to the purchase price of the new library.

THE LIBRARY BOARD agreed to have Larry Sampson, treasurer, work on a trial projection of what operating costs would be in the church building. The board members said the study would be necessary to determine if the current tax rate will be sufficient to run the library.

Sampson was also appointed to study the feasibility of any annexation that would help the district financially. Sampson mentioned the northern section of Buffalo Grove and areas of Wheeling along the Soo Line R.R. tracks south of the present library boundaries and areas north of Wheeling in Lake county as areas to be considered.

In a related discussion, the board resolved to raise library out-of-district fees to $12 per family instead of the current $7.50. The board decided that the hike would go into effect at the beginning of the next fiscal year, July 1.

The vote came after DuBois said that as a resident of the district, his taxes are $11 a year and that it would be cheaper to use the library if he lived outside the district.

Seale Is Sentenced

CHICAGO — District Court Judge Julius Hoffman yesterday declared a mistrial for Black Panther leader Bobby Seale on riot and conspiracy charges and sentenced him to four years in prison for contempt of court in courtroom outbreaks which have characterized the trial of the "Chicago Eight."

He ruled that the trial of the seven other defendants charged with conspiring to incite riots during the Democratic National Convention should continue.

Nixon Is Happy

WASHINGTON — One year after his election, President Nixon said yesterday, "We're going to come out well in the end." It was a happy day for Nixon, both because of his election a year ago and because of "a couple of big victories" Tuesday.

He was referring to the elections of Nixon-supported governors in Virginia and New Jersey.

Republicans Win

WASHINGTON — President Nixon refused yesterday to take personal credit for two major upsets of Democratic Party rule. Nixon had endorsed victorious candidates Rep. William Cahill as governor of New Jersey, and A. Lincoln Holton as governor of Virginia.

Democrats led New Jersey for 16 years and Virginia for 106 years. Nixon said he is "rather happy" about the elections.

Ogilvie Warns SIU

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Richard Ogilvie suggested yesterday that Southern Illinois University may be jeopardizing its future programs through the board of trustees' decision to build a $1 million mansion for its president.

"I would classify it (the mansion) as a very unfortunate decision. It is difficult to get substantial allocations for an institution when something like this occurs," he said.

Kidnappers Kill Boy

SAN PAULO, Brazil — Unidentified kidnapers lived up to their threat and killed the 18-year-old son of an American director of the Brazilian affiliate of Swift and Co., meat packers, police said yesterday.

The boy, Patrick E. Dolan, was kidnapped last week but his parents did not report the incident because the kidnappers threatened to kill the boy. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Dolan, paid an undisclosed ransom last weekend.

Six Teens Charged

PHILADELPHIA — Jack Thomas, 52, jobless father of three children, was released from jail yesterday and six teenage neighbors who accused him of handing out trick-or-treat apples containing razor blades were arrested for filing a false police report.

Thomas was being held on $10,000 bail while a guard at the project in which he lived, Matthew Glebocki, 44, conducted a private investigation of the case. He persuaded the police to investigate further, leading to Thomas' release.

WILL THIS BE a library? Wheeling's library district board is waiting for estimates of remodeling costs on the St. Marks United Church of Christ before deciding if the church building should be purchased for a library. Board members hope to reach a decision on what amount the library district could offer for the church at the Dec. 2 meeting. A referendum by library district residents in both Wheeling and Buffalo Grove would be necessary to finance either the purchase of the church or construction of a new building.

Mini-Classes Set for Week

Walt Whitman School in Wheeling has big plans for little classes to celebrate American Education Week next week.

Teachers and students Monday will demonstrate a typical day for visitors in the school gymnasium.

Abbreviated "mini-classes" will be demonstrated from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

SEVERAL SPECIAL invitations have been issued to residents of the community who have children past elementary school age.

"Our building may look like the little old school house that many grandparents attended, but we have a lot of exciting new things going on inside. I think people will find the new teaching methods fascinating," said Phoebe Winke, Whitman principal.

"Parents of Whitman students and other interested community residents are invited to come see how education has changed," she said.

Seabees Give Class Plaque

A battalion of appreciative Navy "seabees" stationed in Vietnam have given an engraved plaque to a 1968-69 fourth grade class at Robert Frost School in Prospect Heights. The class was taught by Mrs. Suzanne Major.

Last Christmas the class sent cheering gum, razor blades, playing cards, other small gifts and personal letters to the 40-man battalion.

"The class decided that this Christmas project would make the holidays more meaningful," said Mrs. Major.

THE MEN DEMONSTRATED their appreciation by having the plaque specially made for the class. It now hangs in the Frost Library. The inscription reads: "To the Fourth Grade Class, 1968-69, Robert Frost School, from the Men of Alpha Co. USNMCB 10, Vietnam, 1968-69."

Mrs. Major said her class this year plans to make gifts to give to a children's orphanage during the Christmas holidays.

by ED MURNANE

State Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 13th District, called Wednesday for Democratic support of the Nov. 13 through 15 Vietnam peace moratorium and said his own stand on Vietnam is closer to President Nixon's than the stand of his Republican opponent, Philip M. Crane of Winnetka.

Warman's remarks, confined strictly to the Vietnam War, were made at the 13th Congressional District Democratic Women's Club luncheon in Schaumburg.

He said he supports a "peaceful peace moratorium" as a means of showing "that this terrible war must end."

But he added his own stand on the war is closer to the policy outlined by the President Monday than is the stand of Crane.

"MOST RESPONSIBLE Americans now agree military victory is neither desirable nor attainable," Warman said. "And President Nixon, in his address to the nation Monday night, apparently ruled out seeking a military victory. If he did, I support that phase of his policy."

Warman said Crane's "true position" includes combing the harbor of Haiphong and invoking bizarre economic sanctions like closing the Panama Canal. He said Crane "has found himself in an untenable position and since Nixon has apparently overruled a military victory, my opponent is further from Nixon's policies than I am."

He listed six points which he said he would foster if elected.

"I will press for large-scale troop withdrawals and support the President if I think he is showing good faith in his attempts to bring the troops back home. I think it is possible to have our fighting men back on American soil by the end of 1970."

"I will fight for free elections in Vietnam. To supervise that election, I will support a coalition government, including elements of the National Liberation Front and the Saigon regime."

"IF AFTER THOSE elections, there are numbers of Vietnamese who, seeing the American troops leave, fear for their lives, I will sponsor legislation to enable the United States to create and implement a voluntary resettlement program similar to the U.S. giving a home to 750,000 Cuban refugees. For the cost of one month's fighting in this war, we could resettle, in willing Asian countries, all those Vietnamese who, for one reason or another, want to leave their country."

"I will fight against the corrupt Saigon government."

"I will support the negotiations and urge the President and his advisers to be more sensitive to the hints of peace which have come from time to time from Hanoi and have been ignored by us."

"I will urge the President to remember that Vietnam is essentially a political struggle and as such, cannot be solved militarily."

WARMAN SAID Vietnam should be a "lesson for America" and the U.S. must find better ways "to be a protector of human liberty, human freedom and human dignity."

Stevenson Disrupted By False Bomb Scare

A bomb threat disrupted classes briefly at Ad-i Stevenson High School in Prairie View yesterday morning.

At about 11:20 a.m. "a person with a male voice called the school and told a secretary that dynamite had been placed in the school and would soon go off," said Ed Ellis, Stevenson business manager.

ADMINISTRATORS immediately evacuated the building and called the Vernon Township Fire Department and the Illinois State Police.

After a thorough search of the building, officials concluded that the bomb threat was a hoax. Classes were resumed shortly after noon.

Ellis said that a bomb threat had never been made previously at the school.

Stevenson High School serves residents of Lake County School Dist. 125, which includes the northern part of Buffalo Grove.

He said the United States is "a peaceful nation, seeking peace" and warned that illegal violence, "by any leftist SDS weathermen or right-wing extremists" will not be tolerated.

About 200 Democratic women, and a handful of men, from throughout the 13th District attended the luncheon. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., had been scheduled to speak but was unable to attend.

The special 13th Congressional District election to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Donald Rumsfeld last spring is Nov. 25.

Koeneman Declares

Herman Koeneman of Arlington Heights, a candidate for a Cook County commissioner post in 1966, has announced he will run for the post of Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman in the March primary election.

Koeneman will oppose James E. McCabe, the present committeeman who has already announced he will seek election to a full term.

Koeneman said he decided to run for the office this week. "This decision has been made after numerous phone calls from area Democrats," he said.

KOENEMAN HAS LIVED in Arlington Heights 14 years. He was the vice president of the Wheeling Township Regular Democratic Organization from 1962 until 1966.

Koeneman has charged that McCabe, "in his two years as appointed, not elected, committeeman, has done absolutely nothing for the Wheeling Township Democrats. Mr. McCabe, as committeeman, has shown no interest in township or village elections."

KOENEMAN'S FIRST objective, if elected, he said, "will be to open a headquarters office to serve the township voters for all their needs and keep the Democratic office continually available to the voters of Wheeling Township, not just before each election period."

Koeneman said he would not begin an active campaign until after the first of the year. "The support seems to be coming. It's a question of getting people out on election day."

Koeneman's opponent, McCabe, has received the support of James Stavros, former Democratic committeeman who retired in 1967 after 10 years in the office, and State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Third District.

Bird: Not Overruled

An article in yesterday's Herald incorrectly quoted "Wheeling Trustee Ira Bird's remarks concerning the dismissals of four civilian radio operators."

The sentence in question should have read, "Bird said that the board did not overrule Golden's decision, but that the Herald gave the impression that Golden 'is no longer boss or never has been.'"

Hobby Is on the Wall

by MARTHA KOPER

As she pursues her hobby, a Rolling Meadows woman could borrow a song from "The King and I."

"Getting to know you, getting to know all about you" is a good description of what Mrs. Beverly Bergdahl believes she can glean from a person's handwriting.

She's a graphoanalyst and enjoys telling people about themselves after studying pages of their writing. But aside from enjoyment, she thinks the job is important.

"PEOPLE SHOULD want to learn all they can about themselves," she said.

"Unless we know our strengths and weaknesses along with our problems and qualities, how will we ever know what potential we might have?" she asked.

A person's handwriting can tell almost all there is to know: Characteristic traits, sensitivity, will power, discipline, compatibility and creativity, according to Mrs. Bergdahl.

She said that whether it's good or bad news, she always tells the truth.

"It's essential to level with someone. Graphoanalysts have a code of ethics," she said.

NOT TO BE confused with a person who practices graphology, Mrs. Bergdahl has taken classes in her hobby. Working toward a higher degree, she already has completed more than 18 months of training.

Her first year-and-a-half course was finished in six months because she attended classes eight hours a day. Now she's a certified accredited member of the International Graphoanalyst Society.

But those who practice graphology do not receive formal training, according to Mrs. Bergdahl. They learn primarily from books, although she admits some graphologists can be very accurate.

"On the other hand, we not only are taught how to analyze handwriting, but also how to interpret the signs we see," she explained.

ASIDE FROM offering her talent to individuals, Mrs. Bergdahl has analyzed handwriting for private industry and police departments in the area.

Her ability is particularly useful in tracking down forgers and occasionally she's been asked to explain her interpretations in court.

At a former place of employment, she frequently was asked to analyze the handwriting of potential executives for the company.

"They usually gave the job to the one I had chosen for the most outstanding qualities, too," she said.

It's not simple or quick to analyze someone's handwriting, according to Mrs. Bergdahl.

"WHEN I FIRST started, it always took me at least eight hours to do a thorough job," she explained.

"As a matter of fact, it still takes between four and five hours," she added.

When she's finished, she delivers the results only to the person whose handwriting was analyzed. If she does not hand it to him personally, she will send it by registered mail.

"That's part of our code of ethics too. We consider analysis a very private thing and only the person should know what we have interpreted. I never discuss a person's handwriting with anyone else, either," she said.

WITHOUT GIVING away the tricks of the trade, she explained what she looks for in a person's handwriting. Interpretations can be made from the slant, heaviness, size, loops, lines, and many other meaningful signs.

The mother of three children, Mrs. Bergdahl still remembers her first exposure to handwriting analysis when she was 13 years old.

"In seventh grade, I had to give a speech. I wanted to find a subject that was different. I went to the library and found a graphology book," she said.

In the following years, her interest faded a little until about three years ago when a friend analyzed her handwriting.

"IT WAS FASCINATING how close to the truth I came to realize that analysis was. I've tried to correct the bad points," she smiled.

And so her interest has grown until now she assuredly says, "Handwriting is brain writing."

Graham Backs Bid With Experience

Sen. John A. "Jack" Graham put his 11 years' experience in the state Senate up for challenge Wednesday in announcing intentions to seek reelection.

Graham, 57, a Barrington Republican, is seeking his fourth four-year term. In announcing his candidacy, he promoted Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's push to state fiscal responsibility and greater highway improvements.

In addition, Graham committed himself to attention to specific Third District problems of highways, waste control, flooding, education and law and order.

THE SENATOR SPOKE at a press conference in The Arlington Carousell Restaurant. He was surrounded by GOP committeemen from Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg and Palatine townships and said he has been pledged the support of the Northfield, Maine and Wheeling township organizations.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He noted he was sent to the Senate in 1956 with the largest Republican plurality of any other Republican senator.

"I bring with my candidacy 12 years of working with the general assembly, the experience of working on key committees and a knowledge and ability to work with the House, important to passage of meaningful legislation," Graham said.

IN HIS PREPARED ADDRESS, Graham discounted recent claims of Democratic State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III that Illinois will have a budget surplus next year. A voter for the sensitive issue of the state income tax, Graham said if there is a surplus, "the Republican-dominated legislature will face this head-on and will reduce taxes in the areas most critical."

He called Stevenson's charges "a political vehicle used by a man aspiring to the Potomac River."

$280 million bond issue. He said Chicago

Graham said he departed from his usual position on nonreferendum bond issues during the last general assembly to support the Metropolitan Sanitary Dis-voters would not have been in sympathy with the referendum, which would mainly benefit the suburbs.

He estimated $16 million will be issued shortly for projects in the northwest area.

GRAHAM SAID BECAUSE of the General Assembly's educational bills, the Third District will receive more than $8 million in additional state aid to common schools with no increase in the real estate tax.

He said he led opposition to a proposed two-cent gasoline tax on Cook County residents to subsidize the Chicago Transit Authority.

Graham was elected to the Senate in 1958 and has successfully won every bid for reelection.

Those attending Graham's luncheon and press conference were Committeemen Eugene Divitt of Hanover Township, Don Toten of Schaumburg Township, Bernard Pedersen of Palatine Township and Harold Smith of Barrington Township, and Committeewomen Mrs. Sally Catlin of Schaumburg Township and Mrs. Glen-Ann Jicha of Palatine Township.

Dick Hall, president of the Elk Grove Township Regular Republican organization, was present along with State Rep. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect. Mrs. Mary Schlot, legislative aide to State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, represented Schlickman.

Vote Tied on Exit For Shopping Center

Wheeling's zoning board reached a tie vote with one abstention on a request to change residentially zoned land behind the Wheeling Shopping Center for an exit and increased employee parking Tuesday.

Village Mgr. Matthew Golden had recommended approval of the zoning change, but three board members voted against it.

Some board members questioned whether the use would be legal, based on a paragraph in the zoning ordinances which appears to require a 25-foot-wide planted area to act as a buffer strip between the shopping center and adjacent residential development.

The village board must decide the zoning based on the zoning board's recommendations.

The zoning board Tuesday also continued a petition for a sign at the Don Roth Restaurant on North Milwaukee Avenue.

School To Be Dedicated

Open house at Booth Tarkington School in Wheeling Monday will be a special occasion for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove community.

The new school, built last summer at 330 Scott St., will be officially dedicated as part of the observation of American Education Week. It will be the first such special dedication in several years.

The evening will begin at 7:30 p.m. with an open house. All visitors will have the opportunity to browse thru the classrooms from 7:30 to 8:15 p.m.

Some rooms will have displays of the school's teaching and learning aids. Other rooms will have a variety of curriculum displays such as reading and science kits. Fifth and sixth grade students will serve as hosts in each room.

At 8:30 p.m., the dedication ceremony will begin in the multipurpose room, with a presentation by the London Junior High School Chorus. Representatives from the villages of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove will be introduced.

Mrs. Mary Jo Reid, past president of the board of education, will dedicate the school. Paul McKown, principal of the

HANDWRITING MEANS MORE than communication to Mrs. Beverly Bergdahl of Rolling Meadows, who believes a person will learn all about himself through analysis of writing. She's also sure that someone's personality could change, if he changed his way of writing.

System Reduces Sky Crowds

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Steps are being taken by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to reduce congestion in the crowded skies.

A new system known as area or off-course navigation has been put in use on an interim basis on 16 routes between major U.S. cities, including Chicago.

Through the use of computerized airborne navigational equipment, more routes are being made available to commercial airlines.

MAJOR BENEFITS FROM the system are reduced congestion and improvements in flight safety, as well as reduced workloads for air traffic controllers.

In conventional systems, all airways, sometimes called highways in the sky, run between ground-radio navigation transmitters known as VORs. Pilots can fly a precise course only directly toward or directly away from one of the transmitter sites.

Area navigation eliminates the need for a pilot to fly directly to or from a ground-based radio navigation aid.

With this technique, air routes can be established almost instantly to provide detours around congested areas, parallel routes in congested areas, straighter, shorter paths for long flights and one-way airways.

Area navigation also makes it possible for improved instrument approach capabilities, better location of holding patterns and greater navigation control by the pilot in areas which now require FAA controllers to vector aircraft by radar.

THE SYSTEM WILL result in savings of time to the airlines on flights between Chicago's O'Hare Airport and New York as well as other cities. Area navigation techniques also permit establishment of procedures tailored to STOL (Short Takeoff and Landing) aircraft and helicopter operations.

Another benefit is the possibility of establishing instrument approach procedures for airports which now may not be used when weather is bad.

William M. Flener, chief of the FAA's Air Traffic Service, said, "Area navigation looks promising for both controllers and pilots, relieving them of some workload. It may help in the terminal areas, and is almost certain to give us more leeway in the enroute portions of flight."

DEMONSTRATING use of computerized navigational equipment is Hartley Graham, flight inspector pilot for the FAA. A system known as area naigation will reduce air traffic congestion along routes between O'Hare Airport and other cities.

Parents Warned of Drug Traffic, Problems

by BETSY BROOKER

"Every student in school today must decide if he wants to take drugs," according to David Walsh of the Cook County Sheriff's juvenile division.

"All of your sons and daughters can name a kid who is pushing drugs and who is using drugs in his school," Walsh told an audience of Prospect Heights residents Tuesday night.

He and Richard Lundgren of the Cook County Sheriff's investigating unit gave a presentation on narcotics at the Indian Grove School in Prospect Heights. Their talk was sponsored by the Northwest Suburban Council, a group made up of representatives from nine homeowners associations.

"THESE KIDS ARE forced to make a decision we weren't faced with because drug use was not as widespread as it is today," said Walsh. "The volume of narcotics in the Northwest suburbs and all over the country is unbelievable," he said.

A member of the audience asked Walsh if narcotics are a problem at Wheeling High School.

"There is quite a bit of marijuana traffic at Wheeling High School. It is not as bad as Hersey High School yet, but some of the pushers have moved over there from Wheeling," he said.

"A lot of pills and grass are being moved in drive-in movie theaters," said Walsh. "The kids we arrested five years ago for carrying beer are now 'shooting speed' (methadone)," he said.

Why has the problem become so crucial? One of the reasons Walsh suggested is that "we have become drug society. People are taking a pill to go to sleep at night."

ACCORDING TO Lundgren, the addict is often neurotic, irresponsible and immature. "They are thrill seekers who act first and think later," he said.

"An addict might be a person who was trying to reach a certain goal and couldn't achieve it. Or he might be a person who had too much maternal protection and became a 'momma's boy,'" said Lundgren.

"A common addict type is the adolescent who wants to belong to a certain group and 'be cool.' Or he might want to be different and stand out as a 'big shot,'" said Lundgren.

A major problem the police face is ignorance on the part of the community about the effects of narcotics.

"If your son or daughter asks you about the effects of drugs, you probably won't know," Lundgren said.

The two detectives described several of the narcotics used today:

"Morphine, which is a white flour-like substance, is very irritable to the skin. It is usually taken through the nose, orally or injected. You can always tell a morphine addict because the outer edge of his nostrils has been eaten away by the drug.

"HEROIN IS 20 TO 25 times more potent than morphine and is a depressant to the spinal cord. It is a sandy, gritty substance that causes your legs and arms to feel heavy and warm, and it makes your face itch. We often find a heroin addict sitting on the floor scratching his nose," they said.

"If a heroin addict wants to inject the drug, he puts a few grains in a tiny cup called a 'cooker,' adds water and warms it with a match. A wad of cotton is put in the 'cooker' to act as a filter, and the liquid is drawn up in a hypodermic syringe. The addict then shoots the drug in a vein.

"Marijuana, called the 'crazy plant' by the Indians, is the most common in this area. It looks something like oregano and is rolled in paper and smoked like a cigarette. The paper can be bought in apple, banana and cherry flavors now.

"Many people have said marijuana is not addictive, but it can lead to harder drugs. It also puts you in contact with a bad crowd of people.

"LSD is the most potent drug. It is 1,000 times more effective than marijuana. If you took an eyedropper and filled it with LSD, you would have enough to send everyone in Prospect Heights on a trip," they said.

"LSD IS DIFFICULT to find because it is in micrograms and is odorless, tasteless and colorless in its original state. One hundred to 250 micrograms will give one person hallucinations for eight to 10 hours.

"Glue sniffing is the most common in the elementary school grades. It causes numbness, chest pains and hallucinations for 30 minutes to one hour. We have known of cases where one person will take 15 to 20 tubes a day. The stupor that follows each 'high' is sometimes accompanied by death," they said.

"The penalty for a first drug offense is a fine up to $5,000 and no more than 10 in the penitentiary. For a subsequent offense, a drug user can be sentenced from five years to life," the detectives said.

"Are these laws enforced to the limit?" asked a man in the audience. "Very seldom," said Lundgren. "The judges don't see the same kid that the policeman does on the street. When the offender is brought to court, his hair is cut, he has a suit on and he is not under the effects of drugs," he said.

"WE DON'T WANT to put all of the kids in jail. We are after the big pushers who are making the money. If we put every drug user in jail, we would fill up every jail in the country," said Walsh.

"We usually talk to the parents of the kids and refer them to a social agency where they can get help," he said.

"What can the parent do to stop the kids from using drugs?" asked another person in the audience. "Support your local police. Let us know when you find drugs in your son's or daughter's room so we can identify the pushers and stop them."

Seabees Give Class Plaque

A battalion of appreciative Navy "seabees" stationed in Vietnam have given an engraved plaque to a 1968-69 fourth grade class at Robert Frost School in Prospect Heights. The class was taught by Mrs. Suzanne Major.

Last Christmas the class sent chewing gum, razor blades, playing cards, other small gifts and personal letters to the 40-man battalion.

Drama Group Sets 'Harvey' Comedy

"Harvey," a comedy about an invisible white rabbit, will be presented by the drama department of Adlai Stevenson High School in Prairie View, Nov. 14 and 15.

The play by Mary Chase will be given at 8 p.m. both evenings in the Stevenson auditorium.

THE COMEDY tells the tale of Elwood P. Dowd, who has an invisible six-foot tall white rabbit as a friend.

Stevenson teacher William Gallagher is directing the play. He is being assisted by Miss Mary Francis.

Student directors are Lisa Gillis and Pam Mercier. Stevenson student Keith Troesch is technical director.

200 Are Expected At 2nd Bendorama

More than 200 youths from Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights will participate in the second annual Bendorama Festival Saturday at the Prospect Heights Fieldhouse.

The festival will combine the best in marching and concert playing, featuring the Prospect Marching Band and the prize winning Prospect Stage Band.

ALONG WITH THE precision drills of the Rhythmettes, the marching band will repeat highlights from this year's halftime shows, both music and routines.

Last year's audience was more than 1,200 and students are anticipating a sell-out crowd for this year's performance. Tickets to the second annual Bendorama Festival are available from any member of the Prospect High School bands or Rhythmettes.

Seale Is Sentenced

CHICAGO — District Court Judge Julius Hoffman yesterday declared a mistrial for Black Panther leader Bobby Seale on riot and conspiracy charges and sentenced him to four years in prison for contempt of court in courtroom outbreaks which have characterized the trial of the "Chicago Eight."

He ruled that the trial of the seven other defendants charged with conspiring to incite riots during the Democratic National Convention should continue.

Nixon Is Happy

WASHINGTON — One year after his election, President Nixon said yesterday, "We're going to come out well in the end." It was a happy day for Nixon, both because of his election a year ago and because of "a couple of big victories" Tuesday.

He was referring to the elections of Nixon-supported governors in Virginia and New Jersey.

WASHINGTON — President Nixon refused yesterday to take personal credit for two major upsets of Democratic Party rule. Nixon had endorsed victorious candidates Rep. William Cahill as governor of New Jersey, and A. Lincoln Holton as governor of Virginia.

Democrats led New Jersey for 16 years and Virginia for 100 years. Nixon said he is "rather happy" about the elections.

Ogilvie Warns SIU

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Richard Ogilvie suggested yesterday that Southern Illinois University may be jeopardizing its future programs through the board of trustee's decision to build a $1 million mansion for its president.

"I would classify it (the mansion) as a very unfortunate decision. It is difficult to get substantial allocations for an institution when something like this occurs," he said.

Kidnappers Kill Boy

SAN PAULO, Brazil — Unidentified kidnapers lived up to their threat and killed the 18-year-old son of an American director of the Brazilian affiliate of Swift and Co., meat packers, police said yesterday.

The boy, Patrick E. Dolan, was kidnapped last week but his parents did not report the incident because the kidnappers threatened to kill the boy. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Dolan, paid an undisclosed ransom last weekend.

Warman Backs Moratorium

by ED MURNANE

State Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 13th District, called Wednesday for Democratic support of the Nov. 13 through 15 Vietnam peace moratorium and said his own stand on Vietnam is closer to President Nixon's than the stand of his Republican opponent, Philip M. Crane of Winnetka.

Warman's remarks, confined strictly to the Vietnam War, were made at the 13th Congressional District Democratic Woman's Club luncheon in Schaumburg.

He said he supports a "peaceful peace moratorium" as a means of showing "that this terrible war must end."

But he added his own stand on the war is closer to the policy outlined by the President Monday than is the stand of Crane.

"MOST RESPONSIBLE Americans now agree military victory is neither desirable nor attainable," Warman said. "And President Nixon, in his address to the nation Monday night, apparently ruled out seeking a military victory. If he did, I support that phase of his policy."

Warman said Crane's "true position" includes combing the harbor of Haiphong "and invoking bizarre economic sanctions like closing the Panama Canal." He said

Crane "has found himself in an untenable position and since Nixon has apparently overruled a military victory, my opponent is further from Nixon's policies than I am."

He listed six points which he said he would foster if elected.

"I will press for large-scale troop withdrawals and support the President if I think he is showing good faith in his attempts to bring the troops back home. I think it is possible to have our fighting men back on American soil by the end of 1970."

"I will fight for free elections in Vietnam. To supervise that election, I will support a coalition government, including elements of the National Liberation Front and the Saigon regime."

"IF AFTER THOSE elections, there are numbers of Vietnamese who, seeing the American troops leave, fear for their lives, I will sponsor legislation to enable the United States to create and implement a voluntary resettlement program similar to the U.S. giving a home to 755,000 Cuban refugees. For the cost of one month's fighting in this war, we could resettle, in willing Asian countries, all those Vietnamese who, for one reason or another, want to leave their country."

"I will fight against the corrupt Saigon government."

"I will support the negotiations and urge the President and his advisers to be more sensitive to the hints of peace which have come from time to time from Hanoi and have been ignored by us."

"I will urge the President to remember that Vietnam is essentially a political struggle and as such, cannot be solved militarily."

WARMAN SAID Vietnam should be a "lesson for America" and the U.S. must find better ways "to be a protector of human liberty, human freedom and human dignity."

He said the United States is "a peaceful nation, seeking peace" and warned that illegal violence "by any leftist SDS weathermen or right-wing extremists" will not be tolerated.

About 200 Democratic women, and a handful of men, from throughout the 13th District attended the luncheon. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., had been scheduled to speak but was unable to attend.

The special 13th Congressional District election to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Donald Rumsfeld last spring is Nov. 25.

Study Sex Class

Proposals for a more comprehensive sex education program were discussed by the Dist. 26 school board Monday night.

Before the discussion, an in-depth study of the sex education program used now was presented to the board by Glen Erickson, curriculum director.

Erickson said three 40-minute sessions on sex education are incorporated into the health program given to seventh and eighth graders.

The course, presented by Jessie Potter Associates, concentrates on the biological aspects of human reproduction and the social aspects of growing up and accepting responsibility.

CLASSES ARE segregated for boys and girls and include approximately 10 to 15 students at a time. According to Winston Harwood, district superintendent, 93 per cent of the junior high students attended these classes this year.

For the past three years, Erickson and Harwood have studied ways to improve the present sex education program. "We don't have a strong program now. We would like to develop one with a more structured approach," said Harwood.

One of the proposals made at the board meeting was to use professional help, such as registered nurses, in the program.

The grade level at which the program should be taught was also discussed. Harwood said he would like to keep the instruction at the junior high level.

ERICKSON SUGGESTED adding two more books to the program, companions to the books used in the program now. They are "For Youth To Know" and "Human Growth and Reproduction" by Dr. Allen Boyer. Each board member was given copies of the books.

"The length of the course will probably remain the same," said Harwood.

Restructuring of the sex education program is only in the beginning stages, said Harwood, and will be discussed again by the board. After board members agree on a proposal for the program, they will present it to the community, possibly through homeowner and PTA meetings.

"We would like to give the parents a chance to ask questions," said Harwood. "I think there is a strong family responsibility in the area of sex education."

Study of Traffic Is Almost Over

A traffic study, which was initiated earlier this year, is nearly completed, according to the Mount Prospect safety commission.

The study, which is being done to study existing traffic flow facilities in Mount Prospect and make suggestions for keeping up with village growth, is expected to be done by the end of the year.

Saturday safety commission members, Mayor Robert Teichert and Village Mgr. Virgil Barnett met with officials of Crawford, Bunte and Roden, Inc., the firm which was hired to make the study, to determine its progress.

IN ADDITION to traffic bottlenecks at the Chicago and North Western Railway tracks and Weller Creek, the firm is studying bulkheads caused by commuter traffic and parking both in the morning and at night.

Traffic delays at the Central and Mount Prospect Roads crossings are also being studied by the firm.

Hobby Is on the Wall

by MARTHA KOPER

As she pursues her hobby, a Rolling Meadows woman could borrow a song from "The King and I."

"Getting to know you, getting to know all about you" is a good description of what Mrs. Beverly Bergdahl believes she can glean from a person's handwriting.

She's a graphoanalyst and enjoys telling people about themselves after studying pages of their writing. But aside from enjoyment, she thinks the job is important.

"PEOPLE SHOULD want to learn all they can about themselves," she said.

"Unless we know our strengths and weaknesses along with our problems and qualities, how will we ever know what potential we might have?" she asked.

A person's handwriting can tell almost all there is to know: Characteristic traits, sensitivity, will power, discipline, compatibility and creativity, according to Mrs. Bergdahl.

She said that whether it's good or bad news, she always tells the truth.

"It's essential to level with someone. Graphoanalysts have a code of ethics," she said.

NOT TO BE confused with a person who practices graphology, Mrs. Bergdahl has taken classes in her hobby. Working toward a higher degree, she already has completed more than 18 months of training.

Her first year-and-a-half course was finished in six months because she attended classes eight hours a day. Now she's a certified accredited member of the International Graphoanalyst Society.

But those who practice graphology do not receive formal training, according to Mrs. Bergdahl. They learn primarily from books, although she admits some graphologists can be very accurate.

"On the other hand, we not only are taught how to analyze handwriting, but also how to interpret the signs we see," she explained.

ASIDE FROM offering her talent to individuals, Mrs. Bergdahl has analyzed handwriting for private industry and police departments in the area.

Her ability is particularly useful in tracking down forgers and occasionally she's been asked to explain her interpretations in court.

At a former place of employment, she frequently was asked to analyze the handwriting of potential executives for the company.

"They usually gave the job to the one I had chosen for the most outstanding qualities, too," she said.

It's not simple or quick to analyze someone's handwriting, according to Mrs. Bergdahl.

"WHEN I FIRST started, it always took me at least eight hours to do a thorough job," she explained.

"As a matter of fact, it still takes between four and five hours," she added.

When she's finished, she delivers the results only to the person whose handwriting was analyzed. If she does not hand it to him personally, she will send it by registered mail.

"That's part of our code of ethics too. We consider analysis a very private thing and only the person should know what we have interpreted. I never discuss a person's handwriting with anyone else, either," she said.

WITHOUT GIVING away the tricks of the trade, she explained what she looks for in a person's handwriting. Interpretations can be made from the slant, heaviness, size, loops, lines, and many other meaningful signs.

The mother of three children, Mrs. Bergdahl still remembers her first exposure to handwriting analysis when she was 13 years old.

"In seventh grade, I had to give a speech. I wanted to find a subject that was different. I went to the library and found a graphology book," she said.

In the following years, her interest faded a little until about three years ago when a friend analyzed her handwriting.

"IT WAS FASCINATING how close to the truth I came to realize that analysis was. I've tried to correct the bad points," she smiled.

And so her interest has grown until now she assuredly says, "Handwriting is brain writing."

Graham Backs Bid With Experience

Sen. John A. "Jack" Graham put his 11 years' experience in the state Senate up for challenge Wednesday in announcing intentions to seek reelection.

Graham, 57, a Barrington Republican, is seeking his fourth four-year term. In announcing his candidacy, he promoted Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's push to state fiscal responsibility and greater highway improvements.

In addition, Graham committed himself to attention to specific Third District problems of highways, waste control, flooding, education and law and order.

THE SENATOR SPOKE at a press conference in The Arlington Carousal Restaurant. He was surrounded by GOP committeemen from Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg and Palatine townships and said he has been pledged the support of the Northfield, Maine and Wheeling township organizations.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He noted he was sent to the Senate in 1968 with the largest Republican plurality of any other Republican senator.

"I bring with my candidacy 12 years of working with the general assembly, the experience of working on key committees and a knowledge and ability to work with the House, important to passage of meaningful legislation," Graham said.

IN HIS PREPARED ADDRESS, Graham discounted recent claims of Democratic State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III that Illinois will have a budget surplus next year. A voter for the sensitive issue of the state income tax, Graham said if there is a surplus, "the Republican-dominated legislature will face this head-on and will reduce taxes in the areas most critical."

He called Stevenson's charges "a political vehicle used by a man aspiring to the Potomac River."

$280 million bond issue. He said Chicago

Graham said he departed from his usual position on nonreferendum bond issues during the last general assembly to support the Metropolitan Sanitary Dis-voters would not have been in sympathy with the referendum, which would mainly benefit the suburbs.

He estimated $16 million will be issued shortly for projects in the northwest area.

GRAHAM SAID BECAUSE of the General Assembly's educational bills, the Third District will receive more than $6 million in additional state aid to common schools with no increase in the real estate tax.

He said he led opposition to a proposed two-cent gasoline tax on Cook County residents to subsidize the Chicago Transit Authority.

Graham was elected to the Senate in 1958 and has successfully won every bid for reelection.

Those attending Graham's luncheon and press conference were Committeemen Eugene Divitt of Hanover Township, Don Tokten of Schaumburg Township, Bernard Pedersen of Palatine Township and Harold Smith of Barrington Township, and Committeewomen Mrs. Sally Catlin of Schaumburg Township and Mrs. Glen-Ann Jicha of Palatine Township.

Dick Hall, president of the Elk Grove Township Regular Republican organization, was present along with State Rep. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect. Mrs. Mary Schlott, legislative aide to State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, represented Schlickman.

Vote Tied on Exit For Shopping Center

Wheeling's zoning board reached a tie vote with one abstention on a request to change residentially zoned land behind the Wheeling Shopping Center for an exit and increased employee parking Tuesday.

Village Mgr. Matthew Golden had recommended approval of the zoning change, but three board members voted against it.

Some board members questioned whether the use would be legal, based on a paragraph in the zoning ordinances which appears to require a 25-foot-wide planted area to act as a buffer strip between the shopping center and adjacent residential development.

The village board must decide the zoning based on the zoning board's recommendations.

The zoning board Tuesday also continued a petition for a sign at the Don Roth Restaurant on North Milwaukee Avenue.

School To Be Dedicated

Open house at Booth Tarkington School in Wheeling Monday will be a special occasion for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove community.

The new school, built last summer at 310 Scott St., will be officially dedicated as part of the observation of American Education Week. It will be the first such special dedication in several years.

The evening will begin at 7:30 p.m. with an open house. All visitors will have the opportunity to browse thru the classrooms from 7:30 to 8:15 p.m.

Some rooms will have displays of the school's teaching and learning aids. Other rooms will have a variety of curriculum displays such as reading and science kits. Fifth and sixth grade students will serve as hosts in each room.

At 8:30 p.m., the dedication ceremony will begin in the multipurpose room, with a presentation by the London Junior High School Chorus. Representatives from the villages of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove will be introduced.

Mrs. Mary Jo Reid, past president of the board of education, will dedicate the school. Paul McKown, principal of the

ing. She's also sure that someone's personality could change, if he changed his way of writing.

System Reduces Sky Crowds

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Steps are being taken by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to reduce congestion in the crowded skies.

A new system known as area or off-course navigation has been put in use on an interim basis on 16 routes between major U.S. cities, including Chicago.

Through the use of computerized airborne navigational equipment, more routes are being made available to commercial airlines.

MAJOR BENEFITS FROM the system are reduced congestion and improvements in flight safety, as well as reduced workloads for air traffic controllers.

In conventional systems, all airways, sometimes called highways in the sky, run between ground-radio navigation transmitters known as VORs. Pilots can fly a precise course only directly toward or directly away from one of the transmitter sites.

Area navigation eliminates the need for a pilot to fly directly to or from a ground-based radio navigation aid.

With this technique, air routes can be established almost instantly to provide detours around congested areas, parallel routes in congested areas, straighter, shorter paths for long flights and one-way airways.

Area navigation also makes it possible for improved instrument approach capabilities, better location of holding patterns and greater navigation control by the pilot in areas which now require FAA controllers to vector aircraft by radar.

THE SYSTEM WILL result in savings of time to the airlines on flights between Chicago's O'Hare Airport and New York as well as other cities. Area navigation techniques also permit establishment of procedures tailored to STOL (Short Takeoff and Landing) aircraft and helicopter operations.

Another benefit is the possibility of establishing instrument approach procedures for airports which now may not be used when weather is bad.

William M. Flener, chief of the FAA's Air Traffic Service, said, "Area navigation looks promising for both controllers and pilots, relieving them of some workload. It may help in the terminal areas, and is almost certain to give us more leeway in the enroute portions of flight."

DEMONSTRATING use of computerized navigational equipment is Hartley Graham, flight inspector pilot for the FAA. A system known as area navigation will reduce air traffic congestion along routes between O'Hare Airport and other cities.

Delay Decision To Buy Church

WILL THIS BE A library? Wheeling's library district board is waiting for estimates of remodeling costs on the St. Marks United Church of Christ before deciding if the church building should be purchased for a library. Board members hope to reach a decision on what amount the library district could offer for the church at the Dec. 2 meeting. A referendum by library district residents in both Wheeling and

Buffalo Grove would be necessary to finance either the purchase of the church or construction of a new building.

Another delay has held up a decision by Wheeling's library board whether to purchase the St. Marks United Church of Christ on Jenkin's Court near Elmhurst Road in Wheeling.

The district is considering remodeling the church building for use as a library.

The board learned Tuesday that estimates on remodeling costs from architect Larry Duke will be ready "on or about Nov. 25."

THOSE ESTIMATES, along with the appraisal figures on the property which the board already has in its possession, are all the board needs to reach a decision on how much money it can feasibly offer for the church.

Also, figures on the remodeling will reveal whether the idea of using the church as a library is feasible.

Charles DuBois, library board member, who is acting as a committee of one on the remodeling, told the board Tuesday night he feels the church "should be a permanent site for the library if we are to consider it at all."

DuBois said the remodeling must be sufficient to meet needs of the community for a 10- to 15-year growth period.

"I DON'T WANT to invest the cost of buying and remodeling the building only to tear it down and start over again," he said. "The actual worth of the ground wouldn't merit that expenditure."

DuBois indicated that one of the factors the board may have to consider is that additional structural support for the flooring may be necessary if the building is to be used as a library.

DuBois said a zoning change on the property might be necessary to use it for a library.

Village ordinances list a library as "variable use" zoning and moving the library to the church land would require approval by the village board after public hearings by the zoning board of appeals, according to Matthew Golden, village manager.

If the board decides to purchase the church or to construct a new building, an option agreement to purchase land would be set up. If a referendum seeking tax money for the new library failed, the board would have to forfeit the money it used to hold the land. If the referendum passed the money would be applied to the purchase price of the new library.

THE LIBRARY BOARD agreed to have Larry Sampson, treasurer, work on a trial projection of what operating costs would be in the church building. The board members said the study would be necessary to determine if the current tax rate will be sufficient to run the library.

Sampson was also appointed to study the feasibility of any annexation that would help the district financially. Sampson mentioned the northern section of Buffalo Grove and areas of Wheeling along the Soo Line R.R. tracks south of the present library boundaries and areas north of Wheeling in Lake county as areas to be considered.

In a related discussion, the board resolved to raise library out-of-district fees to $12 per family instead of the current $7.50. The board decided that the hike would go into effect at the beginning of the next fiscal year, July 1.

The vote came after DuBois said that as a resident of the district, his taxes are $11 a year and that it would be cheaper to use the library if he lived outside the district.

Wheeling to Enter Sewer Business

Wheeling Township is taking the first step toward putting itself "in the sewer business."

The action comes as a result of an announcement last summer by the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) that after Jan. 1 it would issue sanitary sewer permits only to governmental agencies, such as townships and municipalities, and to utility companies.

Builders and developers in unincorporated portions of the township will begin applying to the township for sanitary sewer permits.

THE MSD ACTION will place the burden on the township of inspection, approval and perhaps even maintenance of sanitary sewers in unincorporated areas.

According to Mrs. Ethel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, the MSD plan will apply only to new sewer installations, not to existing sewers.

At Tuesday's Wheeling Township board meeting, Richard Cowen, township attorney, told the auditors he has begun work on a proposed ordinance setting up the township's sanitary sewer system.

Cowen told the board, however, he needs technical advice, preferably from an engineering firm, in drafting the new ordinance. As a result the board decided Monday to retain the engineering firm of Baxter and Woodman of Crystal Lake.

The firm was retained only for the purpose of technical advice. Whether the board decides to retain the firm after the system is set up is still to be decided. Funds to pay for Baxter and Woodman will come from the township's legal fees fund.

IN DISCUSSING the MSD plan, Cowen told the auditors, "This puts the township in the sewer business." Permit fees and usage charges will help pay for the new system.

According to Mark Clayton, Northfield Township supervisor, the general township funds cannot be used to pay for the new sewer system. Currently Northfield and Leyden townships already operate their own sewer systems.

Reason for the MSD plan, according to a letter by Forrest C. Neil, acting engineer for the MSD, was that the MSD's previous procedure was "inadequate."

The letter said the MSD "has been accepting sewer permit applications from private individuals and corporations in unincorporated areas of Cook County."

The letter noted it is the responsibility of the sewer permit applicants to operate and maintain adequate sewers.

NEIL SAID in his letter, "Our experience to date indicates this procedure is not adequate. We have discovered sewer systems which have failed because of a lack of maintenance resulting in raw sewage backing up into homes and creating a situation potentially hazardous to the occupants."

The new plan was drawn up by a committee, established by the MSD, to study the problem.

Mini-Classes Set for Week

Walt Whitman School in Wheeling has big plans for little classes to celebrate American Education Week next week.

Teachers and students Monday will demonstrate a typical day for visitors in the school gymnasium.

Abbreviated "mini-classes" will be demonstrated from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

SEVERAL SPECIAL invitations have been issued to residents of the community who have children past elementary school age.

"Our building may look like the little old school house that many grandparents attended, but we have a lot of exciting new things going on inside. I think people will find the new teaching methods fascinating," said Phoebe Winke, Whitman principal.

"Parents of Whitman students and other interested community residents are invited to come see how education has changed," she said.

Seabees Give Class Plaque

A battalion of appreciative Navy "seabees" stationed in Vietnam have given an engraved plaque to a 1968-69 fourth grade class at Robert Frost School in Prospect Heights. The class was taught by Mrs. Suzanne Major.

Last Christmas the class sent chewing gum, razor blades, playing cards, other small gifts and personal letters to the 40-man battalion.

"The class decided that this Christmas project would make the holidays more meaningful," said Mrs. Major.

THE MEN DEMONSTRATED their appreciation by having the plaque specially made for the class. It now hangs in the Frost Library. The inscription reads: "To the Fourth Grade Class, 1968-69, Robert Frost School, from the Men of Alpha Co. USNMCB 10, Vietnam, 1968-69."

Mrs. Major said her class this year plans to make gifts to give to a children's orphanage during the Christmas holidays.

by ED MURNANE

State Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 13th District, called Wednesday for Democratic support of the Nov. 13 through 15 Vietnam peace moratorium and said his own stand on Vietnam is closer to President Nixon's than the stand of his Republican opponent, Philip M. Crane of Winnetka.

Warman's remarks, confined strictly to the Vietnam War, were made at the 13th Congressional District Democratic Women's Club luncheon in Schaumburg.

He said he supports a "peaceful peace moratorium" as a means of showing "that this terrible war must end."

But he added his own stand on the war is closer to the policy outlined by the President Monday than is the stand of Crane.

"MOST RESPONSIBLE Americans now agree military victory is neither desirable nor attainable," Warman said. "And President Nixon, in his address to the nation Monday night, apparently ruled out seeking a military victory. If he did, I support that phase of his policy."

Warman said Crane's "true position" includes bombing the harbor of Haiphong and invoking bizarre economic sanctions like closing the Panama Canal. He said Crane "has found himself in an untenable position" and since Nixon has apparently overruled a military victory, my opponent is further from Nixon's policies than I am.

He listed six points which he said he would foster if elected.

"I will press for large-scale troop withdrawals and support the President if I think he is showing good faith in his attempts to bring the troops back home. I think it is possible to have our fighting men back on American soil by the end of 1970."

"I will fight for free elections in Vietnam. To supervise that election, I will support a coalition government, including elements of the National Liberation Front and the Saigon regime."

"IF AFTER THOSE elections, there are numbers of Vietnamese who, seeing the American troops leave, fear for their lives, I will sponsor legislation to enable the United States to create and implement a voluntary resettlement program similar to the U.S. giving a home to 755,000 Cuban refugees. For the cost of one month's fighting in this war, we could resettle, in willing Asian countries, all those Vietnamese who, for one reason or another, want to leave their country."

"I will fight against the corrupt Saigon government."

"I will support the negotiations and urge the President and his advisers to be more sensitive to the hints of peace which have come from time to time from Hanoi and have been ignored by us."

"I will urge the President to remember that Vietnam is essentially a political struggle and as such, cannot be solved militarily."

WARMAN SAID Vietnam should be a "lesson for America" and the U.S. must find better ways "to be a protector of human liberty, human freedom and human dignity."

Stevenson Disrupted By False Bomb Scare

A bomb threat disrupted classes briefly at Ad I Stevenson High School in Prairie View yesterday morning.

At about 11:20 a.m. "a person with a male voice called the school and told a secretary that dynamite had been placed in the school and would soon go off," said E. Ellis, Stevenson business manager.

ADMINISTRATORS immediately evacuated the building and called the Vernon Township Fire Department and the Illinois State Police.

After a thorough search of the building, officials concluded that the bomb threat was a hoax. Classes were resumed shortly after noon.

Ellis said that a bomb threat had never been made previously at the school.

Stevenson High School serves residents of Lake County School Dist. 125, which includes the northern part of Buffalo Grove.

He said the United States is "a peaceful nation, seeking peace" and warned that illegal violence "by any leftist SDS weathermen or right-wing extremists" will not be tolerated.

About 200 Democratic women, and a handful of men, from throughout the 13th District attended the luncheon. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., had been scheduled to speak but was unable to attend.

The special 13th Congressional District election to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Donald Rumsfeld last spring is Nov. 25.

Koeneman Declares

Herman Koeneman of Arlington Heights, a candidate for a Cook County commissioner post in 1966, has announced he will run for the post of Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman in the March primary election.

Koeneman will oppose James L. McCabe, the present committeeman who has already announced he will seek election to a full term.

Koeneman said he decided to run for the office this week. "This decision has been made after numerous phone calls from area Democrats," he said.

KOENEMAN HAS LIVED in Arlington Heights 14 years. He was the vice president of the Wheeling Township Regular Democratic Organization from 1962 until 1966.

In 1966 Koeneman was an unsuccessful candidate for one of the Cook County commissioner's posts from the suburban area. He ran unsuccessfully for the post of Wheeling Township assessor in 1968.

Koeneman has charged that McCabe, "in his two years as appointed, not elected, committeeman, has done absolutely nothing for the Wheeling Township Democrats. Mr. McCabe, as committeeman, has shown no interest in township or village elections."

KOENEMAN'S FIRST objective, if elected, he said, "will be to open a headquarters office to serve the township voters for all their needs and keep the Democratic office continually available to the voters of Wheeling Township, not just before each election period."

Koeneman said he would not begin an active campaign until after the first of the year. "The support seems to be coming. It's a question of getting people out on election day."

Koeneman's opponent, McCabe, has received the support of James Stavros, former Democratic committeeman who retired in 1967 after 10 years in the office, and State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Third District.

Bird: Not Overruled

An article in yesterday's Herald incorrectly quoted Wheeling Trustee Ira Bird's remarks concerning the dismissals of four civilian radio operators.

The sentence in question should have read, "Bird said that the board did not overrule Golden's decision, but that the Herald gave the impression that Golden 'is no longer boss or never has been.'"

Hobby Is on the Wall

by MARTHA KOPER

As she pursues her hobby, a Rolling Meadows woman could borrow a song from "The King and I."

"Getting to know you, getting to know all about you" is a good description of what Mrs. Beverly Bergdahl believes she can glean from a person's handwriting.

She's a graphoanalyst and enjoys telling people about themselves after studying pages of their writing. But aside from enjoyment, she thinks the job is important.

"PEOPLE SHOULD want to learn all they can about themselves," she said.

"Unless we know our strengths and weaknesses along with our problems and qualities, how will we ever know what potential we might have?" she asked.

A person's handwriting can tell almost all there is to know: Characteristic traits, sensitivity, will power, discipline, compatibility and creativity, according to Mrs. Bergdahl.

She said that whether it's good or bad news, she always tells the truth.

"It's essential to level with someone. Graphoanalysts have a code of ethics," she said.

NOT TO BE confused with a person who practices graphology, Mrs. Bergdahl has taken classes in her hobby. Working toward a higher degree, she already has completed more than 18 months of training.

Her first year-and-a-half course was finished in six months because she attended classes eight hours a day. Now she's a certified accredited member of the International Graphoanalyst Society.

But those who practice graphology do not receive formal training, according to Mrs. Bergdahl. They learn primarily from books, although she admits some graphologists can be very accurate.

"On the other hand, we not only are taught how to analyze handwriting, but also how to interpret the signs we see," she explained.

ASIDE FROM offering her talent to individuals, Mrs. Bergdahl has analyzed handwriting for private industry and police departments in the area.

Her ability is particularly useful in tracking down forgers and occasionally she's been asked to explain her interpretations in court.

At a former place of employment, she frequently was asked to analyze the handwriting of potential executives for the company.

"They usually gave the job to the one I had chosen for the most outstanding qualities, too," she said.

It's not simple or quick to analyze someone's handwriting, according to Mrs. Bergdahl.

"WHEN I FIRST started, it always took me at least eight hours to do a thorough job," she explained.

"As a matter of fact, it still takes between four and five hours," she added.

When she's finished, she delivers the results only to the person whose handwriting was analyzed. If she does not hand it to him personally, she will send it by registered mail.

"That's part of our code of ethics too. We consider analysis a very private thing and only the person should know what we have interpreted. I never discuss a person's handwriting with anyone else, either," she said.

WITHOUT GIVING away the tricks of the trade, she explained what she looks for in a person's handwriting. Interpretations can be made from the slant, heaviness, size, loops, lines, and many other meaningful signs.

The mother of three children, Mrs. Bergdahl still remembers her first exposure to handwriting analysis when she was 13 years old.

"In seventh grade, I had to give a speech. I wanted to find a subject that was different. I went to the library and found a graphology book," she said.

In the following years, her interest faded a little until about three years ago when a friend analyzed her handwriting.

"IT WAS FASCINATING how close to the truth I came to realize that analysis was. I've tried to correct the bad points," she smiled.

And so her interest has grown until now she assuredly says, "Handwriting is brain writing."

Graham Backs Bid With Experience

Sen. John A. "Jack" Graham put his 11 years' experience in the state Senate up for challenge Wednesday in announcing intentions to seek reelection.

Graham, 57, a Barrington Republican, is seeking his fourth four-year term. In announcing his candidacy, he promoted Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's push to state fiscal responsibility and greater highway improvements.

In addition, Graham committed himself to attention to specific Third District problems of highways, waste control, flooding, education and law and order.

THE SENATOR SPOKE at a press conference in The Arlington Carousal Restaurant. He was surrounded by GOP committeemen from Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg and Palatine townships and said he has been pledged the support of the Northfield, Maine and Wheeling township organizations.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He noted he was sent to the Senate in 1956 with the largest Republican plurality of any other Republican senator.

"I bring with my candidacy 12 years of working with the general assembly, the experience of working on key committees and a knowledge and ability to work with the House, important to passage of meaningful legislation," Graham said.

IN HIS PREPARED ADDRESS, Graham discounted recent claims of Democratic State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III that Illinois will have a budget surplus next year. A voter for the sensitive issue of the state income tax, Graham said if there is a surplus, "the Republican-dominated legislature will face this head-on and will reduce taxes in the areas most critical."

He called Stevenson's charges "a political vehicle used by a man aspiring to the Potomac River."

$280 million bond issue. He said Chicago

Graham said he departed from his usual position on nonreferendum bond issues during the last general assembly to support the Metropolitan Sanitary Dis-voters would not have been in sympathy with the referendum, which would mainly benefit the suburbs.

He estimated $16 million will be issued shortly for projects in the northwest area.

GRAHAM SAID BECAUSE of the General Assembly's educational bills, the Third District will receive more than $6 million in additional state aid to common schools with no increase in the real estate tax.

He said he led opposition to a proposed two-cent gasoline tax on Cook County residents to subsidize the Chicago Transit Authority.

Graham was elected to the Senate in 1958 and has successfully won every bid for reelection.

Those attending Graham's luncheon and press conference were Committeemen Eugene Divitt of Hanover Township, Don Toten of Schaumburg Township, Bernard Pedersen of Palatine Township and Harold Smith of Barrington Township, and Committeewomen Mrs. Sally Cadlin of Schaumburg Township and Mrs. Glen-Ann Jicha of Palatine Township.

Dick Hall, president of the Elk Grove Township Regular Republican organization, was present along with State Rep. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect. Mrs. Mary Schiott, legislative aide to State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, represented Schlickman.

Vote Tied on Exit For Shopping Center

Wheeling's zoning board reached a tie vote with one abstention on a request to change residentially zoned land behind the Wheeling Shopping Center for an exit and increased employee parking Tuesday.

Village Mgr. Matthew Golden had recommended approval of the zoning change, but three board members voted against it.

Some board members questioned whether the use would be legal, based on a paragraph in the zoning ordinances which appears to require a 25-foot-wide planted area to act as a buffer strip between the shopping center and adjacent residential development.

The zoning board must decide the zoning based on the zoning board's recommendations.

The zoning board Tuesday also continued a petition for a sign at the Don Roth Restaurant on North Milwaukee Avenue.

School To Be Dedicated

Open house at Booth Tarkington School in Wheeling Monday will be a special occasion for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove community.

The new school, built last summer at 310 Scott St., will be officially dedicated as part of the observation of American Education Week. It will be the first such special dedication in several years.

The evening will begin at 7:30 p.m. with an open house. All visitors will have the opportunity to browse thru the classrooms from 7:30 to 8:15 p.m.

Some rooms will have displays of the school's teaching and learning aids. Other rooms will have a variety of curriculum displays such as reading and science kits. Fifth and sixth grade students will serve as hosts in each room.

At 8:30 p.m., the dedication ceremony will begin in the multipurpose room, with a presentation by the London Junior High School Chorus. Representatives from the villages of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove will be introduced.

Mrs. Mary Jo Reid, past president of the board of education, will dedicate the school. Paul McKown, principal of the

HANDWRITING MEANS MORE than communication to Mrs. Beverly Bergdahl of Rolling Meadows, who believes a person will learn all about himself through analysis of writing. She's also sure that someone's personality could change, if he changed his way of writing.

System Reduces Sky Crowds

by TOM JACHIMEC

Steps are being taken by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to reduce congestion in the crowded skies.

A new system known as area or off-course navigation has been put in use on an interim basis on 16 routes between major U.S. cities, including Chicago.

Through the use of computerized airborne navigational equipment, more routes are being made available to commercial airlines.

MAJOR BENEFITS FROM the system are reduced congestion and improvements in flight safety, as well as reduced workloads for air traffic controllers.

In conventional systems, all airways, sometimes called highways in the sky, run between ground-radio navigation transmitters known as VORs. Pilots can fly a precise course only directly toward or directly away from one of the transmitter sites.

Area navigation eliminates the need for a pilot to fly directly to or from a ground-based radio navigation aid.

With this technique, air routes can be established almost instantly to provide detours around congested areas, parallel routes in congested areas, straighter, shorter paths for long flights and one-way airways.

Area navigation also makes it possible for improved instrument approach capabilities, better location of holding patterns and greater navigation control by the pilot in areas which now require FAA controllers to vector aircraft by radar.

THE SYSTEM WILL result in savings of time to the airlines on flights between Chicago's O'Hare Airport and New York as well as other cities. Area navigation techniques also permit establishment of procedures tailored to STOL (Short Takeoff and Landing) aircraft and helicopter operations.

Another benefit is the possibility of establishing instrument approach procedures for airports which now may not be used when weather is bad.

William M. Flener, chief of the FAA's Air Traffic Service, said, "Area navigation looks promising for both controllers and pilots, relieving them of some workload. It may help in the terminal areas, and is almost certain to give us more leeway in the enroute portions of flight."

DEMONSTRATING use of computerized navigational equipment is Hartley Graham, flight inspector pilot for the FAA. A system known as area navigation will reduce air traffic congestion along routes between O'Hare Airport and other cities.

Seale Is Sentenced

CHICAGO — District Court Judge Julius Hoffman yesterday declared a mistrial for Black Panther leader Bobby Seale on riot and conspiracy charges and sentenced him to four years in prison for contempt of court in courtroom outbreaks which have characterized the trial of the "Chicago Eight."

He ruled that the trial of the seven other defendants charged with conspiring to incite riots during the Democratic National Convention should continue.

Nixon Is Happy

WASHINGTON — One year after his election, President Nixon said yesterday, "We're going to come out well in the end." It was a happy day for Nixon, both because of his election a year ago and because of "a couple of big victories" Tuesday.

He was referring to the elections of Nixon-supported governors in Virginia and New Jersey.

Republicans Win

WASHINGTON — President Nixon refused yesterday to take personal credit for two major upsets of Democratic Party rule. Nixon had endorsed victorious candidates Rep. William Cahill as governor of New Jersey, and A. Lincoln Holton as governor of Virginia.

Democrats led New Jersey for 16 years and Virginia for 100 years. Nixon said he is "rather happy" about the elections.

Ogilvie Warns SIU

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Richard Ogilvie suggested yesterday that Southern Illinois University may be jeopardizing its future programs through the board of trustee's decision to build a $1 million mansion for its president.

"I would classify it (the mansion) as a very unfortunate decision. It is difficult to get substantial allocations for an institution when something like this occurs," he said.

Six Teens Charged

PHILADELPHIA — Jack Thomas, 52, jobless father of three children, was released from jail yesterday and six teenage neighbors who accused him of handing out trick-or-treat apples containing razor blades were arrested for filing a false police report.

Thomas was being held on $10,000 bail while a guard at the project in which he lived, Matthew Glebocki, 44, conducted a private investigation of the case. He persuaded the police to investigate further, leading to Thomas' release.

STATE REP. EDWARD A. WARMAN of Skokie, Democratic candidate for congress from the 13th District, called for Democratic support of the upcoming Vietnam War Peace Moratorium as a way of showing the war must end. Warman spoke to 13th District Democratic women in Schaumburg yesterday.

Warman Backs Moratorium

by ED MURNANE

State Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 13th District, called Wednesday for Democratic support of the Nov. 13 through 15 Vietnam peace moratorium and said his own stand on Vietnam is closer to President Nixon's than the stand of his Republican opponent, Philip M. Crane of Winnetka.

Warman's remarks, confined strictly to the Vietnam War, were made at the 13th Congressional District Democratic Women's Club luncheon in Schaumburg.

He said he supports a "peaceful peace moratorium" as a means of showing "that this terrible war must end."

But he added his own stand on the war is closer to the policy outlined by the President Monday than is the stand of Crane.

"MOST RESPONSIBLE Americans now agree military victory is neither desirable nor attainable," Warman said. "And President Nixon, in his address to the nation Monday night, apparently ruled out seeking a military victory. If he did, I support that phase of his policy."

Warman said Crane's "true position" includes combing the harbor of Haiphong

"and invoking bizarre economic sanctions like closing the Panama Canal." He said Crane "has found himself in an untenable position and since Nixon has apparently overruled a military victory, my opponent is further from Nixon's policies than I am."

He listed six points which he said he would foster if elected.

"I will press for large-scale troop withdrawals and support the President if I think he is showing good faith in his attempts to bring the troops back home. I think it is possible to have our fighting men back on American soil by the end of 1970."

"I will fight for free elections in Vietnam. To supervise that election, I will support a coalition government, including elements of the National Liberation Front and the Saigon regime."

"—IF AFTER THOSE elections, there are numbers of Vietnamese who, seeing the American troops leave, fear for their lives, I will sponsor legislation to enable the United States to create and implement a voluntary resettlement program similar to the U.S. giving a home to 75,000 Cuban refugees. For the cost of one month's fighting in this war, we could resettle, in willing Asian countries, all these Vietnamese who, for one reason or another, want to leave their country."

"I will fight against the corrupt Saigon government."

"I will support the negotiations and urge the President and his advisers to be more sensitive to the hints of peace which have come from time to time from Hanoi and have been ignored by us."

"I will urge the President to remember that Vietnam is essentially a political struggle and, as such, cannot be solved militarily."

Clergymen View The War

(Clergymen in Palatine and Rolling Meadows have been active in many social problems and have taken stands on numerous issues. In view of this week's heightened interest in the Vietnam War, the President's speech to the nation and yesterday's Vietnam speech by a congressional candidate, Herald reporter Mark Cohen surveyed several clergymen for their views.)

by MARK COHEN

Since Vietnam has become a focal point in the eyes of the nation, community churches have become involved in the religious problems the war has produced.

"In my opinion the church should be actively involved in any question of life and death. The world is one big boat in the sea. We are all shipmates and we can't afford this mutiny," said the Rev. Rupert Lovely of the Unitarian Universalist Church.

For Reverend Lovely, concern means active involvement.

"We have been involved in draft counseling and have affirmed our support of the peace resolutions," he said. The church has conducted pray-ins for peace and the pastor has indicated a concern for an early end to the war.

MEMBERS OF THE congregation, together with Reverend Lovely, participated in the moratorium and held teach-ins through the church.

For other clergymen, political opinion has no place in church life. To these people the church is a house of worship where man talks of God and his relevance in society.

"We don't involve ourselves in any way. We have no official position in this area. We have no formal policy concerning the war," the Rev. Gordon Penneck of the Palatine Church of Christ said.

Reverend Gordon is leaving the Palatine church for a position in Aurora. He claims he represents the general opinion of the national church, but cannot speak for his congregation.

The Trinity Lutheran Church of Rolling Meadows is deeply involved in the problems of the war. Its involvement, Pastor Carl Thrun said, is based on the theological doctrine of two kingdoms.

"ACCORDING TO OUR beliefs there is the kingdom of Jesus Christ and the kingdom of the world, and for Americans this means our nation," Pastor Thrun said.

Often the church's youth sponsor services to show concern for those men fighting in Vietnam. The prayer is for peace: "God who is the author of peace bring about a quick end to the war."

Their concern reaches into counseling the youths who are faced with the possibility of service in the war. Some have conscience problems; some are disturbed about their service; some seek an alternative to combat.

According to Pastor Thrun, for many it is a decision whether to obey God or man. For the Lutheran, the laws of God are the highest orders. And so they seek solutions through church counseling.

FOR SISTER Patricia Ann of Palatine's St. Thomas of Villanova Catholic Church, the problems of war are a part of her Christian concern. She is a teacher at the Catholic school and is involved with the community's youth.

"Christ believed that all men are brothers and war is no way to treat your brother," she said.

Transport Center Funds Hit Delay

Palatine's application for federal funds to partially finance a downtown transportation center has come to a standstill.

Village officials were notified their final application will not be processed further until the U.S. Department of Transportation is "advised of its relationship to the transportation plans for the Chicago metropolitan area."

Proposed since July of 1968, Palatine's transportation plan includes relocation of the railroad depot and additional commuter parking for about 1,000 cars.

The village hoped to receive a federal grant which would cover two-thirds of the total cost estimated at about $1.7 million.

ALTHOUGH OUR CHANCES for federal funds are not completely gone, I think it's reasonable to assume we won't receive any money for the first phase of the project," Village Mgr. Berton Braun said.

The first phase includes relocation of railroad tracks near Smith Street so a new depot could be built on a site immediately north of the railroad tracks, south of Colfax and west of Smith. The change is estimated to cost about $100,000 which could be financed by the Chicago & North Western Railway without the federal grant.

The depot to be built by local developer, Lou Draper, will be part of a shopping complex and adjacent to the proposed village commuter parking lot.

THE FINAL PART of the first phase is a Smith Street underpass estimated to cost more than $300,000.

Without federal funds, implementation of the entire project would be almost impossible, according to Braun.

"However, we can't ignore the need for more commuter parking and will have to create more parking lots even if the depot is not moved," he said.

Braun said discussions with railroad officials will begin soon.

"If the railroad agrees to finance relocation of the tracks, there's every reason to believe most of the first phase still can be accomplished with the exception of building a Smith Street underpass," he explained.

Palatine's application for federal funds will not be withdrawn, according to Braun.

"MAYBE A REGIONAL transportation plan for the whole Chicago area would be done by the time Palatine is ready for the second phase of its transportation center," he said.

The second phase would include a four-story building to be constructed near the depot. Not only parking, but depot facilities for local bus service is suggested. The fourth level is proposed as a heliport to accommodate private and commercial helicopters.

Word that the federal government will stop processing Palatine's application was unexpected by local officials.

The department of transportation requires the filing of a preliminary application before even considering a proposal.

PALATINE'S PRELIMINARY application was approved in February and the go-ahead given to file a final application which local officials completed by May.

However, representatives from the transportation department who visited Palatine in September indicated the need for transportation plans in the entire Chicago area.

They told Braun they would like an agency in the area to be able to decide priorities in building new transportation centers in the whole area.

Presently, there is not an agency which covers all 115 municipalities in the metropolitan area nor is there a regional transportation plan.

Palatine is the only village in the Northwest suburban area which has applied for federal funds for a transportation center.

Principals Attend Meet

Two Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 principals attended the annual fall conference of the Illinois Elementary School Principals Association (IESPA) in Peoria last week.

Mrs. Mary Csanadi, principal at Kimball Hill School, and Mrs. Harriet Foster, principal at Jonas E. Salk School, heard Lt. Gov. Paul Simon and Roy Edelheit, executive secretary of the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards speak on "Education in the '70s."

Mrs. Foster is IESPA state representative to the national association in Washington, D.C., and Mrs. Csanadi membership chairman for the Lake Shore division of IESPA.

Participants in the convention had an opportunity to attend six assemblies on differentiated staffing, individual instruction and special education.

Discussion groups examined the impact of the change in parochial-public school relations and the services available through the Office of the Superintendent concerning early childhood education.

City Shopping Sale

"Rolling Meadows Days," a city-wide shopping sale, will continue through Saturday.

The Chamber of Commerce sponsored event began yesterday and provides shoppers with a chance to get an early start on their Christmas shopping.

"Rolling Meadows Days" began years ago as "Crawford Days" and has since spread to most of the merchants and businesses in the city.

Most stores are open both tonight and Friday night.

To Decide on Sewer Dist.

Within the next couple of weeks Palatine Township officials will decide if they'll set up a local sanitary sewer district by the first of the year.

The proposal to assume responsibility of all sewers in the township was discussed by officials this week, but final action was deferred until the Nov. 17 meeting.

Consideration of creating a local sanitary sewer district is based on action of the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) which becomes effective Jan. 1.

Last summer, MSD announced it would adopt a plan by which it would issue sanitary sewer permits only to municipalities, governmental agencies such as townships and utility companies.

UNDER THE NEW PLAN, builders in unincorporated areas of Palatine Township will have to obtain sanitary sewer permits from the township rather than MSD which is the present method.

MSD's plan leaves several alternatives open to township governments, according to Howard I. Olsen, township supervisor.

"We can create one or several sewer systems," he said.

"Or we could just issue permits to those who apply and meet the requirements," he added.

"But I feel confident there are enough sanitary sewer problems in the township to warrant some kind of definite service," he continued.

MSD PROPOSED THE procedure change because of problems with developers' sewer systems.

In a letter to townships in June, Forest Neil, acting engineer said, "We have discovered sewer systems which have failed because of lack of maintenance resulting in raw sewage backing up into homes and creating a situation potentially hazardous to the occupants."

Under the MSD plan, townships could hire engineers to design a system, issue bonds for construction, hire inspectors for on-site work and bill the homeowners, according to Olsen.

All aspects would be covered by the issuance of bonds so there would be no cost to taxpayers other than those receiving the service, he said.

"BUT WE WANT TO study how much of a service township government should of Mayor Atcher — County Clerk?

Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher may be a candidate for Cook County clerk in 1970.

Atcher told the Herald yesterday he was asked to appear before the Cook County Republican slatemaking committee Nov. 19. Atcher's candidacy for the clerk's position is being promoted by Schaumburg Township Committeeman Donald Totten, a member of the slatemaking committee.

Asked if he was interested in the clerk's position, Atcher said, "I'm not adverse to it. There is a tremendous amount of improvement needed in the county clerk's office, particularly as it relates to suburban areas."

He did not close the door to other county positions. "I would be interested in any office I have the talent to attend to," Atcher said.

ATCHER, 55, has been mayor of Schaumburg for 10 years. He is currently president of the Northwest Municipal Conference.

He views the county clerk's office as a full-time job. The mayor's post in Schaumburg is also full-time. If he is slated, he will continue as mayor during the campaign period.

Atcher, well known as a singer and radio-television personality, said, "If elected county clerk, I would resign as mayor."

The county clerk's job is viewed as important by the political parties because the clerk is in charge of all election machinery and elections within the county.

The present clerk is Democrat Edward Barrett, 69, who has held the post since 1955. His political career began in 1930 when he served as state treasurer. He has also been state auditor and secretary of state. He's expected to run again but his age makes him vulnerable to defeat.

In the meantime he intends to meet with representatives of MSD and the township supervisor of Northfield Township.

In Northfield, township government has been responsible for its own sanitary sewer system in unincorporated areas for almost 14 years.

More than half of Palatine Township remains unincorporated.

The Democrats have controlled the post since 1910.

"THE REPUBLICANS have a better chance of winning the clerk's office this year than before. Anyone involved in the last election realizes the books are not being properly kept. The voter registration books come out to us with people who belong not included and people who don't belong included," Atcher said.

The GOP has considered Barrett invincible in the past, Atcher said. "His Republican opponent was usually considered a sacrificial lamb," he said.

Totten said Atcher was also considered for a suburban Cook County commissioner, but the strength of his name would enhance GOP chances with Chicago voters. Suburban commissioners are elected by only suburban voters.

Other Republicans could also be introduced to the GOP slatemakers for county clerk. Reportedly no one has applied for any of the county offices that are up for election.

ATCHER RAN unsuccessfully for state senator from the Third District against incumbent John Graham in the primary in 1966. He also toyed with the idea of seeking the GOP nomination for the 13th District Congressional vacancy this summer.

The Schaumburg mayor has been active in Republican campaigns for county, state and national offices.

He has lived in Schaumburg Township since 1955 and played a major role in incorporating the village and its subsequent development.

FUN TIME WILL come to Marion Jordan school cafeteria Friday night at the PTA Fun Fair from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Dressed in her clown gown, Mrs. Daniel Simoneit is in school this week to remind children like Julie Kime, Bill Merritt, and Jamie Simoneit about the games, prizes, and cotton candy available at the fair.

Graham Cites His Experience

Sen. John A. "Jack" Graham put his 11 years' experience in the state Senate up for challenge Wednesday in announcing intentions to seek reelection.

Graham, 57, a Barrington Republican, is seeking his fourth four-year term. In announcing his candidacy, he promoted Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's push to state fiscal responsibility and greater highway improvements.

In addition, Graham committed himself to attention to specific Third District problems of highways, waste control, flooding, education and law and order.

THE SENATOR SPOKE at a press conference in The Arlington Carousal Restaurant. He was surrounded by GOP committeemen from Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg and Palatine townships and said he has been pledged the support of the Northfield, Maine and Wheeling township organizations.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He noted he was sent to the Senate in 1966 with the largest Republican plurality of any other Republican senator.

"I bring with my candidacy 12 years of working with the general assembly, the experience of working on key committees and a knowledge and ability to work with the House, important to passage of meaningful legislation," Graham said.

IN HIS PREPARED ADDRESS, Graham discounted recent claims of Democratic State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III that Illinois will have a budget surplus next year. A voter for the sensitive issue of the state income tax, Graham said if there is a surplus, "the Republican-dominated legislature will face this head-on and will reduce taxes in the areas most critical."

He called Stevenson's charges "a political vehicle used by a man aspiring to the Potomac River."

Graham said he departed from his usual position on nonreferendum bond issues during the last general assembly to support the Metropolitan Sanitary District voters would not have been in sympathy with the referendum, which would mainly benefit the suburbs.

He estimated $16 million will be issued shortly for projects in the northwest area.

GRAHAM SAID BECAUSE of the General Assembly's educational bills, the Third District will receive more than $6 million in additional state aid to common schools with no increase in the real estate tax.

He said he led opposition to a proposed two-cent gasoline tax on Cook County residents to subsidize the Chicago Transit Authority.

Graham was elected to the Senate in 1968 and has successfully won every bid for reelection.

Those attending Graham's luncheon and press conference were Committeemen Eugene Divitt of Hanover Township, Don Totten of Schaumburg Township, Bernard Pedersen of Palatine Township and Harold Smith of Barrington Township, and Committeewomen Mrs. Sally Catlin of Schaumburg Township and Mrs. Glen-Ann Jicha of Palatine Township.

Dick Hall, president of the Elk Grove Township Regular Republican organization, was present along with State Rep. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect. Mrs. Mary Schlott, legislative aide to State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, represented Schlickman.

Department Adds Space

Rolling Meadows Public Works Department will get growing space when the park district leaves its offices in the city garage.

The park district will move its offices to a house behind the post office. The house is now on a foundation but sewer, water and heating must be installed. The house won't be ready for occupancy for six to eight weeks.

Meanwhile, public works is planning how to use the additional space they will have when the front part of the city garage is available.

A resolution to approve the preparation of plans for the project will be presented at the next city council meeting.

James McPeggan, superintendent of public works presented a sketch of the office area to the streets, alleys and utilities committee Tuesday night.

THE SKETCH CALLS for some remodeling to provide enlarged office space. The front part of the building is the only area of the city garage that would be remodeled.

A cost estimate has not been determined, as the work is primarily in "the talking stage," said Ald. Stephen Eberhard.

Other proposals considered were building a 1,800 square foot room for storage of bicycles and cars for the police department.

McPeggan also proposed moving radio operations of the public works department to the police department when the new communications control center is installed. The police unit will be able to handle all the radio needs of other departments in the city, such as public works, fire and civil defense.

Understand Other Faiths

Created to promote understanding of various faiths, the last part of the "Operation Understanding" series will be held at Bethel Lutheran Church in Rolling Meadows Sunday.

The program is sponsored by the Rolling Meadows Ministerial Fellowship, including five churches. Open houses have already been held in Community, Meadows Baptist, Trinity Lutheran and St. Colette Catholic churches.

Beginning in May, each church held an open house on a Sunday afternoon from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

THE REV. EDWARD Simonsen said the program at Bethel Lutheran will consist of a walk through the church, with young people at different stations of interest in the church.

Sacraments, the altar, pulpit and windows will be some of the things explained. He said they will talk about the service, and explain why the church is designed the way it is. Reverend Simonsen said they will explain what the church is trying to say.

Small groups of visitors will be taken through the educational wing and shown the projects of children and adults, he said.

Faiths

Adult education and the church's Head Start program will be included on the tour. There will be a walk through the administration wing, and refreshments served in the social hall of the church. Pastor LaVern Kampse and Reverend Simonsen will be there to talk to visitors.

Reverend Simonsen said this program is different from the others, as teenagers and laymen will be handling the explanations and guiding tours.

PEOPLE WILL BE taken through the church in small groups, he said, so there will be a continuous flow.

The last program was held in October at Meadows Baptist Church.

Purpose of Operation Understanding is to increase awareness of what people of various faiths believe and practice. Programs at the churches have featured tours of church facilities, explanation of church teaching and practice and question-and-answer periods.

It is designed to provide the means for people to see why people of different faiths believe as they do.

MEMBERS OF THE Rolling Meadows Ministerial Fellowship usually meet once a month to discuss the possible areas of understanding.

The series has two goals: To give an understanding of other church beliefs and to provide a means for other people of different faiths to get acquainted.

Other members of the fellowship are Pastor Michael Green, Pastor William Herman, the Rev. Eugene Faucher and the Rev. Carl F. Thum.

Faces Betting Rap

A Palatine bookstore owner charged with keeping a gambling place will appear in Circuit Court in Arlington Heights tomorrow at 9 a.m.

Arthur Ziarkowski, 4907 Bluebird Court, Crystal Lake, was arrested by Palatine Police Oct. 8 in a raid on the Palatine Book Shop, 16 S. Bothwell, where police say bets were being taken on horses.

The owner was released on bond shortly after his arrest.

The raid Oct. 8 was preceded by several months of observation of bookstore patrons. The same persons were seen entering and leaving the store each day.

PALATINE POLICE questioned some of the persons involved in placing bets. They followed one better in to make a second bet and arrested Ziarkowski.

Twelve betting slips containing names of three or four horses running at various tracks were confiscated in the raid in addition to $200 in cash which was kept separate from the cash register with the day's receipts.

At the time of the arrest, Police Chief Robert Contner said as far as he knew, Ziarkowski was only making bets on horses and had no connection with a syndicate operation.

The Book Shop has been owned by Ziarkowski for three or four years.

The investigation, which was begun last spring, was led by Lt. Frank Ortiz and Lt. Walter Schoenfeld.

System Reduces Sky Crowds

by TOM JACHIMIEC Steps are being taken by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to reduce congestion in the crowded skies.

A new system known as area or off-course navigation has been put in use on an interim basis on 16 routes between major U.S. cities, including Chicago.

Through the use of computerized airborne navigational equipment, more routes are being made available to commercial airlines.

MAJOR BENEFITS FROM the system are reduced congestion and improvements in flight safety, as well as reduced workload for air traffic controllers.

In conventional systems, all airways, sometimes called highways in the sky, run between ground-radio navigation transmitters known as VORs. Pilots can fly a precise course only directly toward or directly away from one of the transmitter sites.

Area navigation eliminates the need for a pilot to fly directly to or from a ground-based radio navigation aid.

With this technique, air routes can be established almost instantly to provide detours around congested areas, "parallel routes in congested areas, straighter, shorter paths for long flights and one-way airways.

Area navigation also makes it possible for improved instrument approach capabilities, better location of holding patterns and greater navigation control by the pilot in areas which now require FAA controllers to vector aircraft by radar.

THE SYSTEM WILL result in savings of time to the airlines on flights between Chicago's O'Hare Airport and New York as well as other cities. Area navigation techniques also permit establishment of procedures tailored to STOL (Short Takeoff and Landing) aircraft and helicopter operations.

Another benefit is the possibility of establishing instrument approach procedures for airports which now may not be used when weather is bad.

William M. Flener, chief of the FAA's Air Traffic Service, said, "Area navigation looks promising for both controllers and pilots, relieving them of some workload. It may help in the terminal areas, and is almost certain to give us more leeway in the enroute portions of flight."

Club To Consider Area Inclusion

The inclusion of Schaumburg Township in the Northwest Cook County American Independent Club will be taken up at the next meeting.

A time and date for the meeting has not been set. For further information call Bill Davis at 289-5243.

DURING THEIR LAST meeting John Cipri of Palatine was appointed acting Palatine Township Committeeman. Independent conservatives and George Wallace supporters from Rolling Meadows and Palatine are invited to call Cipri at 358-4679.

During its last meeting the American Independent Club discussed conflicts in the Democratic and Republican parties.

Changes in voting patterns and the roll of American Independents during the period of political change were also discussed.

Seale Is Sentenced

CHICAGO — District Court Judge Julius Hoffman yesterday declared a mistrial for Black Panther leader Bobby Seale on riot and conspiracy charges and sentenced him to four years in prison for contempt of court in courtroom outbreaks which have characterized the trial of the "Chicago Eight."

He ruled that the trial of the seven other defendants charged with conspiring to incite riots during the Democratic National Convention should continue.

Nixon Is Happy

WASHINGTON — One year after his election, President Nixon said yesterday, "We're going to come out well in the end." It was a happy day for Nixon, both because of his election a year ago and because of "a couple of big victories" Tuesday.

He was referring to the elections of Nixon-supported governors in Virginia and New Jersey.

Republicans Win

WASHINGTON — President Nixon refused yesterday to take personal credit for two major upsets of Democratic Party rule. Nixon had endorsed victorious candidates Rep. William Cahill as governor of New Jersey, and A. Lincoln Holton as governor of Virginia.

Democrats led New Jersey for 16 years and Virginia for 100 years. Nixon said he is "rather happy" about the elections.

Ogilvie Warns SIU

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Richard Ogilvie suggested yesterday that Southern Illinois University may be jeopardizing its future programs through the board of trustee's decision to build a $1 million mansion for its president.

"I would classify it (the mansion) as a very unfortunate decision. It is difficult to get substantial allocations for an institution when something like this occurs," he said.

Six Teens Charged

PHILADELPHIA — Jack Thomas, 52, jobless father of three children, was released from jail yesterday and six teenage neighbors who accused him of handing out trick-or-treat apples containing razor blades were arrested for filing a false police report.

Thomas was being held on $10,000 bail while a guard at the project in which he lived, Matthew Gleochi, 44, conducted a private investigation of the case. He persuaded the police to investigate further, leading to Thomas' release.

STATE REP. EDWARD A. Warman of Skokie, Democratic candidate for congress from the 13th District, called for Democratic support of the upcoming Vietnam War Peace Moratorium as a way of showing the war must end. Warman spoke to 13th District Democratic women in Schaumburg yesterday.

Warman Backs Moratorium

by ED MURNANE

State Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 13th District, called Wednesday for Democratic support of the Nov. 13 through 15 Vietnam peace moratorium and said his own stand on Vietnam is closer to President Nixon's than the stand of his Republican opponent, Philip M. Crane of Winnetka.

Warman's remarks, confined strictly to the Vietnam War, were made at the 13th Congressional District Democratic Women's Club luncheon in Schaumburg.

He said he supports a "peaceful peace moratorium" as a means of showing "that this terrible war must end."

But he added his own stand on the war is closer to the policy outlined by the President Monday than is the stand of Crane.

"MOST RESPONSIBLE Americans now agree military victory is neither desirable nor attainable," Warman said. "And President Nixon, in his address to the nation Monday night, apparently ruled out seeking a military victory. If he did, I support that phase of his policy."

Warman said Crane's "true position" includes combing the harbor of Haiphong

"and invoking bizarre economic sanctions like closing the Panama Canal." He said Crane "has found himself in an untenable position and since Nixon has apparently overruled a military victory, my opponent is further from Nixon's policies than I am."

He listed six points which he said he would foster if elected.

"I will press for large-scale troop withdrawals and support the President if I think he is showing good faith in his attempts to bring the troops back home. I think it is possible to have our fighting men back on American soil by the end of 1970."

"I will fight for free elections in Vietnam. To supervise that election, I will support a coalition government, including elements of the National Liberation Front and the Saigon regime."

"IF, AFTER THOSE elections, there are numbers of Vietnamese who, seeing the American troops leave, fear for their lives, I will sponsor legislation to enable the United States to create and implement a voluntary resettlement program similar to the U.S. giving a home to 755,000 Cuban refugees. For the cost of one month's fighting in this war, we could resettle, in willing Asian countries, all those Vietnamese who, for one reason or another, want to leave their country."

"I will fight against the corrupt Saigon government."

"I will support the negotiations and urge the President and his advisers to be more sensitive to the hints of peace which have come from time to time from Hanoi and have been ignored by us."

"I will urge the President to remember that Vietnam is essentially a political struggle and as such, cannot be solved militarily."

Clergymen View The War

(Clergymen in Palatine and Rolling Meadows have been active in many social problems and have taken stands on numerous issues. In view of this week's heightened interest in the Vietnam War, the President's speech to the nation and yesterday's Vietnam speech by a congressional candidate, Herald reporter Mark Cohen surveyed several clergymen for their views.)

by MARK COHEN

Since Vietnam has become a focal point in the eyes of the nation, community churches have become involved in the religious problems the war has produced. "In my opinion the church should be actively involved in any question of life and death. The world is one big boat in the sea. We are all shipmates and we can't afford this mutiny," said the Rev. Rupert Lovely of the Unitarian Universalist Church.

For Reverend Lovely, concern means active involvement. "We have been involved in draft counseling and have affirmed our support of the peace resolutions," he said. The church has conducted pray-ins for peace and the pastor has indicated a concern for an early end to the war.

MEMBERS OF THE congregation, together with Reverend Lovely, participated in the moratorium and held teach-ins through the church.

For other clergymen, political opinion has no place in church life. To these people the church is a house of worship where man talks of God and his relevance in society.

"We don't involve ourselves in any way. We have no official position in this area. We have no formal policy concerning the war," the Rev. Gordon Perinock of the Palatine Church of Christ said.

Reverend Gordon is leaving the Palatine church for a position in Aurora. He claims he represents the general opinion of the national church, but cannot speak for his congregation.

The Trinity Lutheran Church of Rolling Meadows is deeply involved in the problems of the war. Its involvement, Pastor Carl Thurn said, is based on the theological doctrine of two kingdoms.

"ACCORDING TO OUR beliefs there is the kingdom of Jesus Christ and the kingdom of the world, and for Americans this means our nation," Pastor Thurn said.

Often the church's youth sponsor services to show concern for those men fighting in Vietnam. The prayer is for peace: "God who is the author of peace bring about a quick end to the war."

Their concern reaches into counseling the youths who are faced with the possibility of service in the war. Some have conscience problems; some are disturbed about their service; some seek an alternative to combat.

According to Pastor Thurn, for many it is a decision whether to obey God or man. For the Lutheran, the laws of God are the highest orders. And so they seek solutions through church counseling.

FOR SISTER Patricia Ann of Palatine's St. Thomas of Villanova Catholic Church, the problems of war are a part of her Christian concern. She is a teacher at the Catholic school and is involved with the community's youth.

"Christ believed that all men are brothers and war is no way to treat your brother," she said.

Flood Problems May End This Year

Flooding problems of residents in Plum Grove Countryside in Rolling Meadows may be remedied this year.

Residents of the area registered their complaints to the city, prompting action to put sewer lines in Hicks Road.

Builder Albert Riley has agreed to give the city 10-foot easements on Hicks and the back property of a Standard Oil station at Euclid and Hicks.

ACTION ON ACQUIRING the easements probably will take place at the next city council meeting, Nov. 11, said James Watson, city manager.

After the easements are acquired, the city must get a permit from the Metropolitan Sanitary District to do the work. Then construction can begin, Watson said.

The city will pay the cost of approximately $15,000 for installing sewer lines. A company owning property across from Plum Grove Countryside will reimburse the city $2,000 enabling it to hook into the lines when the property is developed.

The city will actually pay $5,000 for the project, since Riley will pay the difference.

IF THE CITY gets the easements, it might be possible to put the sewer lines in this winter, Watson said. Flooding in the Plum Grove Countryside area affects the northeast section of the property, he said.

At a meeting of the streets, alleys and utilities committee early in October, residents presented their complaints to the city.

It was decided then that the solution would be installation of a drainage loop near Euclid and Hicks.

Aldermen thought the problem resulted from the overtaxing of the Lincoln Avenue drainage system.

Most of the residents at the meeting were from the area around Vermont and Wilson avenues.

Major complaints included health problems and physical damage to property caused by flooding and sewage backups.

Principals Attend Meet

Two Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 principals attended the annual fall conference of the Illinois Elementary School Principals' Association (IESPA) in Peoria last week.

Mrs. Mary Csanadi, principal at Kimball Hill School, and Mrs. Harriet Foster, principal at Jonas E. Salk School, heard Lt. Gov. Paul Simon and Roy Edelfelt, executive secretary of the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards speak on "Education in the '70s."

Mrs. Foster is IESPA state representative to the national association in Washington, D.C., and Mrs. Csanadi membership chairman for the Lake Shore division of IESPA.

Participants in the convention had an opportunity to attend six assemblies on differentiated staffing, individual instruction and special education.

Discussion groups examined the impact of the change in parochial-public school relations and the services available through the Office of the Superintendent concerning early childhood education.

Funds Hit Delay

Palatine's application for federal funds to partially finance a downtown transportation center has come to a standstill.

Village officials were notified their final application will not be processed further until the U.S. Department of Transportation is "advised of its relationship to the transportation plans for the Chicago metropolitan area."

Proposed since July of 1968, Palatine's transportation plan includes relocation of the railroad depot and additional commuter parking for about 1,000 cars.

The village hoped to receive a federal grant which would cover two-thirds of the total cost estimated at about $1.7 million.

ALTHOUGH OUR CHANCES for federal funds are not completely gone, I think it's reasonable to assume we won't receive any money for the first phase of the project," Village Mgr. Berton Braun said.

The first phase includes relocation of railroad tracks near Smith Street so a new depot could be built on a site immediately north of the railroad tracks, south of Colfax and west of Smith. The change is estimated to cost about $100,000 which could be financed by the Chicago & North Western Railway without the federal grant.

The depot to be built by local developer, Lou Draper, will be part of a shopping complex and adjacent to the proposed village commuter parking lot.

THE FINAL PART of the first phase is a Smith Street underpass estimated to cost more than $900,000.

Without federal funds, implementation of the entire project would be almost impossible, according to Braun.

"However, we can't ignore the need for more commuter parking and will have to create more parking lots even if the depot is not moved," he said.

Braun said discussions with railroad officials will begin soon.

"If the railroad agrees to finance relocation of the tracks, there's every reason to believe most of the first phase still can be accomplished with the exception of building a Smith Street underpass," he explained.

Palatine's application for federal funds will not be withdrawn, according to Braun.

"MAYBE A REGIONAL transportation plan for the whole Chicago area would be done by the time Palatine is ready for the second phase of its transportation center," he said.

The second phase would include a four-story building to be constructed near the depot. Not only parking, but depot facilities for local bus service is suggested. The fourth level is proposed as a heliport to accommodate private and commercial helicopters.

Word that the federal government will stop processing Palatine's application was unexpected by local officials.

The department of transportation requires the filing of a preliminary application before even considering a proposal.

PALATINE'S PRELIMINARY application was approved in February and the go-ahead given to file a final application which local officials completed by May.

However, representatives from the transportation department who visited Palatine in September indicated the need for transportation plans in the entire Chicago area.

They told Braun they would like an agency in the area to be able to decide priorities in building new transportation centers in the whole area.

Presently, there is not an agency which covers all 115 municipalities in the metropolitan area nor is there a regional transportation plan.

Palatine is the only village in the Northwest suburban area which has applied for federal funds for a transportation center.

City Shopping Sale

"Rolling Meadows Days," a city-wide shopping sale, will continue through Saturday.

The Chamber of Commerce sponsored event began yesterday and provides shoppers with a chance to get an early start on their Christmas shopping.

"Rolling Meadows Days" began years ago as "Crawford Days" and has since spread to most of the merchants and businesses in the city.

Most stores are open both tonight and Friday night.

To Decide on Sewer Dist.

Within the next couple of weeks Palatine Township officials will decide if they'll set up a local sanitary sewer district by the first of the year.

The proposal to assume responsibility of all sewers in the township was discussed by officials this week, but final action was deferred until the Nov. 17 meeting.

Consideration of creating a local sanitary sewer district is based on action of the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) which becomes effective Jan. 1.

Last summer, MSD announced it would adopt a plan by which it would issue sanitary sewer permits only to municipalities, governmental agencies such as townships and utility companies.

UNDER THE NEW PLAN, builders in unincorporated areas of Palatine Township will have to obtain sanitary sewer permits from the township rather than MSD which is the present method.

MSD's plan leaves several alternatives open to township governments, according to Howard I. Olsen, township supervisor.

"We can create one or several sewer systems," he said.

"Or we could just issue permits to those who apply and meet the requirements," he added.

"But I feel confident there are enough sanitary sewer problems in the township to warrant some kind of definite service," he continued.

MSD PROPOSED THE procedure change because of problems with developers' sewer systems.

In a letter to townships in June, Forest Neil, acting engineer said, "We have discovered sewer systems which have failed because of lack of maintenance resulting in raw sewage backing up into homes and creating a situation potentially hazardous to the occupants."

Under the MSD plan, townships could hire engineers to design a system, issue bonds for construction, hire inspectors for on-site work and bill the homeowners, according to Olsen.

All aspects would be covered by the issuance of bonds so there would be no cost to taxpayers other than those receiving the service, he said.

"BUT WE WANT TO study how much of a service township government should offer before making any final decisions," he said.

In the meantime he intends to meet with representatives of MSD and the township supervisor of Northfield Township.

In Northfield, township government has been responsible for its own sanitary sewer system in unincorporated areas for almost 14 years.

More than half of Palatine Township remains unincorporated.

Mayor Atcher — County Clerk?

Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher may be a candidate for Cook County clerk in 1970.

Atcher told the Herald yesterday he was asked to appear before the Cook County Republican slatemaking committee Nov. 19. Atcher's candidacy for the clerk's position is being promoted by Schaumburg Township Committeeman Donald Totten, a member of the slatemaking committee.

Asked if he was interested in the clerk's position, Atcher said, "I'm not adverse to it. There is a tremendous amount of improvement needed in the county clerk's office, particularly as it relates to suburban areas."

He did not close the door to other county positions. "I would be interested in any office I have the talent to attend to," Atcher said.

ATCHER, 55, has been mayor of Schaumburg for 10 years. He is currently president of the Northwest Municipal Conference.

He views the county clerk's office as a full-time job. The mayor's post in Schaumburg is also full time. If he is slated, he will continue as mayor during the campaign period.

Atcher, well known as a singer and radio-television personality, said, "If elected county clerk, I would resign as mayor."

The county clerk's job is viewed as important by the political parties because the clerk is in charge of all election machinery and elections within the county.

The present clerk is Democrat Edward Barrett, 69, who has held the post since 1955. His political career began in 1930 when he served as state treasurer. He has also been state auditor and secretary of state. He's expected to run again but his age makes him vulnerable to defeat.

The Democrats have controlled the post since 1910.

"THE REPUBLICANS have a better chance of winning the clerk's office this year than before. Anyone involved in the last election realizes the books are not being properly kept. The voter registration books come out to us with people who belong not included and people who don't belong included," Atcher said.

The GOP has considered Barrett invincible in the past, Atcher said. "His Republican opponent was usually considered a sacrificial lamb," he said.

Totten said Atcher was also considered for a suburban Cook County commissioner, but the strength of his name would enhance GOP chances with Chicago voters. Suburban commissioners are elected by only suburban voters.

Other Republicans could also be introduced to the GOP slatemakers for county clerk. Reportedly no one has applied for any of the county offices that are up for election.

ATCHER RAN unsuccessfully for state senator from the Third District against incumbent John Graham in the primary in 1966. He also toyed with the idea of seeking the GOP nomination for the 13th District Congressional vacancy this summer.

The Schaumburg mayor has been active in Republican campaigns for county, state and national offices.

He has lived in Schaumburg Township since 1955 and played a major role in incorporating the village and its subsequent development.

FUN TIME WILL come to Marion Jordan school cafeteria Friday night at the PTA Fun Fair from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Dressed in her clown gown, Mrs. Daniel Simoneit is in school this week to remind children like Julie Kime, Bill Merritt, and Jamie Simoneit about the games, prizes, and cotton candy available at the fair.

Graham Cites His Experience

Sen. John A. "Jack" Graham put his 11 years' experience in the state Senate up for challenge Wednesday in announcing intentions to seek reelection.

Graham, 57, a Barrington Republican, is seeking his fourth four-year term. In announcing his candidacy, he promoted Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's push to state fiscal responsibility and greater highway improvements.

In addition, Graham committed himself to attention to specific Third District problems of highways, waste control, flooding, education and law and order.

THE SENATOR SPOKE at a press conference in The Arlington Carousell Restaurant. He was surrounded by GOP committeemen from Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg and Palatine townships and said he has been pledged the support of the Northfield, Maine and Wheeling township organizations.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He noted he was sent to the Senate in 1956 with the largest Republican plurality of any other Republican senator.

"I bring with my candidacy 12 years of working with the general assembly, the experience of working on key committees and a knowledge and ability to work with the House, important to passage of meaningful legislation," Graham said.

IN HIS PREPARED ADDRESS, Graham discounted recent claims of Democratic State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III that Illinois will have a budget surplus next year. A voter for the sensitive issue of the state income tax, Graham said if there is a surplus, "the Republican-dominated legislature will face this head-on and will reduce taxes in the areas most critical."

He called Stevenson's charges "a political vehicle used by a man aspiring to the Potomac River."

$280 million bond issue. He said Chicago. Graham said he departed from his usual position on nonreferendum bond issues during the last general assembly to support the Metropolitan Sanitary District voters would not have been in sympathy with the referendum, which would mainly benefit the suburbs.

He estimated $16 million will be issued shortly for projects in the northwest area.

GRAHAM SAID BECAUSE of the General Assembly's educational bills, the Third District will receive more than $6 million in additional state aid to common schools with no increase in the real estate tax.

He said he led opposition to a proposed two-cent gasoline tax on Cook County residents to subsidize the Chicago Transit Authority.

Graham was elected to the Senate in 1958 and has successfully won every bid for reelection.

Those attending Graham's luncheon and press conference were Committeemen Eugene Divitt of Hanover Township, Don Totten of Schaumburg Township, Bernard Pedersen of Palatine Township and Harold Smith of Barrington Township, and Committeewomen Mrs. Sally Catlin of Schaumburg Township and Mrs. Glen-Ann Jicha of Palatine Township.

Dick Hall, president of the Elk Grove Township Regular Republican organization, was present along with State Rep. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect. Mrs. Mary Schlott, legislative aide to State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, represented Schlickman.

Department Adds Space

Rolling Meadows Public Works Department will get growing space when the park district leaves its offices in the city garage.

The park district will move its offices to a house behind the post office. The house is now on a foundation but sewer, water and heating must be installed. The house won't be ready for occupancy for six to eight weeks.

Meanwhile, public works is planning how to use the additional space they will have when the front part of the city garage is available.

A resolution to approve the preparation of plans for the project will be presented at the next city council meeting.

James McFeggan, superintendent of public works presented a sketch of the office area to the streets, alleys and utilities committee Tuesday night.

THE SKETCH CALLS for some remodeling to provide enlarged office space. The front part of the building is the only area of the city garage that would be remodeled.

A cost estimate has not been determined, as the work is primarily in "the talking stage," said Ald. Stephen Eberhard.

Other proposals considered were building a 1,800 square foot room for storage of bicycles and cars for the police department.

McFeggan also proposed moving radio operations of the public works department to the police department when the new communications control center is installed. The police unit will be able to handle all the radio needs of other departments in the city, such as public works, fire and civil defense.

Understand Other Faiths

Created to promote understanding of various faiths, the last part of the "Operation Understanding" series will be held at Bethel Lutheran Church in Rolling Meadows Sunday.

The program is sponsored by the Rolling Meadows Ministerial Fellowship, including five churches. Open houses have already been held in Community, Meadows Baptist, Trinity Lutheran and St. Colette Catholic churches.

Beginning in May, each church held an open house on a Sunday afternoon from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

THE REV. EDWARD Simonsen said the program at Bethel Lutheran will consist of a walk through the church, with young people at different stations of interest in the church.

Sacraments, the altar, pulpit and windows will be some of the things explained. He said they will talk about the service, and explain why the church is designed the way it is. Reverend Simonsen said they will explain what the church is trying to say.

Small groups of visitors will be taken through the educational wing and shown the projects of children and adults, he said.

Faces Betting Rap

A Palatine bookstore owner charged with keeping a gambling place will appear in Circuit Court in Arlington Heights tomorrow at 9 a.m.

Arthur Ziarkowski, 4907 Bluebird Court, Crystal Lake, was arrested by Palatine Police Oct. 8 in a raid on the Palatine Book Shop, 16 S. Bothwell, where police say bets were being taken on horses.

The owner was released on bond shortly after his arrest.

The raid Oct. 8 was preceded by several months of observation of bookstore patrons. The same persons were seen entering and leaving the store each day.

PALATINE POLICE questioned some of the persons involved in placing bets. They followed one better in to make a second bet and arrested Ziarkowski.

Twelve betting slips containing names of three or four horses running at various tracks were confiscated in the raid in addition to $200 in cash which was kept separate from the cash register with the day's receipts.

At the time of the arrest, Police Chief Robert Centner said as far as he knew, Ziarkowski was only making bets on horses and had no connection with a syndicate operation.

The Book Shop has been owned by Ziarkowski for three or four years.

The investigation, which was begun last spring, was led by Lt. Frank Ortiz and Lt. Walter Schoenfeld.

System Reduces Sky Crowds

Steps are being taken by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to reduce congestion in the crowded skies.

A new system known as area or off-course navigation has been put in use on an interim basis on 16 routes between major U.S. cities, including Chicago.

Through the use of computerized airborne navigational equipment, more routes are being made available to commercial airlines.

MAJOR BENEFITS FROM the system are reduced congestion and improvements in flight safety, as well as reduced workload for air traffic controllers.

In conventional systems, all airways, sometimes called highways in the sky, run between ground-radio navigation transmitters known as VORs. Pilots can fly a precise course only directly toward or directly away from one of the transmitter sites.

Area navigation eliminates the need for a pilot to fly directly to or from a ground-based radio navigation aid.

With this technique, air routes can be established almost instantly to provide detours around congested areas, parallel routes in congested areas, straighter, shorter paths for long flights and one-way airways.

Area navigation also makes it possible for improved instrument approach capabilities, better location of holding patterns and greater navigation control by the pilot in areas which now require FAA controllers to vector aircraft by radar.

THE SYSTEM WILL result in savings of time to the airlines on flights between Chicago's O'Hare Airport and New York as well as other cities. Area navigation techniques also permit establishment of procedures tailored to STOL (Short Takeoff and Landing) aircraft and helicopter operations.

Another benefit is the possibility of establishing instrument approach procedures for airports which now may not be used when weather is bad.

William M. Flener, chief of the FAA's Air Traffic Service, said, "Area navigation looks promising for both controllers and pilots, relieving them of some workload. It may help in the terminal areas, and is almost certain to give us more leeway in the enroute portions of flight."

Seale Is Sentenced

CHICAGO — District Court Judge Julius Hoffman yesterday declared a mistrial for Black Panther leader Bobby Seale on riot and conspiracy charges and sentenced him to four years in prison for contempt of court in courtroom outbreaks which have characterized the trial of the "Chicago Eight."

He ruled that the trial of the seven other defendants charged with conspiring to incite riots during the Democratic National Convention should continue.

Nixon Is Happy

WASHINGTON — One year after his election, President Nixon said yesterday, "We're going to come out well in the end." It was a happy day for Nixon, both because of his election a year ago and because of "a couple of big victories" Tuesday.

He was referring to the elections of Nixon-supported governors in Virginia and New Jersey.

Republicans Win

WASHINGTON — President Nixon refused yesterday to take personal credit for two major upsets of Democratic Party rule. Nixon had endorsed victorious candidates Rep. William Cahill as governor of New Jersey, and A. Lincoln Holton as governor of Virginia.

Democrats led New Jersey for 16 years and Virginia for 100 years. Nixon said he is "rather happy" about the elections.

Ogilvie Warns SIU

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Richard Ogilvie suggested yesterday that Southern Illinois University may be jeopardizing its future programs through the board of trustees' decision to build a $1 million mansion for its president.

"I would classify it (the mansion) as a very unfortunate decision. It is difficult to get substantial allocations for an institution when something like this occurs," he said.

Six Teens Charged

PHILADELPHIA — Jack Thomas, 52, jobless father of three children, was released from jail yesterday and six teenage neighbors who accused him of handing out trick-or-treat apples containing razor blades were arrested for filing a false police report.

Thomas was being held on $10,000 bail while a guard at the project in which he lived, Matthew Gioielli, 44, conducted a private investigation of the case. He persuaded the police to investigate further, leading to Thomas' release.

Kidnappers Kill Boy

SAN PAULO, Brazil — Unidentified kidnappers lived up to their threat and killed the 18-year-old son of an American director of the Brazilian affiliate of Swift and Co., meat packers, police said yesterday.

The boy, Patrick E. Dolan, was kidnapped last week but his parents did not report the incident because the kidnappers threatened to kill the boy. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Dolan, paid an undisclosed ransom last weekend.

"ROSIE" THE MACAW, a native of South America, sinks her claws into the shoulder of owner David Blaue during feeding time at the Van Oaks Pet Shop in Mount Prospect.

Rosie is one of many unusual pets Blaue has on hand for the customer looking for "something different."

A Pet To Catch Your Fancy

BY DAVE PALERMO

If you're one of those persons who would like to have the most unusual pet on the block, your local pet shop may be the place to go.

They have snakes, fish, birds and a variety of other animals, many of them tropical. And one of them is bound to catch your fancy.

"We have a baby boa for $12.95, said David Blaue, proprietor of Van Oaks Pet Shop in Mount Prospect Plaza.

"You mean the kind that squeeze things to death?" I asked.

"Uh-huh."

BLAUE, A FRIENDLY fellow with receding red hair, reached into a small glass tank and pulled out a snake about eight inches long. Immediately the reptile wrapped itself around his finger.

"Aren't they kind of dangerous? I mean

"Well, you have to use a bit of caution, but they're real fine pets."

"But, won't it grow up to be a big snake?"

"Oh sure, it may get to be 12-feet long in about 15 to 20 years."

"What do you feed it?"

"Animals. Mice, rabbits, hamsters and things like that."

"WHAT DO YOU DO with it when it gets big?"

"Oh, take it in the back yard and play with it."

"Personally, I like my Boas around four feet long — it gives me something to grab onto."

"I consider them to be semi-intelligent creatures, and they struggle strictly for food," he said. "You must, however, be careful and watch them closely when you let them out of confinement. If they get away, you may never find them again because they can get into any place."

Blaue recommends that boas be fed a small live animal when they are young, preferably a mouse or hamster, every three weeks. For an adult boa he advises one large rabbit a month as sufficient nourishment.

"THEY'RE VERY inactive creatures and require only a small glass container," he explained.

Blaue said a lot of persons buy boas, and mentioned that two were sold over the weekend to college coeds who planned to keep the snakes in a girls' dormitory.

Unwrapping the boa from around his hand and returning it to the cage, Blaue mentioned another unusual, but popular pet — the piranha fish.

"The piranha fish is popular because of its notoriety as being dangerous, but it is also a very beautiful fish," he said. "They're not harmful at all, if you are careful."

"They only attack if they think something is food or if they get excited," he said.

WHAT GETS A piranha excited?

"The story we like to tell is about a guy who put some meat into a bowl and the piranha laid back. When he reached in and jerked the meat out, it attacked. It was a stupid thing to do," said Blaue.

"For some reason people will fear a harmless snake, but don't believe a fish would bite."

Unlike most fish, a piranha won't shy away from the family cat, and young children must also be kept away from the bowls, he warned.

THE RED BELLED or red breasted piranhas are the more popular species and are also the most notorious that come out of the Amazon River in South America, according to Blaue.

"They range from 1 1/2 to 10 inches long and cost anywhere from $3 to $75, depending on the size and species," he said.

Inhabiting two small glass cages in the pet shop are two large South American birds splattered with brilliant colors and each possessing large, powerful-looking beaks.

"They can talk," said Blaue. "However, it depends upon the ability and patience of the owner. They're very independent creatures and usually only speak when they feel like it."

LIKE THE BOA and the piranha, Blaue said the birds also can be dangerous if not cared for properly.

"They have the potential to be dangerous," he warned, "but if handled carefully they shouldn't be any trouble."

"They eat a special mixture of food you can buy at any pet store and they are becoming very popular. They cost $25."

Computers Reduce Skyway Crowding

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Steps are being taken by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to reduce congestion in the crowded skies.

1 Plea in 5 Is Approved

It was a bad night for petitioners at the Mount Prospect Plan Commission meeting in the village hall.

Only one of five petitioners received approval from the commission for zoning variances last night.

Obtaining approval from the commission for rezoning was Paul Reimann of the Reimann Subdivision. He submitted a plat earlier last month but was required to show two houses not imposed on the original plan.

Enzo Frediani and Walter Shall, partners in the Windsor Estates subdivision on Golf Road, were denied rezoning requests pending changes in their plat to show a 66-foot-wide border for Cypress Drive south of Willow Lane.

ALSO DENIED APPROVAL by the plan commission was the proposed construction of a funeral home at 408 and 410 Rand Road.

The request was denied, because the area is primarily residential. There was no reason given why the lot could not be used as it is now zoned; it is opposite a public school and playground.

The commission denied a zoning variation for an apartment complex on a triangular piece of property in the Kenilworth Avenue-Lincoln Street area on the grounds that it would have an adverse effect on the surrounding property.

Rebuilding of a Standard Oil gas station at the southwest corner of Main and Kensington was postponed until residents living within 200 feet of the property can be given adequate notice of the rebuilding plans.

Sleep Tight —Think Fire

by GERRY DEZONNA

More than half the homes in Mount Prospect are potential fire hazards. And residents don't even know it.

The Mount Prospect Fire Prevention Bureau last week released the results of a home fire safety survey, which indicated that more than half the homes inspected last summer were unsafe and potential fire hazards.

Fire hazards noted by the bureau included dangerous accumulations of rubbish, improper storage of flammable liquids and paints, overloaded electrical circuits and defective extension cords.

AND AS A RESULT of such negligence and carelessness regarding fire safety precautions, more than 1,200 Americans lost their lives in fires last year.

"And the National Fire Protection Association estimates that at least 6,000 lives could be saved annually if residents allowed local fire departments and fire prevention bureaus to assist them in making their homes fire safe," Stuart McKillop, Mount Prospect fire inspector, said.

The Mount Prospect Fire Prevention Bureau, under the direction of Chief Edwin Haberkamp, conducts voluntary home fire inspections to assist residents in recognizing potential fire hazards in the home and to make recommendations for eliminating them.

The bureau inspects residences in the area strictly on a voluntary basis and only with the approval of the homeowner. The survey is not mandatory, and if a resident doesn't approve, that's his right.

LAST SUMMER, FIRE inspectors canvassed 385 homes, but inspected only 162 of these residences because homeowners refused the survey or were not at home at the time the survey was made. "From the 162 homes we inspected, we detected 88 fire hazards and conditions that could possibly cause a fire," McKillop said.

The survey consists of a checklist with 16 items, and the principal areas of concern are electrical and heating facilities and storage areas.

Firemen check for flammable liquids that may be improperly stored including painting materials, oily rags and improperly contained gasoline. The bureau noted that almost every homeowner uses a gasoline-powered lawn mower or snow blower, and gasoline is often stored incorrectly and dangerously in garages.

"Gasoline should be stored in a metal safety can. This is an airtight container with a high-tension cap, so if the container should tip over, the gasoline won't spill out. Gasoline should never be stored in a tightly-sealed glass jar or plastic container. Gasoline affects some kinds of plastic and dissolves it," McKillop said.

HE ALSO RECOMMENDS that residents who do not own a snow blower or use gasoline-powered outdoor equipment during the winter months, should empty all gasoline containers and drain lawn mower and motorcycle tanks before storing for a long period of time.

"We also check home fire extinguishers, if the resident owns one, and if not, we recommend an inexpensive, dry powder or chemical extinguisher. This is an all-purpose extinguisher that can be used for wood, electrical or petroleum fires and it's the safest one to use in the home," McKillop said.

Many residents own fire extinguishers that use carbon tetrachloride as an agent, which the bureau discourages.

Carbon tetrachloride, also a popular cleaning fluid, emits deadly and toxic fumes when exposed to heat. Carbon tetrachloride vapor, which is very hard to ventilate, is five times heavier than air, which makes it a good agent in combating fires because it smothers them, but these same fumes are hazardous to a person's health, and sometimes even fatal.

"IF A RESIDENT owns a carbon tetrachloride extinguisher, we warn him about the hazards involved in using it and try to encourage him to buy a safer extinguisher. I personally would like to see legislation banning the use of carbon tetrachloride extinguishers in public buildings and commercial businesses," McKillop said.

DEMONSTRATING use of computerized navigational equipment is Harry Graham, flight instructor pilot for the FAA. A system known as area navigation will reduce air traffic congestion along routes between O'Hare Airport and other cities.

Warman Backs Moratorium

by ED MURNANE
State Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 13th District, called Wednesday for Democratic support of the Nov. 13 through 15 Vietnam peace moratorium and said his own stand on Vietnam is closer to President Nixon's than the stand of his Republican opponent, Philip M. Crane of Winnetka.

Warman's remarks, confined strictly to the Vietnam War, were made at the 13th Congressional District Democratic Women's Club luncheon in Schaumburg.

He said he supports a "peaceful peace moratorium" as a means of showing "that this terrible war must end."

But he added his own stand on the war is closer to the policy outlined by the President Monday than the stand of Crane.

"MOST RESPONSIBLE Americans now agree military victory is neither desirable nor attainable," Warman said. "And President Nixon, in his address to the nation Monday night, apparently ruled out seeking a military victory. If he did, I support that phase of his policy."

Warman said Crane's "true position" includes combing the harbor of Haiphong "and invoking bizarre economic sanctions like closing the Panama Canal." He said Crane "has found himself in an untenable position and since Nixon has apparently overruled a military victory, my opponent is further from Nixon's policies than I am."

He listed six points which he said he would foster if elected.

"I will press for large-scale troop withdrawals and support the President if I think he is showing good faith in his attempts to bring the troops back home. I think it is possible to have our fighting men back on American soil by the end of 1970."

"I will fight for free elections in Vietnam. To supervise that election, I will support a coalition government, including elements of the National Liberation Front and the Saigon regime."

"—IF AFTER THOSE elections, there are numbers of Vietnamese who, seeing the American troops leave, fear for their lives, I will sponsor legislation to enable the United States to create and implement a voluntary resettlement program similar to the U.S. giving a home to 755,000 Cuban refugees. For the cost of one month's fighting in this war, we could resettle, in willing Asian countries, all those Vietnamese who, for one reason or another, want to leave their country."

"I will fight against the corrupt Saigon government."

"I will support the negotiations and urge the President and his advisers to be more sensitive to the hints of peace which have come from time to time from Hanoi and have been ignored by us."

"I will urge the President to remember that Vietnam is essentially a political struggle and as such, cannot be solved militarily."

STATE REP. EDWARD A. WARMAN of Skokie, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 13th District, called for Democratic support of the upcoming Vietnam War Peace Moratorium as a way of showing the war must end. Warman spoke to 13th District Democratic women in Schaumburg yesterday.

Herman Koeneman of Arlington Heights, a candidate for a Cook County commissioner post in 1968, has announced he will run for the post of Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman in the March primary election.

Koeneman's opponent, McCabe, has received the support of James Stavros, former Democratic committeeman who retired in 1967 after 10 years in the office, and State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Third District.

IN HIS PREPARED ADDRESS, Graham discounted recent claims of Democratic State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III that Illinois will have a budget surplus next year. A voter for the sensitive issue of the state income tax, Graham said if there is a surplus, "the Republican-dominated legislature will face this head-on and will reduce taxes in the areas most critical."

He called Stevenson's charges "a political vehicle used by a man aspiring to the Potomac River."

Graham said he departed from his usual position on nonreferendum bond issues during the last general assembly to support the Metropolitan Sanitary District $280 million bond issue. He said Chicago voters would not have been in sympathy with the referendum, which would mainly benefit the suburbs.

He estimated $16 million will be issued shortly for projects in the northwest area.

GRAHAM SAID BECAUSE of the General Assembly's educational bills, the Third District will receive more than $6 million in additional state aid to common schools with no increase in the real estate tax.

He said he led opposition to a proposed two-cent gasoline tax on Cook County.

Car, Garage Destroyed

A fire yesterday afternoon destroyed a garage and car at the Eugene Martin residence, 710 N. Main Street, according to the Mount Prospect fire department.

Martin, a member of the Mount Prospect Plan Commission, returned home for lunch shortly before the incident occurred. The cause of the fire and the amount of damage have not been determined.

"The car, a 1969 Ford which was parked inside the garage, is a total loss and the garage is extensively damaged and burned," said Edwin Haberkamp, fire chief. "We are now investigating the incident to determine the cause of the fire."

Improvement Plans OK'd

Three public improvement plans were okayed by the Mount Prospect Village Board during their regular meeting Tuesday night.

The board approved plans submitted by the Fish-N-Chips drive-in restaurant, DiMucci's Golf and Busse development, and the Roth office building to be built on the corner of Golf and Linneman Road.

The Fish-N-Chips plans call for the installation of a six-inch cast iron water main, fire hydrant and sidewalks on Central Road at the intersection of Mount Prospect and Rand roads.

APPROVAL OF THE public improvement plans completes the requirements of village review and the drive-in may now begin construction.

The Golf and Busse development, owned by local builder Salvatore DiMucci, will provide for the installation of sidewalks, sanitary sewer, water main and appurtenances and trees on the village-owned parkway.

Approximately 1,500 feet of sidewalk are to be constructed along Golf, Busse and Oakwood Drive, and 28 trees are to be planted along the sidewalks in the parkway area.

PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS for the Roth office building to be built on the corner of Golf and Linneman Road.

The Roth plans call for sewers, pavement and basins as well as curbs along the streets.

Also approved by the village board was the appropriation of $3,900 for roof repair work for the municipal well building at 121 Waverly Ave.

Study of Traffic Is Almost Over

A traffic study, which was initiated earlier this year, is nearly completed, according to the Mount Prospect safety commission.

The study, which is being done to study existing traffic flow facilities in Mount Prospect and make suggestions for keeping up with village growth, is expected to be done by the end of the year.

Saturday safety commission members, Mayor Robert Teichert and Village Mgr. Virgil Barnett met with officials of Crawford, Bunte and Roden, Inc., the firm which was hired to make the study, to determine its progress.

IN ADDITION to traffic bottlenecks at the Chicago and North Western Railway tracks and Weller Creek, the firm is studying building up caused by commuter traffic and parking both in the morning and at night.

Traffic delays at the Central and Mount Prospect Roads crossings are also being studied by the firm.

Seale Is Sentenced

CHICAGO — District Court Judge Julius Hoffman yesterday declared a mistrial for Black Panther leader Bobby Seale on riot and conspiracy charges and sentenced him to four years in prison for contempt of court in courtroom outbreaks which have characterized the trial of the "Chicago Eight."

He ruled that the trial of the seven other defendants charged with conspiring to incite riots during the Democratic National Convention should continue.

Nixon Is Happy

WASHINGTON — One year after his election, President Nixon said yesterday, "We're going to come out well in the end." It was a happy day for Nixon, both because of his election a year ago and because of "a couple of big victories" Tuesday.

He was referring to the elections of Nixon-supported governors in Virginia and New Jersey.

Republicans Win

WASHINGTON — President Nixon refused yesterday to take personal credit for two major upsets of Democratic Party rule. Nixon had endorsed victorious candidates Rep. William Cahill as governor of New Jersey, and A. Lincoln Holton as governor of Virginia.

Democrats led New Jersey for 16 years and Virginia for 100 years, Nixon said he is "rather happy" about the elections.

Ogilvie Warns SIU

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Richard Ogilvie suggested yesterday that Southern Illinois University may be jeopardizing its future programs through the board of trustee's decision to build a $1 million mansion for its president.

"I would classify it (the mansion) as a very unfortunate decision. It is difficult to get substantial allocations for an institution when something like this occurs," he said.

Six Teens Charged

PHILADELPHIA — Jack Thomas, 52, jobless father of three children, was released from jail yesterday and six teenage neighbors who accused him of handing out trick-or-treat apples containing razor blades were arrested for filing a false police report.

Thomas was being held on $10,000 bail while a guard at the project in which he lived, Matthew Glekchi, 44, conducted a private investigation of the case. He persuaded the police to investigate further, leading to Thomas' release.

Kidnappers Kill Boy

SAN PAULO, Brazil — Unidentified kidnapers lived up to their threat and killed the 18-year-old son of an American director of the Brazilian affiliate of Swift and Co., meat packers, police said yesterday.

The boy, Patrick E. Dolan, was kidnapped last week but his parents did not report the incident because the kidnappers threatened to kill the boy. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Dolan, paid an undisclosed ransom last weekend.

"ROSIE" THE MACAW, a native of South America, sinks her claws into the shoulder of owner David Blaue during feeding time at the Van Oaks Pet Shop in Mount Prospect.

Rosie is one of many unusual pets Blaue has on hand for the customer looking for "something different."

A Pet To Catch Your Fancy

BY DAVE PALERMO

If you're one of those persons who would like to have the most unusual pet on the block, your local pet shop may be the place to go.

They have snakes, fish, birds and a variety of other animals, many of them tropical. And one of them is bound to catch your fancy.

"We have a baby boa for $12.95, said David Blaue, proprietor of Van Oaks Pet Shop in Mount Prospect Plaza.

"You mean the kind that squeeze things to death?" I asked.

"Uh-huh."

BLAUE, A FRIENDLY fellow with receding red hair, reached into a small glass tank and pulled out a snake about eight inches long. Immediately the reptile wrapped itself around his finger.

"Aren't they kind of dangerous? I mean

"Well, you have to use a bit of caution, but they're real fine pets."

"But, won't it grow up to be a big snake?"

"Oh sure, it may get to be 12-feet long in about 15 to 20 years."

"What do you feed it?"

"Animals. Mice, rabbits, hamsters and things like that."

"WHAT DO YOU DO with it when it gets big?"

"Oh, take it in the back yard and play with it."

"Personally, I like my Boas around four feet long — it gives me something to grab onto."

"I consider them to be semi-intelligent creatures, and they struggle strictly for food," he said. "You must, however, be careful and watch them closely when you let them out of confinement. If they get away, you may never find them again because they can get into any place."

Blaue recommends that boas be fed a small live animal when they are young, preferably a mouse or hamster, every three weeks. For an adult boa he advises one large rabbit a month as sufficient nourishment.

"THEY'RE VERY inactive creatures and require only a small glass container," he explained.

Blaue said a lot of persons buy boas, and mentioned that two were sold over the weekend to college coeds who planned to keep the snakes in a girls' dormitory.

Unwrapping the boa from around his hand and returning it to the cage, Blaue mentioned another unusual, but popular pet — the piranha fish.

"The piranha fish is popular because of its notoriety as being dangerous, but it is also a very beautiful fish," he said. "They're not harmful at all, if you are careful."

"They only attack if they think something is food or if they get excited," he said.

WHAT GETS A piranha excited?

"The story we like to tell is about a guy who put some meat into a bowl and the piranha laid back. When he reached in and jerked the meat out, it attacked. It was a stupid thing to do," said Blaue.

"For some reason people will fear a harmless snake, but don't believe a fish would bite."

Unlike most fish, a piranha won't shy away from the family cat, and young children must also be kept away from the bowls, he warned.

THE RED-BELLIED or red breasted piranhas are the more popular species and are also the most notorious that come out of the Amazon River in South America, according to Blaue.

"They range from 1½ to 10 inches long and cost anywhere from $3 to $75, depending on the size and species," he said.

Inhabiting two small glass cages in the pet shop are two large South American birds splattered with brilliant colors and each possessing large, powerful-looking beaks.

"They can talk," said Blaue. "However, it depends upon the ability and patience of the owner. They're very independent creatures and usually only speak when they feel like it."

LIKE THE BOA and the piranha, Blaue said the birds also can be dangerous if not cared for properly.

"They have the potential to be dangerous," he warned, "but if handled carefully they shouldn't be any trouble."

"They eat a special mixture of food you can buy at any pet store and they are becoming very popular. They cost $25."

Computers Reduce Skyway Crowding

by TOM JACHIMIEC

Steps are being taken by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) to reduce congestion in the crowded skies.

1 Plea in 5 Is Approved

It was a bad night for petitioners at the Mount Prospect Plan Commission meeting in the village hall.

Only one of five petitioners received approval from the commission for zoning variances last night.

Obtaining approval from the commission for rezoning was Paul Reimann of the Reimann Subdivision. He submitted a plat earlier last month but was required to show two houses not imposed on the original plan.

Enzo Prediani and Walter Shall, partners in the Windsor Estates subdivision on Golf Road, were denied rezoning requests pending changes in their plat to show a 66-foot-wide border for Cypress Drive south of Willow Lane.

ALSO DENIED APPROVAL by the plan commission was the proposed construction of a funeral home at 408 and 410 Road Road.

The request was denied because the area is primarily residential. There was no reason given why the lot could not be used as it is now zoned; it is opposite a public school and playground.

The commission denied a zoning variation for an apartment complex on a triangular piece of property in the Kenilworth Avenue-Lincoln Street area on the grounds that it would have an adverse effect on the surrounding property.

Rebuilding of a Standard Oil gas station at the southwest corner of Main and Kensington was postponed until residents living within 250 feet of the property can be given adequate notice of the rebuilding plans.

A new system known as area or off-course navigation has been put in use on an interim basis on 16 routes between major U.S. cities, including Chicago.

Through the use of computerized airborne navigational equipment, more routes are being made available to commercial airlines.

MAJOR BENEFITS FROM the system are reduced congestion and improvements in flight safety, as well as reduced workloads for air traffic controllers.

In conventional systems, all airways, sometimes called highways in the sky, run between ground-radio navigation transmitters known as VORs. Pilots can fly a precise course only directly toward or directly away from one of the transmitter sites.

Area navigation eliminates the need for a pilot to fly directly to or from a ground-based radio navigation aid.

With this technique, air routes can be established almost instantly to provide detours around congested areas, parallel routes in congested areas, straighter, shorter paths for long flights and one-way airways.

Area navigation also makes it possible for improved instrument approach capabilities, better location of holding patterns and greater navigation control by the pilot in areas which now require FAA controllers to vector aircraft by radar.

THE SYSTEM WILL result in savings of time to the airlines on flights between Chicago's O'Hare Airport and New York as well as other cities. Area navigation techniques also permit establishment of procedures tailored to STOL (Short Takeoff and Landing) aircraft and helicopter operations.

Another benefit is the possibility of establishing instrument approach procedures for airports which now may not be used when weather is bad.

William M. Flener, chief of the FAA's Air Traffic Service, said, "Area navigation looks promising for both controllers and pilots, relieving them of some workload. It may help in the terminal areas, and is almost certain to give us more leeway in the enroute portions of flight."

Sleep Tight —Think Fire

by GERRY DEZONNA

More than half the homes in Mount Prospect are potential fire hazards. And residents don't even know it.

The Mount Prospect Fire Prevention Bureau last week released the results of a home fire safety survey, which indicated that more than half the homes inspected last summer were unsafe and potential fire hazards.

Fire hazards noted by the bureau included dangerous accumulations of rubbish, improper storage of flammable liquids and paints, overloaded electrical circuits and defective extension cords.

AND AS A RESULT of such negligence and carelessness regarding fire safety precautions, more than 1,200 Americans lost their lives in fires last year.

"And the National Fire Protection Association estimates that at least 6,000 lives could be saved annually if residents allowed local fire departments and fire prevention bureaus to assist them in making their homes fire safe," Stuart McKillop, Mount Prospect fire inspector, said.

The Mount Prospect Fire Prevention Bureau, under the direction of Chief Edwin Haberkamp, conducts voluntary home fire inspections to assist residents in recognizing potential fire hazards in the home and to make recommendations for eliminating them.

The bureau inspects residences in the area strictly on a voluntary basis and only with the approval of the homeowner. The survey is not mandatory, and if a resident doesn't approve, that's his right.

LAST SUMMER, FIRE inspectors canvassed 385 homes, but inspected only 162 of these residences because homeowners refused the survey or were not at home at the time the survey was made. "From the 162 homes we inspected, we detected 88 fire hazards and conditions that could possibly cause a fire," McKillop said.

The survey consists of a checklist with 16 items, and the principal areas of concern are electrical and heating facilities and storage areas.

Firemen check for flammable liquids that may be improperly stored including painting materials, oily rags and improperly contained gasoline. The bureau noted that almost every homeowner uses a gasoline-powered lawn mower or snow blower, and gasoline is often stored incorrectly and dangerously in garages.

"Gasoline should be stored in a metal safety can. This is an airtight container with a high-tension cap, so if the container should tip over, the gasoline won't spill out. Gasoline should never be stored in a tightly-sealed glass jar or plastic container. Gasoline affects some kinds of plastic and dissolves it," McKillop said.

HE ALSO RECOMMENDS that residents who do not own a snow blower or use gasoline-powered outdoor equipment during the winter months, should empty all gasoline containers and drain lawn mower and motorcycle tanks before storing for a long period of time.

"We also check home fire extinguishers, if the resident owns one, and if not, we recommend an inexpensive, dry powder or chemical extinguisher. This is an all-purpose extinguisher that can be used for wood, electrical or petroleum fires and it's the safest one to use in the home," McKillop said.

Many residents own fire extinguishers that use carbon tetrachloride as an agent, which the bureau discourages.

Carbon tetrachloride, also a popular cleaning fluid, emits deadly and toxic fumes when exposed to heat. Carbon tetrachloride vapor, which is very hard to ventilate, is five times heavier than air, which makes it a good agent in combating fires because it smothers them, but these same fumes are hazardous to a person's health, and sometimes even fatal.

"IF A RESIDENT owns a carbon tetrachloride extinguisher, we warn him about the hazards involved in using it and try to encourage him to buy a safer extinguisher. I personally would like to see legislation banning the use of carbon tetrachloride extinguishers in public buildings and commercial businesses," McKillop said.

DEMONSTRATING use of computerized navigational equipment is Harry Graham, flight inspector pilot for the FAA. A system known as area navigation will reduce air traffic congestion along routes between O'Hare Airport and other cities.

Warman Backs Moratorium

by ED MURNANE
State Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 13th District, called Wednesday for Democratic support of the Nov. 13 through 15 Vietnam peace moratorium and said his own stand on Vietnam is closer to President Nixon's than the stand of his Republican opponent, Philip M. Crane of Winnetka.

Warman's remarks, confined strictly to the Vietnam War, were made at the 13th Congressional District Democratic Women's Club luncheon in Schaumburg.

He said he supports a "peaceful peace moratorium" as a means of showing "that this terrible war must end."

But he added his own stand on the war is closer to the policy outlined by the President Monday than is the stand of Crane.

"MOST RESPONSIBLE Americans now agree military victory is neither desirable nor attainable," Warman said. "And President Nixon, in his address to the nation Monday night, apparently ruled out seeking a military victory. If he did, I support that phase of his policy."

Warman said Crane's "true position" includes combing the harbor of Haiphong "and invoking bizarre economic sanctions like closing the Panama Canal." He said Crane "has found himself in an untenable position and since Nixon has apparently overruled a military victory, my opponent is further from Nixon's policies than I am."

He listed six points which he said he would foster if elected.

"I will press for large-scale troop withdrawals and support the President if I think he is showing good faith in his attempts to bring the troops back home. I think it is possible to have our fighting men back on American soil by the end of 1970."

"I will fight for free elections in Vietnam. To supervise that election, I will support a coalition government, including elements of the National Liberation Front and the Saigon regime."

"IF AFTER THOSE elections, there are numbers of Vietnamese who, seeing the American troops leave, fear for their lives, I will sponsor legislation to enable the United States to create and implement a voluntary resettlement program similar to the U.S. giving a home to 755,000 Cuban refugees. For the cost of one month's fighting in this war, we could resettle, in willing Asian countries, all those Vietnamese who, for one reason or another, want to leave their country."

"I will fight against the corrupt Saigon government."

"I will support the negotiations and urge the President and his advisers to be more sensitive to the hints of peace which have come from time to time from Hanoi and have been ignored by us."

"I will urge the President to remember that Vietnam is essentially a political struggle and as such, cannot be solved militarily."

WARMAN SAID Vietnam should be a "lesson for America" and the U.S. must find better ways "to be a protector of human liberty, human freedom and human dignity."

He said the United States is "a peaceful nation, seeking peace" and warned that illegal violence "by any leftist SDS weathermen or right-wing extremists" will not be tolerated.

About 200 Democratic women, and a handful of men, from throughout the 13th District attended the luncheon. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., had been scheduled to speak but was unable to attend.

The special 13th Congressional District election to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Donald Rumsfeld last spring is Nov. 25.

STATE REP. EDWARD A. Warman of Skokie, Democratic candidate for congress from the 13th District, called for Democratic support of the upcoming Vietnam War Peace Moratorium as a way of showing the war must end. Warman spoke to 13th District Democratic women in Schaumburg yesterday.

Graham Cites His Experience

Sen. John A. "Jack" Graham put his 11 years' experience in the state Senate up for challenge Wednesday in announcing intentions to seek reelection.

Graham, 57, a Barrington Republican, is seeking his fourth four-year term. In announcing his candidacy, he promoted Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's push to state fiscal responsibility and greater highway improvements.

In addition, Graham committed himself to attention to specific Third District problems of highways, waste control, flooding, education and law and order.

THE SENATOR SPOKE at a press conference in the Arlington Carousal Restaurant. He was surrounded by GOP committeemen from Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg and Palatine townships and said he has been pledged the support of the Northfield, Maine and Wheeling township organizations.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He noted he was sent to the Senate in 1966 with the largest Republican plurality of any other Republican senator.

"I bring with my candidacy 12 years of working with the general assembly, the experience of working on key committees and a knowledge and ability to work with the House, important to passage of meaningful legislation," Graham said.

IN HIS PREPARED ADDRESS, Graham discounted recent claims of Democratic State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III that Illinois will have a budget surplus next year. A voter for the sensitive issue of the state income tax, Graham said if there is a surplus, "the Republican-dominated legislature will face this head-on and will reduce taxes in the areas most critical."

He called Stevenson's charges "a political vehicle used by a man aspiring to the Potomac River."

Graham said he departed from his usual position on nonreferendum bond issues during the last general assembly to support the Metropolitan Sanitary District $280 million bond issue. He said Chicago voters would not have been in sympathy with the referendum, which would mainly benefit the suburbs.

He estimated $16 million will be issued shortly for projects in the northwest area.

GRAHAM SAID BECAUSE of the General Assembly's educational bills, the Third District will receive more than $8 million in additional state aid to common schools with no increase in the real estate tax.

He said he led opposition to a proposed two-cent gasoline tax on Cook County.

Car, Garage Destroyed

A fire yesterday afternoon destroyed a garage and car at the Eugene Martin residence, 710 N. Main Street, according to the Mount Prospect fire department.

Martin, a member of the Mount Prospect Plan Commission, returned home for lunch shortly before the incident occurred. The cause of the fire and the amount of damage have not been determined.

"The car, a 1969 Ford which was parked inside the garage, is a total loss and the garage is extensively damaged and burned," said Edwin Haberkamp, fire chief. "We are now investigating the incident to determine the cause of the fire."

Improvement Plans OK'd

Three public improvement plans were okayed by the Mount Prospect Village Board during their regular meeting Tuesday night.

The board approved plans submitted by the Fish-N-Chips drive-in restaurant, Di-Mucci's Golf and Busse development, and the Roth office building to be built on the corner of Golf and Linneman Road.

The Fish-N-Chips' plans call for the installation of a six-inch cast iron water main, fire hydrant and sidewalks on Central Road at the intersection of Mount Prospect and Rand roads.

APPROVAL OF THE public improvement plans completes the requirements of village review and the drive-in may now begin construction.

The Golf and Busse development, owned by local builder Salvatore DiMucci, will provide for the installation of sidewalks, sanitary sewer, water main and appurtenances and trees on the village-owned parkway.

Approximately 1,500 feet of sidewalk are to be constructed along Golf, Busse and Oakwood Drive, and 28 trees are to be planted along the sidewalks in the parkway area.

PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS for the Roth office building to be built on the corner of Golf and Linneman Road.

The Roth plans call for sewers, pavement and basins as well as curbs along the streets.

Also approved by the village board was the appropriation of $3,900 for roof repair work for the municipal well building at 121 Waverly Ave.

Laeske Seeks $2 Increase per Home

Laeske Disposal Co. requested an increase of $2 per month for single-family homes at their bearing last night with the Arlington Heights Village Board's finance committee.

Laeske's current contract which runs out the end of this month is $3.15 per home. Henry Laeske, sole manager of the firm, based the requested increase on the recent wage hike for garbage men. Their wages were raised from $3.89 per hour to $4.25 he said. The garbage men will receive another automatic increase next October.

Laeske also told the committee and citizens present, "Due to my father's illness I am now the complete manager of the business."

"I AM WATCHING the business real close and we've cut down our complaints 80 per cent. I'm going to make a lot of changes."

"A lot of our problems were in management, but we're on the right road now."

Committee chairman Frank Palmatier, said, "I had hoped you would state your formal position on a new contract with the village."

Edward Urbanski, a Laeske representative, said, "We can give service ranging from anywhere from $2 to $5 depending on the type of service the community wants."

"Maintaining the present level of service we would have to increase our rate, including dumping charges, to between $5 and $5.15."

"THE INCREASE is based primarily on the rising cost of labor," he said.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson asked, "Are you prepared to give this board a certified copy of your books?"

Urbanski quickly replied, "Yes, we are. We have nothing to hide and we want to cooperate."

Hanson said his office had been receiving many calls complaining about garbage. He asked Laeske another question.

"Will you extend the present contract for six months to prove to us you can do the job?"

Laeske answered, "Yes, we're willing to do that."

Trustee Dwight Walton asked what they intend to do to improve their service. Laeske said a public relations man has been hired to improve their communication with the village.

Fred Pepper, 1615 N. Arlington Heights Road, asked, "How many drivers and helpers do you employ?" Laeske said he has a very big turnover, but now employs 35 drivers and helpers, two mechanics and one supervisor.

Allen Krinsky, 2027 Rosehill Road, said,

"Your drivers have told me that there seems to be a push on now for better service."

"THE REGULARITY OF your pick-up has been very erratic and half the garbage in the area is left on the lawns and in the streets. We want the service we pay for."

Trustee William Griffin said, "I've averaged half a dozen phone calls about garbage every weekend since Memorial Day weekend." Trustee Charles Bennett echoed Griffin's comments saying that he was stopped in the street by people who complain about garbage.

There will be another meeting of the finance committee on Nov. 19. Laeske's formal proposal and a certified audit of their books will be presented at that session.

Koeneman Declares

Herman Koeneman of Arlington Heights, a candidate for a Cook County commissioner post in 1968, has announced he will run for the post of Wheeling Township Democratic committeeman in the March primary election.

Koeneman will oppose James L. McCabe, the present committeeman who has already announced he will seek election to a full term.

Koeneman said he decided to run for the office this week. "This decision has been made after numerous phone calls from area Democrats," he said.

KOENEMAN HAS LIVED in Arlington Heights 14 years. He was the vice president of the Wheeling Township Regular Democratic Organization from 1962 until 1964.

In 1966 Koeneman was an unsuccessful candidate for one of the Cook County commissioner's posts from the suburban area.

He ran unsuccessfully for the post of Wheeling Township assessor in 1968.

Koeneman has charged that McCabe, "in his two years as appointed, not elected, committeeman has done absolutely nothing for the Wheeling Township Democrats. Mr. McCabe, as committeeman, has shown no interest in township or village elections."

KOENEMAN'S FIRST objective, if elected, he said, "will be to open a headquarters office to serve the township voters for all their needs and keep the Democratic office continually available to the voters of Wheeling Township, not just before each election period."

Koeneman said he would not begin an active campaign until after the first of the year. "The support seems to be coming. It's a question of getting people out on election day."

Koeneman's opponent, McCabe, has received the support of James Stavros, former Democratic committeeman who retired in 1967 after 10 years in the office, and State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Third District.

STATE REP. EDWARD A. WARMAN of Skokie, Democratic candidate for congress from the 13th District, called for Democratic support of the upcoming Vietnam War Peace Moratorium as a way of showing the war must end. Warman spoke to 13th District Democratic women in Schaumburg yesterday.

Seale Is Sentenced

CHICAGO — District Court Judge Julius Hoffman yesterday declared a mistrial for Black Panther leader Bobby Seale on riot and conspiracy charges and sentenced him to four years in prison for contempt of court in courtroom outbreaks which have characterized the trial of the "Chicago Eight."

He ruled that the trial of the seven other defendants charged with conspiring to incite riots during the Democratic National Convention should continue.

Nixon Is Happy

WASHINGTON — One year after his election, President Nixon said yesterday, "We're going to come out well in the end." It was a happy day for Nixon, both because of his election a year ago and because of "a couple of big victories" Tuesday.

He was referring to the elections of Nixon-supported governors in Virginia and New Jersey.

Republicans Win

WASHINGTON — President Nixon refused yesterday to take personal credit for two major upsets of Democratic Party rule. Nixon had endorsed victorious candidates Rep. William Cahill as governor of New Jersey, and A. Lincoln Holton as governor of Virginia.

Democrats led New Jersey for 16 years and Virginia for 100 years. Nixon said he is "rather happy" about the elections.

Ogilvie Warns SIU

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. Richard Ogilvie suggested yesterday that Southern Illinois University may be jeopardizing its future programs through the board of trustee's decision to build a $1 million mansion for its president.

"I would classify it (the mansion) as a very unfortunate decision. It is difficult to get substantial allocations for an institution when something like this occurs," he said.

Six Teens Charged

PHILADELPHIA — Jack Thomas, 52, jobless father of three children, was released from jail yesterday and six teenage neighbors who accused him of handing out trick-or-treat apples containing razor blades were arrested for filing a false police report.

Thomas was being held on $10,000 bail while a guard at the project in which he lived, Matthew Glebocki, 44, conducted a private investigation of the case. He persuaded the police to investigate further, leading to Thomas' release.

Kidnappers Kill Boy

SAN PAULO, Brazil — Unidentified kidnapers lived up to their threat and killed the 18-year-old son of an American director of the Brazilian affiliate of Swift and Co., meat packers, police said yesterday. The boy, Patrick E. Dolan, was kidnapped last week but his parents did not report the incident because the kidnappers threatened to kill the boy. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Dolan, paid an undisclosed ransom last weekend.

Graham Backs Bid

Sen. John A. "Jack" Graham put his 11 years' experience in the state Senate up for challenge Wednesday in announcing intentions to seek reelection.

Graham, 57, a Barrington Republican, is seeking his fourth four-year term. In announcing his candidacy, he promoted Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's push to state fiscal responsibility and greater highway improvements.

In addition, Graham committed himself to attention to specific Third District problems of highways, waste control, flooding, education and law and order.

THE SENATOR SPOKE at a press conference in The Arlington Carousal Restaurant. He was surrounded by GOP committeemen from Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg and Palatine townships and said he has been pledged the support of the Northfield, Maine and Wheeling township organizations.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He said he expects no competition in the March 17 Republican primary, but would expect Democrats to put up opposition in the November general election. He had no guess on his probable opponent.

He noted he was sent to the Senate in 1966 with the largest Republican plurality of any other Republican senator.

"I bring with my candidacy 12 years of working with the general assembly, the experience of working on key committees and a knowledge and ability to work with the House, important to passage of meaningful legislation," Graham said.

IN HIS PREPARED ADDRESS, Graham discounted recent claims of Democratic State Treasurer Adlai Stevenson III that Illinois will have a budget surplus next year. A voter for the sensitive issue of the state income tax, Graham said, if there is a surplus, "the Republican-dominated legislature will face this head-on and will reduce taxes in the areas most critical."

He called Stevenson's charges "a political vehicle used by a man aspiring to the Potomac River."

Graham said he departed from his usual position on nonreferendum bond issues during the last general assembly to support the Metropolitan Sanitary District $300 million bond issue. He said Chicago voters would not have been in sympathy with the referendum, which would mainly benefit the suburbs.

He estimated $16 million will be issued shortly for projects in the northwest area.

GRAHAM SAID BECAUSE of the General Assembly's educational bills, the Third District will receive more than $6 million in additional state aid to common schools with no increase in the real estate tax.

He said he led opposition to a proposed two-cent gasoline tax on Cook County residents to subsidize the Chicago Transit Authority.

Graham was elected to the Senate in 1958 and has successfully won every bid for reelection.

Those attending Graham's luncheon and press conference were Committeemen Eugene Divitt of Hanover Township, Don Toten of Schaumburg Township, Bernard Pedersen of Palatine Township and Harold Smith of Barrington Township, and Committeewomen Mrs. Sally Catlin of Schaumburg Township and Mrs. Glen-Ann Jicha of Palatine Township.

Dick Hall, president of the Elk Grove Township Regular Republican organization, was present along with State Rep. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect. Mrs. Mary Schlott, legislative aide to State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, represented Schlickman.

Clinic OK Likely

The corner of Dryden and Kensington will soon see a new medical building, providing the Arlington Heights village board agrees with the recommendation made last night by the members of the plan commission.

Following an hour of discussion, eight members of the plan commission voted unanimously to allow a special use request for an "extended medical building to be built on property at the corner."

The property, now zoned R-5 (apartments) is owned by Dr. Donald Ewald who now uses a residential home on the property for his practice. Dr. Ewald wishes to construct another building adjacent to the present structure for use by other doctors.

ABOUT 10 homeowners of property near the proposed medical building extension appeared at the plan commission meeting to protest the granting of a special use permit. Local residents objected to what they considered to be an aggravation of traffic conditions on the corner and further encroachment of commercial enterprises east of Dryden on Kensington.

Warman Backs Moratorium

by ED MURNANE
State Rep. Edward Warman of Skokie, Democratic candidate for Congress from the 13th District, called Wednesday for Democratic support of the Nov. 13 through 15 Vietnam peace moratorium and said his own stand on Vietnam is closer to President Nixon's than the stand of his Republican opponent, Philip M. Crane of Winnetka.

Warman's remarks, confined strictly to the Vietnam War, were made at the 13th Congressional District Democratic Women's Club luncheon in Schaumburg.

He said he supports a "peaceful peace moratorium" as a means of showing "that this terrible war must end."

But he added his own stand on the war is closer to the policy outlined by the President Monday than is the stand of Crane.

"MOST RESPONSIBLE Americans now agree military victory is neither desirable nor attainable," Warman said. "And President Nixon, in his address to the nation Monday night, apparently ruled out seeking a military victory. If he did, I support that phase of his policy."

Warman said Crane's "true position" includes combing the harbor of Hapong "and invoking bizarre economic sanctions like closing the Panama Canal." He said Crane "has found himself in an untenable position and since Nixon has apparently overruled a military victory, my opponent is further from Nixon's policies than I am."

He listed six points which he said he would foster if elected.

"I will press for large-scale troop withdrawals and support the President if I think he is showing good faith in his attempts to bring the troops back home. I think it is possible to have our fighting men back on American soil by the end of 1970."

"I will fight for free elections in Vietnam. To supervise that election, I will support a coalition government, including elements of the National Liberation Front and the Saigon regime."

"IF AFTER THOSE elections, there are numbers of Vietnamese who, seeing the American troops leave, fear for their lives, I will sponsor legislation to enable the United States to create and implement a voluntary resettlement program similar to the U.S. giving a home to 755,000 Cuban refugees. For the cost of one month's fighting in this war, we could resettle, in willing Asian countries, all those Vietnamese who, for one reason or another, want to leave their country."

"I will fight against the corrupt Saigon government."

"I will support the negotiations and urge ing a military victory. If he did, I support that phase of his policy."

Fishing Season Ends

Fishing at Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St., Arlington Heights, will end tomorrow evening.

Anglers may fish for the live trout in the swimming pool from 3:30 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. either tonight or tomorrow night. The record for the largest fish caught during the program so far is a trout weighing one pound, eight ounces.

Fishermen must bring their own bait but poles, lines and hooks will be provided. The park district sponsored program will cost 50 cents per hour or per catch, whichever comes first.

the President and his advisers to be more sensitive to the hints of peace which have come from time to time from Hanoi and have been ignored by us.

"I will urge the President to remember that Vietnam is essentially a political struggle and as such, cannot be solved militarily."

WARMAN SAID Vietnam should be a "lesson for America" and the U.S. must find better ways "to be a protector of human liberty, human freedom and human dignity."

He said the United States is "a peaceful nation, seeking peace" and warned that illegal violence "by any leftist SDS weathermen or right-wing extremists" will not be tolerated.

About 200 Democratic women, and a handful of men, from throughout the 13th District attended the luncheon. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., had been scheduled to speak but was unable to attend.

The special 13th Congressional District election to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Donald Rumsfeld last spring is Nov. 25.

$100 Reward Set For Fifi's Return

A $100 award has been offered for the return of Fifi, a 10-pound black poodle which was stolen from the front yard of her home last week.

The miniature poodle was sitting on the parkway at 1303 N. Belmont Ave., Arlington Heights, when a neighbor noticed the theft at about 4 p.m. Oct. 29.

A 1968 white Skylark Buick with a black hardtop slowly pulled around the corner at Olive and Belmont and took the dog without stopping. Fifi's owner, William Mercer, has notified the police department.

Mercer had hoped the person responsible for Fifi's theft would read his ad in the lost and found column and return the pet for a reward of $100.

The dog owner is now hoping to obtain information of the dog's whereabouts. He has asked that anyone knowing of the incident or the person involved or noticing a new canine resident in the neighborhood that fits Fifi's description please contact him at 255-8102.

Gripe Now On Garbage

For residents who want to complain about garbage, the time is NOW.

As a newspaper, I guess we are considered some type of action group, expected to "get something done" about garbage pickup delays. We often receive complaints about pickup service, usually tempered by the comment that the caller has contacted village hall, Laseke Disposal Co. and then us — as a last resort. Callers say that maybe we can get some action.

We can't do too much, except report that a person has called and garbage schedules are behind for such-and-such a reason, according to the village's garbage contractor, Laseke Disposal Co.

HOWEVER, CITIZENS can do a lot. The village board's public relations committee held a meeting last night and members said more meetings will be held to discuss the garbage issue before a new contract for Laseke or another system is approved. Laseke's present contract with the village expires Nov. 30.

A few callers to our office have suggested that showing up at a public meeting on garbage to express their views wouldn't do any good. That's not true. The village board has shown it is more willing to listen to and sometimes vote no because residents protested.

Residents on Kennicott Avenue between Oakton Street and Northwest Highway found this to be true. They complained because of a proposed Board of Local Improvements' (BOLI) project calling for the widening of their street. The 36-foot wide proposed would destroy many trees on the heavily shaded avenue, they said.

THE VILLAGE BOARD listened and refused to approve BOLI's request for a guarantee of engineering fees on the project until BOLI investigated the matter of how many trees might be lost.

Members of the village board listened to those Kennicott residents. The officials tuned in to the citizens who were organized and presented good, specific reasons for their side. There were no wild shouting matches and no name-calling.

Residents should take the same approach to garbage. Homeowners associations, active groups in many areas of the village, should poll their memberships and send representatives to the garbage meetings. Block surveys of areas where there are no homeowner groups could be conducted with a representative sent to the hearings.

ORGANIZATION is the key word. A few irrational and irate homeowners speaking individually to the village board won't mean much. However, calm and well-thought-out presentations could produce the desired effect — a better garbage pickup system for the village. And now is the time to start working.

If you don't attend those meetings or have a representative there, don't call me the next time you want something to be done about garbage service. I won't have a bit of sympathy for you.

Ridge School Pupils To Hear Space Details

Ridge School fourth and fifth-grade students and their parents will learn about the space program in a special program tonight.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting will feature Lindy Davis, director of aerospace public affairs at Motorola, Inc. Davis, who has worked with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, will present slides on the Saturn V lift-off from the moment of ignition to about 50 miles high.

He also will use a model of Saturn V, constructed to exact detail and scale by NASA.

Davis served as public information officer at Cape Kennedy during the period of the Apollo fire tragedy. He is now touring the country on behalf of Motorola and speaking to school and adult groups about the space program. Motorola made the radio equipment for the Apollo 11 mission in July.

Oops—$7,000 Slip-up

A figure quoted in the story of the committee meeting of the Arlington Heights Park Board was incorrect.

In comparing receipts from this summer and the summer of 1968, a report submitted during the meeting stated this summer's receipts for swimming pool passes were down more than $3,800.

The figure was not $11,000 as reported in yesterday's Herald.

Police Department Slates Open House

The Arlington Heights Police Department will hold an open house at the station from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 7. The open house at the station is being held in conjunction with Chicago Law Enforcement Week.

According to Officer J. Plaisted of the Arlington force, the police department will have displays and exhibits concerning functions of law enforcement agencies.

Wheeling to Enter Sewer Business

Wheeling Township is taking the first step toward putting itself "in the sewer business."

The action comes as a result of an announcement last summer by the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) that after Jan. 1 it would issue sanitary sewer permits only to governmental agencies, such as townships and municipalities, and a utility companies.

Builders and developers in unincorporated portions of the township will begin applying to the township for sanitary sewer permits.

THE MSD ACTION will place the burden on the township of inspection, approval and perhaps even maintenance of sanitary sewers in unincorporated areas.

According to Mrs. Eitel Kolerus, Wheeling Township supervisor, the MSD plan will apply only to new sewer installations, not to existing sewers.

At Tuesday's Wheeling Township board meeting, Richard Cowen, township attorney, told the auditors he has begun work on a proposed ordinance setting up the township's sanitary sewer system.

Cowen told the board, however, he needs technical advice, preferably from an engineering firm, in drafting the new ordinance. As a result the board decided Monday to retain the engineering firm of Baxter and Woodman of Crystal Lake.

The firm was retained only for the purpose of technical advice. Whether the board decides to retain the firm after the system is set up is still to be decided. Funds to pay for Baxter and Woodman will come from the township's legal fees fund.

IN DISCUSSING the MSD plan, Cowen told the auditors, "This puts the township in the sewer business." Permit fees and usage charges will help pay for the new system.

According to Mark Clayton, Northfield Township supervisor, the general township funds cannot be used to pay for the new sewer system. Currently Northfield and Leyden townships already operate their own sewer systems.

Reason for the MSD plan, according to a letter by Forrest C. Neil, acting engineer for the MSD, was that the MSD's previous procedure was "inadequate." The letter said the MSD "has been accepting sewer permit applications from private individuals and corporations in unincorporated areas of Cook County."

The letter noted it is the responsibility of the sewer permit applicants to operate and maintain adequate sewers.

NEIL SAID IN his letter, "Our experience to date indicates this procedure is not adequate. We have discovered sewer systems which have failed because of a lack of maintenance resulting in raw sewage backing up into homes and creating a situation potentially hazardous to the occupants."

The new plan was drawn up by a committee, established by the MSD, to study the problem.

Mayor Atcher — County Clerk?

Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher may be a candidate for Cook County clerk in 1970.

Atcher told the Herald yesterday he was asked to appear before the Cook County Republican slatemaking committee Nov. 19. Atcher's candidacy for the clerk's position is being promoted by Schaumburg Township Committeeman Donald Totten, a member of the slatemaking committee.

Asked if he was interested in the clerk's position, Atcher said, "I'm not adverse to it. There is a tremendous amount of improvement needed in the county clerk's office, particularly as it relates to suburban areas."

He did not close the door to other county positions. "I would be interested in any office I have the talent to attend to," Atcher said.

ATCHER, 55, has been mayor of Schaumburg for 10 years. He is currently president of the Northwest Municipal Conference.

He views the county clerk's office as a full-time job. The mayor's post in Schaumburg is also full time. If he is elected, he will continue as mayor during the campaign period.

Atcher, well known as a singer and radio-television personality, said, "If elected county clerk, I would resign as mayor."

The county clerk's job is viewed as important by the political parties because the clerk is in charge of all election machinery and elections within the county.

The present clerk is Democrat Edward Barrett, 60, who has held the post since 1955. His political career began in 1930 when he served as state treasurer. He has also been state auditor and secretary of state. He's expected to run again but his age makes him vulnerable to defeat.

The Democrats have controlled the post since 1910.

"THE REPUBLICANS have a better chance of winning the clerk's office this year than before. Anyone involved in the last election realizes the books are not being properly kept. The voter registration books come out to us with people who belong not included and people who don't belong included," Atcher said.

The GOP has considered Barrett invincible in the past, Atcher said. "His Republican opponent was usually considered a sacrificial lamb," he said.

Totten said Atcher was also considered for a suburban Cook County commissioner, but the strength of his name would enhance GOP chances with Chicago voters. Suburban commissioners are elected by only suburban voters.

Other Republicans could also be introduced to the GOP slatemakers for county clerk. Reportedly no one has applied for any of the county offices that are up for election.

ATCHER RAN unsuccessfully for state senator from the Third District against incumbent John Graham in the primary in 1966. He also toyed with the idea of seeking the GOP nomination for the 13th District Congressional vacancy this summer.

The Schaumburg mayor has been active in Republican campaigns for county, state and national offices.

He has lived in Schaumburg Township since 1955 and played a major role in incorporating the village and its subsequent development.

Name Fund Drive Leader

Mrs. Henry Lustgarten, 1823 N. Fernandex Ave., has been named Arlington Heights Christmas Seal fund drive chairman for 1969.

The appointment was announced by John Carter, general Christmas Seal chairman for Chicago and suburban Cook County.

"Christmas seals help fight respiratory diseases ranging from the ancient scourge of tuberculosis to the growing problem of emphysema," Mrs. Lustgarten said.

"FUNDS RAISED BY Christmas Seals support the fight against these and other respiratory diseases as well as air pollution by providing research and educational programs," she said.

Mrs. Lustgarten is a member of the Arlington Heights Junior Women's Club, youth chairman for the seventh district of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs and a board member of its volunteer service bureau.

This year's Christmas Seal campaign begins Nov. 11 and will continue until the end of December. Last year a total of more than $1 million was raised in the Christmas Seal drives across the country.
